BI-PARTY GROUP IN SENATE AIMS TO SLASH COSTS

"Restore Economy" Is the Motto.

Washington, D. C., May 9.—[Special.]—Senate leaders of both parties agreed today to the formation of an "economy committee" whose object would be to restore to the economy bill many of the savings discarded by the house together with such additional provisions as may be devised in the senate.

There was no avowed connection between this decision, resulting from a suggestion by Senator Robinson of Arkansas, Democratic leader, and the two week-end conferences between President Hoover and leading Republican senators, but insistent demands for actual governmental economy were seen as important factors in the development of the new harmony program.

The new economy committee, which will in reality be a subcommittee of the senate appropriations committee, will probably be named tomorrow and will be strictly bipartisan, it is generally understood, and probably include three Republicans and three Democrats.

Watson "Heartily Concurs."

Immediately after Senator Robinson proposed such a committee, during debate on the floor, Senator Watson, Republican leader, rose to "heartily concur in the suggestion of the senator from Arkansas." The committee may be named either by the Vice President under a senate resolution or by Chairman Jones of the appropriations committee.

The so-called economy bill, pared to about $30,000,000 by the house, is before the senate appropriations group as a "rider" to the legislative appropriation bill.

It is believed in official circles that the senate will restore enough economies to the bill to effect the saving of about $200,000,000 suggested by the President. Administration leaders were sufficiently encouraged by this and other developments to express the belief that both the revenue and economy bills may be passed by June 1.

House Members Offer Aid.

Soon after the senate tacitly agreed to set up its own economy committee Chairman McDuffie of the house economy committee, and Representative Ramseyer, a member, called on Senators Watson, Robinson, Dickinson and McKellar to offer their aid to the proposed committee.

The house committee had already met in the morning to devise methods of coöperating with the senate appropriations committee.

No secret was made by either senators or representatives of the fact that the senate is expected to pass "a real" economy bill on the lines originally presented to the house and thus to put squarely before the house again the question of whether or not it will support a drastic economy program.

Aim at 200 Million Cut.

Following the visit to the senate by Representatives McDuffie and Ramseyer Senator Dickinson, who was at the White House last night, said the senate intended to restore the President's recommendations to the bill, raising the savings from about $30,000,000 as passed by the house to the original estimate of $200,000,000. Senator Robinson was less specific.

"We did not discuss a new omnibus bill or any other definite plan for additional savings," Mr. McDuffie said after making his offer of assistance. "The committee thought the best way to help was to offer our advisory services to the senate appropriations committee, as we are familiar with the plans for saving money, and our offer was accepted in good spirit."

Pounce on Senator Oddie.

The need for coördination of the party groups on economy brought home during today's senate session when Democratic senators pounced full cry after Senator Tasker L. Oddie, [Rep., Nev.], chairman of the postoffice committee, and his resolution seeking to rescind the senate's recent order to cut the treasury and postoffice appropriations 10 per cent.

Joining in with the Democrats were Senators James Couzens [Rep., Mich.] and William E. Borah [radical Rep., Idaho].

To judge by the furor which beat about Mr. Oddie's head his Democratic and nonregular colleagues suspected that there was more than economy behind his argument that a 10 per cent cut might throw 40,000 postal employés and 2,000 customs inspectors out of work. It was hinted that with the conventions and the cam-

EX-CITY SEALER WAITS VERDICT LATE IN NIGHT

Judge Is Called In for Information.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.

The jury in the Serritella-Hochstein conspiracy trial was unable to agree last night after several hours of deliberation, and at 12:15 o'clock this morning Judge James J. Kelly ordered the jurors locked up for the night. They will resume their arguments at 10 o'clock this morning.

The case against Dan Serritella, Capone henchman and city sealer under the former city administration, and Harry Hochstein, 20th ward politician who was deputy sealer under Serritella, was given to the jury by Judge Kelly at 9:25 o'clock last night.

Jury Calls for Judge.

While no information as to how the jury stood was available, an incident occurring during their deliberations was hailed by the prosecution as significant.

The jurors sent word to Judge Kelly that they wanted him to come to the jury room. Although the customary practice is for all proceedings, especially any instructions or communications to the jury, to be conducted or given in open court in the presence of all the parties, Judge Kelly consulted with the lawyers in the case and then went to the jury room.

Although the judge refused to disclose the reasons given by the jurors for summoning him, it was learned that they asked for more definite information as to where defendants would be confined if sentenced to imprisonment for less than one year. Judge Kelly told the jury, it was understood, that any sentence of less than one year would be served in the county jail.

Recalls His Instructions.

Judge Kelly, it was stated, further informed the jurors that under his instructions and under the law the jurors might, after finding the defendants guilty, sentence them to imprisonment in the county jail for a period of not to exceed one year, or imprisonment in the state penitentiary for a period of not less than one year nor more than five years. The jurors might also impose a fine on the defendants not to exceed $2,000, and they might impose both fine and one or the other types of imprisonment, Judge Kelly explained.

The defendants and their lawyers had shown an air of confidence that a speedy acquittal would be voted, but their smiles and easy airs faded as the jurors continued to wrangle, and when word of the jurors' request for information as to types of imprisonment was conveyed to them the smiles had turned to frowns. However, lawyers accustomed to the vagaries of jurors said it was unwise to speculate on any of their actions. They recalled one case in which such information was sought to settle a side bet between two of the jurors.

Charge Plot to Cheat Public.

In the closing arguments to the jury, Assistant State's Attorneys Harold Keele and Henry Seyfarth declared that the evidence had proved conclusively that Serritella and Hochstein had entered into a conspiracy to permit butchers and grocers throughout the city to defraud Chicago housewives of millions of dollars through short-weight schemes.

The two defendants had testified in their own defense yesterday, and their attorneys argued to the jurors that the prosecution was politically inspired, and that the only offenses proved against Serritella and Hochstein was that they contributed Christmas baskets to the poor.

Cite Chain Store Gifts.

The prosecutors in their closing arguments stressed the testimony of witnesses who had shown that chain store companies donated provisions to fill the Christmas baskets distributed by the Serritella political organization, and that one of them had given $250 in cash to Serritella and Hochstein. The defendants, in return for these gifts, the prosecutors argued, allowed the merchants to cheat their patrons. Witnesses for the state had testified to making purchases in the various chain stores, and of being cheated of sums ranging from several cents to as high as 20 cents on each purchase.

Cheat Many to Feed Few.

"Gentlemen," argued Mr. Seyfarth, "this is not a case of whether or not the poor should be fed. The question you have to determine is whether 1,500 families in Serritella's ward must

Texas Storm Perils Akron Flying West

BULLETIN.

San Angelo, Tex., May 10 (Tuesday).—(AP)—The navy dirigible Akron had drifted out of sight below Christoval, southwest of here, shortly before 1 a. m. (C. S. T.). The area between San Angelo and El Paso on the Akron's route to the Pacific coast was in a terrific storm zone, according to weather reports. Hail north of San Angelo was reported heavy. At 1:15 a. m. the Akron was sighted over Eldorado, 48 miles south of San Angelo, traveling toward San Antonio. It still was in the storm area.

San Angelo, Tex., May 9.—(AP)—The naval dirigible Akron at 11:20 p. m. [C. T. S.] signaled to land at the San Angelo airport and called for a landing crew of 500 men.

The giant ship had encountered electrical disturbances and storms between San Antonio, Tex., and San Angelo, and more were in prospect west of San Angelo.

The Akron, heading from Lakehurst, N. J., to the west coast, first flew over San Angelo at 10:30 p. m., flying low and continuing west. A short time later it doubled back.

Sends Flashlight Signals.

The ship sent flashlight signals to operators on the ground, asking that the city's entire population be congregated if necessary in an attempt to ground the dirigible.

Thunderstorms were reported in virtually all directions and there was a violent electrical display west of San Angelo on the ship's route to the Pacific coast for naval maneuvers.

More than 600 residents of San Angelo were assembled through the use of a radio, telephones, messengers, and the fire siren to help land the Akron.

It was raining hard and the electrical storm was violent. Observers believed the ship retreated to Christoval to wait until the storm had ceased.

The airport here comprises 256 acres, one of the largest landing fields in west Texas. Residents were at a loss to know to what the ship could be moored, as they said the hangar "wouldn't hold it."

Sees Distress Signals.

Capt. Homer Freed, disabled veteran of the air corps, saw signals which he took to be distress warnings when the ship approached San Angelo shortly after 10 o'clock. He phoned Maj. Fred Martin at Randolph field, San Antonio.

Maj. Martin got in communication with the ship, then told Capt. Freed to have a landing crew assembled. The 500 or more were gathered in about an hour.

SON DROPS DEAD BEARING WORD OF MOTHER'S DEATH

Mrs. Carolina Wilson, 58 years old, who had been ill of heart disease for several months, died yesterday at her home, 3358 South Wood street.

At her bedside were her husband, Valentine, and her son, James, 30 years old. James was sent by his father to carry the news of Mrs. Wilson's death to her daughter, Mrs. William Moore, 3341 South Wood street.

"Mother just died," he gasped as Mrs. Moore and her husband lifted him in.

Those were his last words. He died a few minutes later of a heart attack.

Woman Senator Presides for First Time in History

Washington, D. C., May 9.—(AP)—Senate history was made today. Mrs. Caraway, Democratic senator from Arkansas, presided over the chamber. Vice President Curtis invited her to the presiding officer's desk. It was the first time a woman had ever held the gavel. Her brief rule in the chair was uneventful. Senator Glass [Dem., Va.] held the floor uninterruptedly and no question of procedure arose for the diminutive, quiet lady from Arkansas to pass upon. Mrs. Caraway announced today that she is a candidate for renomination in the Democratic primaries Aug. 9.

Bomb Causes $2,000 Loss in Dyers' Plant

Tossed through the front window, a dynamite bomb was exploded early this morning in the West Suburban Cleaners and Dyers' plant at 5540 West Division street. The families of Alfred Miller, owner of the place, and Ernest Thompson, occupying upper floors, were shaken.

The missile was thrown by one of several men who circled the place in a sedan. Arthur Williams of 4637 Calumet avenue, a Negro presser, was alone in the shop. He ran forward, saw the sputtering bomb, and fled to the outside as it burst. The blast ruined some equipment and destroyed several suits and cracked the ceiling just under the office floor of Dr. Charles J. Goebel, a dentist.

Owner Knows No Reason.

Miller told Lieut. James O'Brien of the Austin station he had received no threats. He is not a member of the Cleaners and Dyers' institute which regulates prices, he said. Lieut. O'Brien estimated the damage at about $2,000.

Bomb Racing News Office.

Windows and doors of a suite of offices occupied by the Program Publishing company, a racing information service, on the third floor at 506 South Wabash avenue, were shattered late last night by the explosion of a small bomb.

In the office at the time were Frank Sharp, 844 East 64th street, manager of the concern, and David Satton, 6336 Drexel avenue, a handicapper. They were uninjured. Apparently the bombers had climbed the stairs and fled after placing the explosive.

Sharp said that Jack Mulvaney and Charles Funk were owners of the company. The Program Publishing company entered the race information field only about a week ago. Daily it prints and sells a program giving race entries and selections.

Divorcee Tells How Romance Cost $5,000

BY KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.

When a demure young divorcée on the witness stand confessed she had paid $5,000 for the privilege of tossing bouquets at a middle aged married motorman because she was afraid of his wife, a jury in the Circuit court at Wheaton yesterday giggled more than a bit. The jurors also leaned across each other for surreptitious peeks at the apex of this triangle—Albert Gregory, who sat cuddled against his spouse's shoulder in the front row. The spectators snickered audibly.

For even his best friend would not accuse Albert of rivaling Adonis. He boasts neither the Barrymore profile nor the Weissmuller physique. He is iron gray of hair and weatherbeaten of countenance, with a long nose and prominent brown eyes. Yet the slim blond in the trim black silk suit and vagabond black hat undeniably thought well of him when it all happened, six years ago.

Sues to Recover Cash.

Mrs. Jessie Erickson of Elmhurst, whose former husband tooted a French horn in the Chicago Symphony orchestra, brought the hitherto mysterious suit to get back her $5,000 from Albert Gregory and Grace, his wife. Mrs. Gregory was once a deputy sheriff in Wheaton, an ardent prohibition crusader and is said to be studying law at Northwestern university.

Opening the suit before Judge Claude W. Shepherd, Attorney Glenn T. Johnson of Aurora for the plaintiff, told the jury that evidence would show that Mrs. Erickson and Gregory became acquainted in 1923, when she was making weekly trips to Chicago on his Aurora and Elgin line run. Mrs. Erickson raised flowers, and Gregory was an ardent horticulturist. She tossed him a posey one morning. That started it.

Their friendship flowered along botanical lines. They progressed from chatter of gardens to exchanges of lily buds and hyacinth bulbs, to slips of rose bushes and thence to slices of pie and slabs of cake, Gregory having by this time discovered Mrs. Erickson's culinary skill. But the Dresden doll beauty who brought the suit denied indignantly that it had ever reached the point where she conferred a whole roast duck on him one Thanksgiving, as the defense contends.

Accused by Motorman's Wife.

On primary election morning in April of 1926, Attorney Johnson declared and Mrs. Erickson testified, the latter was roused at 6 o'clock by Mrs. Gregory storming her front door with accusations that her husband had spent the previous night there. Mrs. Gregory, Mrs. Erickson asserted on the stand, made a peremptory demand:

"You've got a $14,000 house here," the witness quoted, "and I'm asking you to get me $5,000—less than half of it, right away. You've wronged me and broken up my home, and you've got to settle."

This scene was followed by many telephone calls and demands for the money, Mrs. Erickson informed the jury. Eventually, early in May, Mrs. Gregory phoned and ordered her to come to the Gregory home at Wheaton at once to settle the matter.

"Can Shoot Straight."

"She said," stated the younger women, "'I wasn't born on a ranch in Canada for nothing, and I can shoot pretty straight. You better get over here.' I didn't see why I shouldn't go, so I did. Albert met me at the door. She got down a lot of law books and read me the law, but I didn't know what it was all about.

"Finally she shoved a promissory note across for $5,000, and I signed it. I didn't see what else I could do, because she said she'd make me a lot of notoriety and a lawsuit if I didn't. Then she told me she'd give me sixty days to pay."

Pays Over the Money.

Within the time limit the $5,000 was paid by check, Mrs. Erickson having mortgaged her home to raise the money.

The Gregorys will probably take the stand today, Mrs. Gregory to assert that her rival paid the $5,000 for having alienated the affections of Albert, and that the amount was justly due her as a wronged wife. It is the contention of the defense, represented by Attorney Charles W. Hadley, that Mrs. Erickson frequently accompanied Gregory to St. Charles, where they rambled in the woods and transgressed the conventions. This was denied yesterday from the stand by Mrs. Erickson.

Asked what his testimony would be when called, Gregory grinned. "Wait and see," he tossed back coquettishly.

STRAYER URGES 15 MILLION CUT IN SCHOOL COST

Shows Board Where to Make Trims.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

A reduction of $15,603,505 in the school board budget, on a yearly basis, was recommended to the trustees yesterday by Dr. George D. Strayer of Columbia university in a preliminary report on a survey of the Chicago public school system. This recommendation, if adopted, would reduce the board's budget for 1932 from $90,180,263 to $74,576,758.

Dr. Strayer classed $3,846,419 of the proposed reduction as savings and the remaining $11,757,086 as deferred expense. The larger item is composed of appropriations for sites, new buildings, and permanent improvements. Dr. Strayer suggested that under present conditions these latter expenditures be postponed.

Suggests Closing Schools.

The reduction of $3,846,419 in current expenditures is as far as the staff of Columbia university is willing to go. Recognizing that the board may not be able to get $74,576,000 in revenue this year, Dr. Strayer said that his staff recommends the closing of the schools when the money runs out.

"If the money is not available for operating the schools," he said, "the only legitimate method to be pursued is to close the schools. That is our deliberate judgment after considering the matter from every angle we could conceive. It will teach the people what they are getting in their public school system and is the only way to bring those groups who refuse to pay their taxes to the point where they will pay.

"Robbery of the Children."

"Beyond the retrenchment we have recommended we cannot go. If you must go farther, close the schools. Do not seriously decrease the educational service. Preserve the organization. Make known to the people that their children have been robbed of their right to an education."

"You would not consider reduction of salaries?" asked Trustee H. Wallace Caldwell.

"The teachers have been cut from 7½ to 20 per cent," replied Dr. Strayer, "and it would not be good policy to reduce teachers' salaries further."

"Suppose that the unions and the teachers would indicate a preference for a salary reduction to the closing of the schools," suggested Trustee Orville Taylor.

Close Up, Is His Advice.

"I actually believe," answered Dr. Strayer, "that many will not recognize the value of the educational service they are getting until they lose it. If money is not available, close the schools."

"Suppose we cannot get more than $50,000,000," suggested Trustee Taylor.

"Would you say, close the door?"

"Yes, close the door," said Dr. Strayer. "The people cannot have what they will not pay for. A solution of the situation may mean a revision of your revenue system. New York did that."

"Would you recommend that the children be put out on the streets instead of on half time in school?" asked Lewis E. Myers, president of the board.

Unwilling to Wreck System.

"Would you be willing to cut the school system to fit the money we would have to spend?" asked Trustee Ernest Buehler.

"I am unwilling to do that," shot back Dr. Strayer. "I am unwilling to tear the system to pieces, wreck it, and then attempt to put it together again. In the discussion that has been going on it has been suggested there are some things in the system which are unimportant and others that are important.

"One of the unimportant features has been said to be physical education. I cannot imagine that physical training is unimportant under present economic conditions. Music and art have been referred to as of minor importance. When men became civilized enough not to kill they began to draw pictures. Music and art are marks of civilization. Some of these things referred to as fads and frills are fundamentals."

Private View of Trustee.

In the board meeting the trustees were profuse in expressing appreciation for the recommendations of Dr. Strayer's group, but after the meeting one of the trustees said privately:

"The cut of $11,757,000 which Dr. Strayer recommends in permanent improvements is largely for new buildings under construction which the state law requires us to appropriate for, according to my information. We cannot get the money to complete these buildings and necessarily that cash will not be spent. So, in that respect, Dr. Strayer has recommended exactly what we intended to do.

"Since half of the school year is nearly gone, we will save only half of his other cut of $3,846,000 if we adopt his suggestions."

Teachers Appear Pleased.

The representatives of the teachers' organizations who attended the meeting appeared delighted with the preliminary report of the survey. As summarized by Dr. Strayer, the reductions in expenditures are distributed as follows:

Function.	Amount.
Instruction service	$ 561,000
Operation of plant	1,775,741
Maintenance of plant	1,050,000
Administration	331,639
Auxiliary agencies	128,039
Capital outlay	11,757,088
Total	$15,603,505

The decrease in the cost of instruction is relatively small in comparison with other cuts recommended by Dr. Strayer. This, he explained, is because "instruction bore the brunt of the reduction in current expenses in the 1932 budget."

"Instruction was cut 11.6 per cent in the 1932 budget," said Dr. Strayer. "Other items of current expense considered as a group were increased 7 per cent, but in fairness some of these items were beyond the control of the board.

Instruction Costs Lower Here.

"Costs per pupil for instruction in Chicago are lower than in most large cities, and are substantially lower than in New York City. Cost per pupil for instruction in Chicago will be substantially less in 1932 than it was in 1924. It would require an increase of more than $2,000,000 in the 1932 budget for instruction to provide the same amount per pupil for this purpose as was expended in 1924."

The $561,000 cut in instruction service is to be accomplished by increasing the average pupil membership per teacher from 34 to 40 in the sixth, seventh, and eighth grades. Special teachers care for the pupils under the present system while the regular teacher rests, according to Dr. Strayer. Under his plan the regular teachers of these grades would put in a full school day.

The $1,775,741 saving in the operation of the plant is to be accomplished by eliminating 502 persons from the pay roll and by reducing the "unusually high salaries paid the personnel" in the heating, cleaning, and operation of the schoolhouses.

Propose Economy in Coal.

These cuts are to reduce the expense of plant operation by $1,626,157. In addition another of $128,008 and another of $21,576 are to be accomplished by more efficient operation of the school boilers and by the use of an economical type of coal.

On the maintenance of the school buildings, Dr. Strayer would save $300,000 in engineering repairs and $750,000 on building repairs, a total of $1,050,000, "without interfering with the effective operation of the schools and without danger of serious deterioration of school equipment or buildings."

On business administration Chicago spends more than other large cities while on educational administration Dr. Strayer said, it spends less. As a whole Chicago spends more on school administration than Cleveland, Detroit, New York or Philadelphia, and Dr. Strayer reckoned that $331,632 might be saved here.

Would Trim Playgrounds.

Under the heading of auxiliary agencies, Dr. Strayer recommended that $128,039 be trimmed from the playground appropriations. He said that this was once taken out of the budget and then put back again. This is one of the changes in figures which were authorized in committee. Under that authorization several changes were made in the figures on educational administration.

On capital outlay Dr. Strayer recommended that $250,000 for permanent improvements, $10,607,086 for new buildings, $500,000 for new sites, and $400,000 for the bureau of architecture be eliminated from proposed expenditures for this year.

Gives an Illustration.

To illustrate, Dr. Strayer argued that if no buildings are to be built, there is no need for an architect's office. In reply to questions, however, he indicated that there are some buildings under construction which should be finished.

The board adopted a resolution asking Dr. Strayer to submit the sort of an educational system he would recommend, if the board has to trim its budget $10,000,000 or $20,000,000 or $30,000,000.

The complete survey report, which Dr. Strayer said will cover 10 volumes, will be delivered to the board by June 1. It is now being mimeographed at Columbia university.

GLASS LINKS U. S. OFFICIALS TO 1929 CRASH

Declares Reserve Bank Shares Blame.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 9.—[Special.]—Sensational charges of the prevalence of unlawful and reprehensible banking practices, which contributed largely to the economic debacle of 1929, and of the responsibility of federal authorities for the exploitation of the investing public fell unchallenged from the lips of Senator Carter Glass [Dem., Va.] when he opened the debate on the Glass banking reform bill in the senate today.

The senator assailed the federal reserve board as a weak and vacillating body that has maladministered the law, permitted the financing of speculation, allowed virtual creating of a central bank and indulged in foolish and dangerous efforts to influence commodity prices.

Bar Loans for Stock Gambling.

The Glass bill aims to make it impossible in the future for banks to make loans for stock gambling purposes, to break up the practice of banks establishing affiliated corporations to engage in business forbidden to the parent banks, and otherwise to reform conditions in the banking system of the country. The bill apparently commands the support of a majority of the senate and is expected to be passed this week with some modification.

The fiery little Virginia editor, who was one of the principal authors of the federal reserve act, painted a lurid picture of the great banks forcing billions of dollars of worthless foreign securities upon the American public through subservient country banks, all with the blessing of the American state department in defiance of a senate injunction to the contrary.

In enacting the federal reserve act, said Senator Glass, "we undertook to rescue the country bank from involuntary servitude to the great banks in the money centers, but we failed to do that. They still are in involuntary servitude, and right now, as I am receiving telegrams of protest from the money centers against a proposition to have branch banking in the national system, the very bankers who are sending the telegrams know perfectly well that they have, some of them, as many as 5,000 correspondent banks throughout the country which are in involuntary servitude to them.

Under Obligations to Banks.

"They know that by granting these banks privileges and giving them accommodations they put them under obligations so that advice from a great bank in a money center amounts in the last analysis to coercion. The country today is witnessing the vicious results of a system of that sort."

"Is not that the very method that was used in order to induce the correspondent banks to take many of these foreign securities?" asked Senator James E. Watson [Rep., Ind.].

"It was because of that system of involuntary servitude," Senator Glass replied, "that these great banks in the money centers choked the portfolios of their correspondent banks from Maine to California with utterly worthless investment securities, eight billions of them being the investment securities of tottering South American republics and other foreign countries.

Hits State Department.

"Incidentally, I may remark that the state department is largely culpable for the extent of these worthless loans. It assumed without sanction of law, and without precedent of any sort, the impossible function of passing on foreign loans. A little clerk up there devoid of facilities of examination or of inquiry or of estimation undertook to say whether a foreign loan was acceptable or unacceptable to this government, with the result that these foreign investment securities would go into the open market practically with the imprimatur of this government upon them in competition with sound domestic loans seeking credits for the purpose of promoting our commerce and our industrial life.

"I say the state department is largely responsible for its part in promoting credits of this kind; and notwithstanding the senate by unanimous vote, without a word of dissent, passed a resolution expressing it as the sense of this body that the state department should desist from this evil practice, we were laughed at, and the newspapers the next day announced that the secretary of state would pay no attention to the expressed conviction of the senate that it was engaged in a lawless practice."

Sharply Criticizes Reserve Bank.

Senator Glass adverted caustically to the greater concern of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York for conditions in Europe than in America. It was the late Benjamin Strong, governor of this bank, who, at the instance of Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England, brought about the reduction of the American rediscount rate in 1927, thereby promoting the stock speculation orgy.

"For a period of six years," said Mr. Glass, "one of the federal reserve banks has given more attention to stabilizing Europe and to making enormous loans to European institutions than it has given to stabilizing America. Accordingly, we have a provision in this bill asserting in somewhat plainer terms the restraint the federal reserve supervisory authority here at Washington should exercise over the foreign and open market operations of a bank which assumes to be the central bank of America. We did not think that we were having a central bank. We thought we were having twelve regional banks.

Operations Are Extensive.

"The operations of this bank are so extensive that it found itself liable for hundreds of millions of dollars of foreign acceptances which could not be collected, which had to be renewed at maturity, just a sort of revolving fund which was absolutely foreign to the intent and, as I contend, to the text of the federal reserve act.

"For a long time that great bank resisted any suggestion—and it does now—that it should be brought within limitations by the central authority here at Washington. At one time it was so—and I think it is now—that all Europe regarded this federal reserve bank as the central bank of the United States.

"When its governor would go abroad he was accorded the privilege of an office and a stenographer in the Bank of England, and he was spoken of as the governor of the central bank of the United States.

"In turn, when the governors of the foreign banks, the Bank of England and the continental banks would come here they came by invitation and notification to the governor of this one federal reserve bank, and two members of the federal reserve board once told me that the only contact this central supervising power at Washington ever had with one of these foreign central bank presidents was by courtesy of the governor of this particular federal reserve bank. There is not a word in the law which provides for a governor of a federal reserve bank."

Senator Rakes Reserve Board.

The senator raked the federal reserve board fore and aft for permitting departures from the express provisions and true intent of the law and ridiculed the present open market purchase of government securities by the system for the purpose of boosting commodity prices.

"The system has been transformed," Senator Glass said. "The open market operations of one bank alone have practically submerged the rediscount phase of banking. In their open market operations they have never bought a dollar of commercial paper. It is rather based upon agriculture or other industrial activities, or trade and commerce. They have not stopped to build up a market for commercial paper which might be bought in the open, and thereby made more valuable than it otherwise might be.

"They have bought investment securities. They have bought by the millions United States bonds for which they have no use and are doing it today in a futile effort to control prices with about as much prospect of controlling prices as I would have of taking a broom straw and sweeping Niagara upstream.

Abate Fears of Withdrawal.

"They may improve the facilities of certain banks in the money centers and make them more liquid than they are and thereby abate their fears of withdrawal. They are doing this with the future expectation that those great banks are going to philanthropically drop their prosperity down upon the inferior banks of the country. They have not moved the price of the staple products one stiver and would not do it unless they have discovered something that nobody else on earth has ever discovered, and that is by manipulation or legislation one can control the inexorable law of supply and demand."

Senator Glass charged that bank affiliates constituted "one of the greatest contributions to the unprecedented disaster that has caused this most incurable depression."

"They sent out their high pressure salesmen," he went on, "and they literally filled the bank portfolios of this country, of their corresponding banks or of any banks upon which they might make an impression, with these investment securities. They actually dealt in the stocks of the parent bank; one of them, notably, offended by running the stock of a parent bank above 500 and in a few days it was down to 42. They were organized to evade the law. That is the very purpose of their existence—to evade the national bank act and to do a business outlawed by the national bank act—and yet they are so interlocking that it is difficult to tell which is which.

Parent Bank Loses 18 Million.

"In one case last year the parent bank lost 18 million dollars by unwise investment and speculation, and the affiliate 57 millions—the stupendous sum of 75 million dollars lost."

The senator then displayed an opinion by Solicitor General Frederick W. Lehman, in the Taft administration, that bank affiliates are illegal. No action ever was taken in consonance with the opinion, which was suppressed for more than twenty years by influences, which Mr. Glass said "illustrates the power and blandishments of inordinate wealth."

TEACHERS' LEADERS POSTPONE JUDGMENT ON STRAYER'S PLAN

Members of the joint board of teacher unions met yesterday afternoon in their headquarters at 506 South Wabash avenue to discuss the recommendations of Dr. George D. Strayer of Columbia university on reductions in the school budget. The proposals were made before the board of education earlier in the afternoon.

Any action the union board may take in regard to the Strayer program will occur after a complete report of the Columbia university survey of the school system is made, according to Miss Agnes Clohesy, who presided at the meeting. The detailed report has been promised for June 1.

A majority of the teachers said they were in favor of Dr. Strayer's recommendations. "The report shows that the excessive costs have been in the business end of the school system," said James A. Meade, president of the Men Teachers' union, and a member of the joint board.

HUNT HOODLUMS NAMED IN ATTACK ON POLICE SQUAD

Philip Mangano, brother of "Dago Lawrence" Mangano, west side hoodlum, and William Bioff, alleged pander recruit to the Mangano syndicate, were sought last night on orders of Capt. John Stege of the Des Plaines street station as two of the five hoodlums who, during the afternoon, fired twice with machine guns on a police squad.

"We have positive identifications that Phil Mangano and Bioff were in the car," said Capt. Stege, "and we expect to have them under arrest in 24 hours."

The double machine gunning was particularly vicious, and but for a metal star might have cost the life of one of the targets, Detective Leo R. Hemrick. Hemrick and Detective James Hayes sighted the five hoodlums in front of the Roxy hotel, 1301 Jackson boulevard. The hoodlums got away in their car and opened fire on the policemen, breaking a window in the police auto. Losing the men in the chase, Hayes and Hemrick returned to the hotel. They were quizzing witnesses in the restaurant when the gunmen passed by. Once again they opened fire on the detectives. One bullet, piercing the restaurant window, struck Hemrick's star.

Autoist Held for Inquiry on Death of Companion

Maxwell street police are holding John Miller, 23 years old, 723 West 19th street, pending investigation of the manner in which Joseph Norbut, also 23 years old, 1618 South Union avenue, was fatally injured Saturday night in Miller's automobile. Miller told county hospital authorities that Norbut, who died there yesterday of a fractured skull, was hurt when a sharp turn of the car flung him against the windshield. Norbut was identified by police as an alleged robber whose trial is pending in Criminal court.

BILLION DOLLAR TAX BILL COMES BEFORE SENATE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 9.—[Special.]—The new revenue bill was reported out to the senate today in the same form as agreed upon by the senate finance committee last Friday, following Secretary of the Treasury Mills' appearance when the so-called "peace program" was adopted.

SENATOR REED SMOOT.

According to latest estimates the tax bill will provide approximately one billion and 30 million dollars of new revenue.

A formal report to accompany the measure will be handed in on Wednesday, Senator Reed Smoot [Rep., Utah], finance committee chairman, announced, and the debate will be taken up not later than next Thursday. Senator James E. Watson [Rep., Ind.], majority leader, hoped that the bill might be passed within two weeks.

It will not go through without challenge, however. Such Democrats as are not committed to special tariffs because of local interest will make a determined effort to strike from the bill the import duties on oil, coal, copper, and lumber which the measure now carries.

Will Try Sales Tax Again.

Senator David I. Walsh [Dem., Mass.] has promised to lead a fight for the inclusion of the sales tax, presumably a proposal to apply a rate of 1 per cent to all manufactures except food, clothing, and agricultural implements and machinery. He will be supported by a number of regular Republicans and a few from the Democratic side.

Representing the opposite theory of taxation, Senator James Couzens [Rep., Mich.] will line up, as he often does, with the radical group and will seek to place in the bill the wartime peak rates of the 1918 income tax act.

These various efforts and others which will be made to revamp the bill in accordance with individual and sectional views were foreshadowed in the committee's final meeting on the bill today.

Attempts were made to bring about the adoption of a motion to permit the reconsideration of rate schedules in the bill. The final attempt was by Senator Samuel M. Shortridge of California, home state of the movie industry, presumably in order to amend the admissions tax provision which now fixes a rate of 1 cent on every 10 cents or fraction above 10 cents.

Vote to Report Bill.

After sending out at one time to bring in absent members in order to prevent a possible overthrow of last week's action, the committee turned down the Shortridge motion and motions by Senator Couzens and Senator Tom Connally [Dem., Tex.] and decided to report out the bill by a vote of 12 to 6.

Those who voted against the action were Senators Shortridge, Couzens, and La Follette, Republicans, and Hull, Connally, and Gore, Democrats.

At a meeting late in the afternoon the committee met again to hear representatives of the rubber industry voice their protest at the tax of 5 cents a pound which the committee, Friday, placed on imported rubber.

The National Automobile Chamber of Commerce sent a telegram to the committee protesting against the proposed taxes on automobiles, trucks, parts, accessories, and rubber as a distinct shock to those in the automobile business in every state.

NEIGHBORS SEIF, FEINBERG STILL NOT SOCIABLE

Folks out in the 34th ward attest to the neighborliness of George Seif, the ward's nonpartisan alderman for a decade, who was recently elected clerk of the Criminal court as a Democrat. The same folks might say as much for Circuit Judge Michael Feinberg, a Republican. Yet for the third or fourth time Seif refused yesterday to make an official call upon Judge Feinberg.

The reason was that Judge Feinberg has ordered Seif committed to jail. The trouble goes back to the last primary, in which Judge Feinberg was a Republican candidate and impaneled a grand jury to investigate that primary. He wanted to sit as a criminal court judge and asked Seif to furnish him with a deputy clerk. Seif was ordered by Chief Justice Harry M. Fisher not to furnish a clerk to Feinberg. Judges Fisher and Feinberg disagree as to the legality of Feinberg's acts and as to the validity of Feinberg's grand jury. And until Seif furnishes Feinberg with a clerk Feinberg cannot enforce his order putting Seif in jail.

Seif, who lives at 2932 West North avenue, and Feinberg, who lives at 1655 Humboldt boulevard, met at their common polling place on primary day and exchanged pleasantries, but Seif said he is not calling upon his neighbor these days. So yesterday, again, Judge Feinberg continued the contempt citation pending an opinion from the Supreme court.

Crazed Armenian Stabs Catholic Bishop in Egypt

VATICAN CITY, May 9.—(AP)—Officials of the Catholic church today were informed that Bishop Igino Nuti, apostolic vicar of Egypt, had been stabbed in the back and slightly wounded by an Armenian, who apparently was deranged. The incident occurred at the bishop's home in Alexandria after the would-be assassin, Jacob Dodosian, 22, had gained entrance by a ruse. A servant also was slightly wounded. The Armenian was arrested.

FRANCE TO ELECT AN ENGINEER FOR PRESIDENT TODAY

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, May 9.—France, as the United States, will have an engineer as chief executive after tomorrow. He is Albert Le Brun, 62 year old president of the senate, and a protégé of former President Raymond Poincare.

Le Brun's election at Versailles tomorrow by the chamber of deputies and the senate to succeed the assassinated Paul Doumer became a foregone conclusion tonight when his only serious rival, the world famous scientist, Paul Painleve, announced that he did not choose to run.

Will Be Unopposed.

No one else announced his candidacy and it seems probable that Le Brun will be unopposed. Le Brun's career resembles President Hoover's in certain respects, except that he has never been out of France for any length of time. A graduate of the Academy of Mines, he specialized in mining and railroad problems. He is the author of many treatises on these subjects.

During the war he was minister of blockade in Georges Clemenceau's cabinet. Afterward he had experience with relief work, as did Hoover, as minister for the liberated provinces.

Le Brun is modest, retiring, and little known to the general public. He is a "Lorrainer" and assisted in Poincare's great work of saving the franc as director of the sinking fund for the public debt. He is a strong believer in the French army as the best means of preserving peace, but is noted for the moderation of his political opinions and his impartiality, which fits him for the rôle of arbiter between parties—the French president's chief function.

Tardieu to Resign Today.

A further setback to the international disarmament conference was dealt this afternoon when Premier André Tardieu decided to resign as soon as the new president is elected tomorrow. He requested not to be reappointed. The cabinet will continue to handle routine affairs until a new government is chosen, but will not accept any responsibility.

The prospect of a Socialist-dominated government inspired by the record victory of the forces of the left in yesterday's elections caused a flurry on the bourse this morning in government bonds. The franc dropped to some extent but a strong reaction was manifest toward the close of the market.

On the basis of almost complete election returns, the left group, headed by Edouard Herriot, will have 358 seats in the new chamber against 244 for the parties comprising the present government majority. Excluding the communists this will give the left a majority of about 100 seats.

File by Doumer's Bier.

Thousands of men and women today reverently filed past the black draped bier on which rested the body of the late President Doumer in Elysée palace. The throng had waited patiently in the rain for the gates of the palace to open.

The room in which the body of the murdered president lay in state was partly darkened. Doumer was dressed in evening clothes and the jeweled emblem of the Legion of Honor that he wore glowed brightly. At the corner of the catafalque stood four officers of his military household, their sabers drawn.

The first persons permitted to view the body were cabinet ministers and other high government officials. Most of the thousands who filed past the bier were dressed in black. The funeral will be held on Thursday.

Meanwhile, a careful guard was kept over Paul Gorguloff, the man who killed Doumer, in order that he might not commit suicide. Police watched constantly through a peep hole in his prison cell. They said that the assassin probably would not be brought to trial until after an investigation that might last two or three months.

Dies After Hearing Confession.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTE CARLO, Monaco, May 9.—Canon Edmond Jacquot, vicar general of the diocese of Monaco, dropped dead here last Saturday, it was learned today. Anne Maria Gorguloff, wife of Paul Gorguloff, is reported to have gone to the vicar general for confession on Friday, the day President Doumer was murdered.

WIFE CHARGES BROKER KIDNAPED OWN DAUGHTER

Fred J. Read Sought in Two States.

An inquiry into the whereabouts of Fred J. Read, an investment broker, was begun last night after his wife, Mrs. Kathryn Nelson Read of 1019 North Oak Park avenue, Oak Park, applied for a warrant for his arrest charging he had kidnaped their 9 year old daughter, Caroline Elizabeth.

Mrs. Read appeared at the village municipal building last evening with her attorney, Frank Cantwell, and informed Police Magistrate Paul R. Wick that her husband, from whom she has been estranged for four years, had taken her daughter and fled from the state with Mrs. Ethel Much, his former secretary, who is named co-respondent in a bill for separate maintenance now pending before Circuit Judge Daniel P. Trude.

Find Secretary at Home.

Hardly had Mrs. Read completed her statement, however, when two Oak Park detectives who had been sent to Mrs. Much's apartment at 8148 Ingleside avenue, entered. They told the court that the woman had answered their knock at the door. While they questioned her concerning Mr. Read's whereabouts she replied: "I don't know where he is. I wouldn't tell you if I did, but I do know this: He told me last Friday that if Judge Trude didn't give him a good break in court he was going to kidnap Caroline and leave the state."

The court hearing to which Read referred, Attorney Cantwell said, took place last Friday when the judge refused to reduce a temporary alimony order under which Mrs. Read was receiving $140 a month for herself and her daughter.

Magistrate Wick promised Mrs. Read that the police would seek her husband but he refused to issue the kidnaping warrant until Judge Trude formally enters an order granting her the custody of the child. Attorney Cantwell said that he would appear before Judge Trude today and seek such an order.

Calls for Extra Visit.

Mrs. Read said her husband came to her home last Sunday morning and asked to see his daughter. She said that he had explained that although ordinarily he was allowed to see the child only on Fridays, he had asked to be allowed to take her to the home of his mother, Mrs. James Read, 4721 Race avenue, because it was Mother's day. Later they were to visit the Lincoln park zoo. Read promised to return his daughter at 8:30 that evening.

When they failed to return Mrs. Read telephoned to her mother-in-law, she said. The elder Mrs. Read said neither her granddaughter nor her son had been at her home. Next morning, Mrs. Read said, she attempted to reach her husband at the Central Republic company, an affiliate of the Central Republic Bank and Trust company, where he was cashier. Then she learned he had resigned on Saturday. Mrs. Much, the bank officials told her, had been discharged the same day, she said.

Mrs. Read told the police that her husband's father owns a farm near Laporte, Ind. The Laporte police were asked to seek Read.

SHIP-TO-SHORE MAIL SERVICE RESUMED; 18 HOURS GAINED

New York, May 9.—(AP)—The mail plane Europa, catapulted from the North German Lloyd liner of that name 670 miles off New York at 10:30 a. m., ended its flight at the company's pier, Brooklyn, at 6:10 p. m.

The plane brought four bags of mail. The ship is due at 1 p. m. tomorrow.

The flight reopened ship-to-shore mail service by the Trans-Atlantic company. The last attempt, a year ago, resulted in the loss of two lives and a plane in Cobesquid bay, off Nova Scotia.

Lumberman's Wife Sues Exmoor Club for $50,000

Mrs. Catherine Dunham, wife of Otis N. Dunham, Minneapolis lumberman, filed suit for $50,000 yesterday in the United States District court against the Exmoor Country club. The damages claimed are for personal injuries. The club has a polished concrete dance floor on the clubhouse lawn, and Mrs. Dunham charges that in crossing the space on July 7 last year she fell and was injured seriously.

SURFACE LINES OPEN PARLEYS ON WAGE CUTS

Wage negotiations between the Chicago Surface lines and its 12,000 trainmen were begun yesterday in the offices of Guy A. Richardson, president of the company. The conference took the form of a general discussion of business and labor conditions and it was announced after the meeting that no conclusions had been reached. A second conference is to be held Thursday afternoon.

At yesterday's meeting the surface lines were represented by President Richardson and C. H. Evenson, superindent of transportation. The employés were represented by William Quinlan, president of the car men's union; William Taber, secretary treasurer, and Joseph J. Kehoe, recording secretary.

Although no definite announcement has been made, it has been indicated that the employés will be asked to take a ten per cent salary reduction, similar to the cut taken by steam road and interurban employés in January.

The present contract of the trainmen expires on May 31. Negotiations between the Rapid Transit company and its 3,000 trainmen, whose contracts expire on the same date are being deferred pending the outcome of the surface lines negotiations.

Arizona and Wyoming Give Roosevelt 12 Votes

Phoenix, Ariz., May 9.—(AP)—Arizona's six votes in the Democratic national convention at Chicago will be cast for Franklin D. Roosevelt for President. The state convention tonight instructed 12 delegates with a half vote each to support the New York governor.

Wyoming Wants Wet Test.

Casper, Wyo., May 9.—(AP)—Delegates to the Wyoming state Democratic convention voted unanimously tonight to pledge the six Wyoming votes in the party's National convention to Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York. A prohibition plan recommending that the 18th amendment be submitted to a national referendum was placed in the platform.

AN ACTOR TELLS OF HOME LIFE IN HOLLYWOOD

Helene Costello's Exotic Books Vanish in Court.

Los Angeles, Cal., May 9.—[Special.]—The marriage bark of Helene Costello and Lowell Sherman, film actors, floated for a time on a rough sea of cocktails but was definitely wrecked on the rocks of "exotic and filthy" literature, he testified today in pressing his plea for divorce. Meanwhile Miss Costello sat in the courtroom with a group of Hollywood beauties and laughed.

The day in court ended in a bigger laugh, however, when attorneys charged that a photographer had purloined two of the twenty "naughty" books which had been brought into court as evidence. Judge Ambrose threatened to question all cameramen, but the books weren't found.

Four or Five Cocktails Her Average.

His wife's liking for cocktails brought an average consumption of five or six before dinner, Sherman testified and added "after dinner she would drink highballs."

"She made a big collection of rotten books, which she insisted on bringing into our home, despite my objections," he continued.

Some of these, exhibited in court, were "Memoirs of Fanny Hill," "Forbidden Books by an Old Bibliophile," "Scenes in the East, or the Lustful Turk," "An Interesting History Founded on Facts," "A Night in a Moorish Harem," "My Life and Loves." The attorneys did not say which two had disappeared.

Delving deeper into the question of his wife's desire for alcoholic drinks Sherman said that one evening he had told her no drinks would be served.

And So Far Into the Night.

"That started an argument that lasted all night," he continued. "I went to my room but Mrs. Sherman wouldn't let me sleep. She followed me there and threw a highball glass at me.

"On another occasion when we had guests for dinner she said 'Don't mind me; I'm going to get pie-eyed' and later called me a 'fat old man' and said I was about finished in the pictures.

"After the guests were gone she got in an argument with me and when my mother urged her not to argue over trifles she hit my mother and knocked her over a table. On another occasion she struck me with a dog whip.

"Finally I told Mrs. Sherman there would be no more drinking in our house. That started another argument that lasted until morning, when she left the house."

On cross-examination Miss Costello's lawyers sought to show Sherman made the liquor in his home and that he also drank and read the books.

He testified that he had given Miss Costello an allowance of $1,250 a month, but that this had failed to meet her needs.

Miss Costello, who has on record a list of alleged cruelties attributed to Sherman, together with a denial of the alleged marital wrongs he had recited, will take the stand in her own behalf tomorrow. She is the sister of Dolores Costello, actress wife of John Barrymore, and the daughter of Maurice Costello, former matinee idol.

Germany Drops Appropriation for Payment of Reparations

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, May 9.—Germany served notice again today that she intends to make no more payments on war reparations. The new budget, balanced at about $1,976,000,000, was presented to the reichstag by Finance Minister Hermann Dietrich. It contained no provision for reparations payments. Chancellor Bruening declared publicly yesterday that Germany would pay no more reparations.

HERMANN DIETRICH. [A. P. Photo.]

A total of $166,000,000 was earmarked in the budget for interest and amortization on funded floating debts and reparations loans but not a cent was set aside for reparations principal.

The reichstag, which met for the first day in ten weeks, was exceptionally decorous. Fearing trouble, the government placed a heavy police guard near the reichstag building, but all was peaceful.

Demand Kreuger Probe.

The session was enlivened by a communist demand for a government investigation into Germany's part in connection with the financial transactions of the late Ivar Kreuger, Swedish industrialist. The communists declared they suspect "criminal manipulations" are involved in the German match monopoly. A vote on the demand is expected Wednesday.

In asking the German parliament's special approval of the government's financial decrees, Finance Minister Dietrich asserted that the German floating debts has been cut in the last two years from $461,000,000 to $379,000,000, as of the fiscal year ending March 31, 1932.

The funded debt, he said, is now $2,430,000,000, which represents a decrease of $71,000,000. Of the total funded debt, he pointed out, about $351,000,000, is due to special expenses.

"All the rest is due to war reparations and war claims," he emphasized.

Asks O. K. on Lottery.

Dietrich also asked the reichstag to approve the issue of a lottery loan to finance settlements of the unemployed on farm lands provided by the government.

Replying to criticism that the government threw $297,000,000 away in helping banks, he said that only $80,000,000 was lost.

The budget at the end of the last fiscal year had a deficit of $101,000,000, it was disclosed. The ordinary budget was short by $63,000,000, while the special budget had surplus expenditures of $38,000,000.

Among expenditures listed for the new budget are: Unemployment dole, $250,000,000; war pensions, $300,000,000; social insurance, $119,350,000; debt payments, $105,000,000; interest and amortization on funded floating debts and reparations loans, $175,000,000; administrative expenses, $550,000,000; transfers to states and communes, $575,000,000.

Face No Confidence Vote.

The expected number of National Socialist, communist and Nationalist motions of no confidence were introduced, but the government is confident it will experience no difficulty in mustering a safe majority on the votes.

The Nationalists also asked the government to initiate international action to make Danzig safe against Polish threats and to obtain the return of Memel to the reich.

Because of the Whitsuntide holidays, the present session will adjourn after four days. The budget is expected to be the principal topic of discussion, but the usual grist of demands for dissolution of the reichstag and for cancellation of the various emergency decrees are on deck.

Start protection against pyorrhea RIGHT NOW

There is no "telling" about teeth. A perfect set today! And tomorrow? Perhaps a space that held two—or three or six—for the dentist's skill to bridge.

That is the way pyorrhea works. It may start when you are twenty or thirty and it may be ten years or longer before it begins to take your teeth. But in the end, pyorrhea takes actually half the adult teeth which are lost!

The trouble with pyorrhea is that it seems a distant danger. It may happen to somebody else—but you never think it will happen to you. The fact remains that four out of five people past the age of forty have pyorrhea—and they probably had it for several years before they knew.

It's up to you to take two steps to prevent "lost teeth." First, be sure not to forget the address of your dentist. Visit him twice a year, anyway. He is a real friend in need. Second, pick out a toothpaste that does more than polish your teeth. Forhan's Toothpaste is a thoroughly good cleanser—none better. But it takes care of the gums too, and that is mighty important, because you cannot have healthy teeth in unhealthy gums. Dr. R. J. Forhan worked 26 years as a pyorrhea specialist, and his exclusive formula cannot be obtained by the public except in Forhan's Toothpaste. Get ahead of pyorrhea. Prevention is the only way. Take it seriously and you will not be sorry. Start today with Forhan's. All druggists.

STEPHEN A. DAY MAY CONTEST CONGRESS COUNT

Official Vote Gives Slim Lead to Klein.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

A contest over one of the two Republican nominations for congressman at large loomed last night. Official figures issued by Secretary of State Stratton showed that Julius Klein led Stephen A. Day by 3,626 votes. Mr. Day announced that he is considering asking for a recount due to the closeness of the vote and to discrepancies which he says are indicated in the returns from some of the Chicago wards.

STEPHEN A. DAY.

Mr. Klein's managers made counter claims that a recount would increase the vote given their candidate, asserting that in some wards some discrepancies are indicated in the vote tallied for some of the other candidates in the field—there were thirteen all told. Both Klein and Day are liberals.

The official figures from Springfield on leading candidates were as follow, the two high candidates in each party being nominated for congressman at large:

Horner Is 159,659 Ahead.

The official figures place Judge Henry Horner's plurality at 159,569 votes over Michael L. Igoe for the Democratic nomination for governor. Len Small's plurality over Omer N. Custer for the Republican nomination for governor was 111,659. The vote for the leaders for governor was:

Secretary of State Stratton polled the largest vote of any candidate in the primary 829,445. Lieutenant Governor Fred Sterling got the second highest vote, 708,789.

Senator Otis F. Glenn's official vote for renomination was 572,382. Newton Jenkins polled 405,387, and Mayor T. B. Wright of Mount Carmel got 89,677.

For the Democratic nomination for U. S. senator, William H. Dieterich of Beardstown received 342,360 votes; while Scott W. Lucas of Havanna had 144,028.

Results for Other Offices.

Other final totals announced at Springfield were:

State Treasurer—Republican: C. Wayland Brooks, Chicago, 478,999; Edward R. Miller, East St. Louis, 122,498; Howard J. Carr, Chicago, 73,376.

Federal Agents Charge Paschen Admitted Income

Testimony that Chris Paschen admitted income upon which he had failed to pay taxes, but refused to disclose its source, was presented to the jury in Federal Judge Barnes' court yesterday as the trial of the former city building commissioner on tax evasion charges went into its second week.

The alleged admission was related by two agents of the special intelligence unit, bureau of internal revenue.

Agent Fred Peabody told the story. With Agent Horace George he interviewed Paschen in the federal building on Aug. 25, 1930, he said. He questioned Paschen concerning deposits in an account in the Foreman National bank, admittedly opened in the name of "A. B. Anderson" by some one from Paschen's firm.

Admits Money Is "Income."

The government charges that Paschen evaded payment of about $114,000 taxes in 1927 and 1928. The first year he paid no tax at all; the second, only $818. The deposit slip in question, dated April 21, 1928, showed that $37,496 was placed in the "Anderson" account.

"What was the source of that money?" the agent testified he asked the politician.

"I don't care to say anything about the source, but it was income and I'll pay a tax upon it," he quoted Paschen as replying. Agent George corroborated this conversation in his testimony.

This testimony was considered by the government to have balanced a defense maneuver executed during the morning session by Attorney Cassius Poust, Paschen's lawyer, who showed on cross-examination of a government witness that errors totaling $190,000 had been made in Paschen's account in the Foreman bank during 1927 and 1928. Its effect upon the jury may have been tempered by the redirect examination of Assistant United States Attorney Sam Clawson, who brought out that, regardless of the errors, they did not affect Paschen's balance, being corrected later.

Witness Sladek Missing.

The witness who told of the errors was Gilbert Meyer, now of the First National bank, but a former employe of the Foreman bank.

It was disclosed during the day that the government and defense efforts have failed to locate Joe Sladek, called Paschen's "manager" by the government. Sladek handled much of Paschen's business and made many bank deposits in the Paschen accounts. "There's been a forthwith subpoena out for Sladek for months," said Clawson. "We have people looking for him, too," replied Poust.

BOASTS OF HOARD IN HOME; BANDITS GET HIS $9,420

Less than a year ago Joseph Kralj, 65 years old, received a $10,000 award for spinal injuries which he had suffered as a laborer in a steel mill at Youngstown, O. Recently he came to Chicago, moving to 3049 East 97th street. He was not averse, it seemed, to telling people generally that he had most of the money in his home.

Last night two men entered the home. One of them held Kralj. Because of his injuries, which made him somewhat of a cripple, he could not resist. The other opened a trunk, extracted a package, and fled. The package contained Kralj's whole fortune, $9,420.

CITY IS URGED TO DRESS ITSELF UP FOR CONVENTIONS

A recommendation that Mayor Cermak issue a proclamation urging all property owners, especially those in the vicinity of the Chicago Stadium, to clean and decorate their buildings for the Republican and Democratic national conventions in June was approved yesterday by the special committee on conventions of the city council.

The committee acted after it had heard from Edward N. Hurley, head of the citizens' nonpartisan group that brought the conventions to Chicago. He told the aldermen that posters advertising the conventions have been sent to all the large cities in the country and that approximately 100,000 visitors will be in the city during that month.

"In view of the large number of visitors the streets and alleys should be clean and the buildings dressed up," said Mr. Hurley.

Commissioner of Public Works Sprague told his plans for the repair and flushing of all streets in the vicinity of the Stadium, and representatives of west side civic associations pledged their support in beautifying the neighborhood. The committee will tour the district tomorrow morning.

OLD G. O. P. BOSS BADLY BEATEN IN RUMP MEETING

BY PARKE BROWN.

What remains of the old Republican city hall machine, including its head, a former mayor, was given the soundest trimming yesterday ever administered to a group of Chicago politicians in a party gathering.

JAMES W. BREEN.

These forces tried to seize control of the new county central committee by means of a rump county convention, but a roll call showed they could not muster a fifth of the voting strength of a valid convention and before the call was completed the meeting was called off by the former mayor.

Only twelve of the fifty ward committeemen answered present and the outlook was that the percentage from the country towns would have been even less if the test had not been called off summarily. And all this in spite of the fact that the old machine was confident of an easy victory.

Defeat for Len Small.

Another who shared in the beating was Len Small, Republican nominee for governor, who spent most of last week trying to line up ward committeemen for the machine program. But it was said by the victors that the revolt was not aimed at him so much as it was at the former mayor, who had hoped to launch a new campaign for his old office by showing his power over the committeemen. He has been managing Small's campaign in the county.

There was no test of the strength of the opposition because of Chairman B. W. Snow's ruling that there can be no roll call until election certificates have been issued to the committeemen, but its leaders said they had a large majority of the convention for their program, which called for another recess.

That recess was taken in the regular convention until May 18 upon the motion of Congressman Oscar De Priest, whose action in that matter almost carried the Small people off their feet, as they had counted upon De Priest to stand with them.

Plan Rump Convention.

The convention, at the Hotel Sherman, was set for 3 o'clock, and before that hour the Small contingent held a meeting with the former city hall boss on the floor above the meeting place. There it was decided that if the opposition succeeded in recessing the session for a week a rump session would be held. They went into the ballroom, the meeting place, en masse, and their number included a large number of men not entitled to seats.

Chairman Snow called the meeting to order with a statement that there had been no change in the situation which had caused the convention to take its first recess on April 18 and therefore recommended a repetition of the step. He said the credentials would not be ready until next Tuesday and therefore the convention could not transact business before that time.

Calls Convention Recessed.

There were loud shouts for a roll call and Snow ruled there was no legal roll of members in existence. Then came De Priest's motion. Snow put it to a viva voce vote—the outsiders voting in the negative and yelling the loudest—and Snow declared the motion carried, announced the convention had recessed, put the gavel in his pocket and left the rostrum.

James W. Breen, former assistant corporation counsel, dashed to the platform and shouted for all committeemen to remain in the room. A plump fist served as a gavel. He was promptly elected temporary chairman and William S. Finucane of the 11th ward was named temporary secretary.

"Now we'll have a roll call to establish the presence of a quorum," shouted Breen, and Finucane began reading the list of names.

Serritella First to Respond.

The first response came from Daniel Serritella, former city sealer and alleged Capone lieutenant. He had left his own trial in the Criminal court building to take a seat in the front row at the convention. The next reply came from Patrick Sheridan Smith, former city clerk and the Small group's candidate for chairman of the committee. Finucane and Breen followed. Then came William V. Pacelli of the notorious 20th ward.

Harry A. Steinmeyer of the 22d and William Lass of the 23d responded. James Vignola of the 26th and William M. Garrison of the well known 27th, both former city hall job holders, answered to their names. Joseph A. Porcaro of the 28th and Charles G. Burmeister of the 48d were the last whose answers were heard clearly, but some of those present thought they heard a response when the name of William A. Burmeister, 49th, was called. Others doubted it.

When more than a dozen committeemen were silent after Porcaro had replied, a messenger was hustled to the floor above to report the sad state of affairs to the former mayor. He was entering the hall when the names of about a score of country town precinct committeemen had been called and only one had responded.

The former city hall boss went to the platform and into a huddle with Breen and Finucane, looking over the latter's roll call. In less than a minute Breen announced that the roll call would be suspended.

In his capacity as temporary chairman, Frank L. Smith sent notices to all county chairmen that the Republican state convention will reconvene in the Springfield armory at 10 o'clock on Friday, May 27.

WOMAN SLAIN IN HOME; HUNT FLEEING YOUTH

Suspect Leaves Before Crime Is Discovered.

Stanley G. Wright, a young Tennesseean, who came to Chicago three weeks ago, was sought by police last night in connection with the murder yesterday of Mrs. Elizabeth Stanley, 68 years old, owner of a rooming house at 616 Wrightwood avenue.

The woman was killed by blows on the head with a club some time after midnight. Her room had been thoroughly ransacked and a strong box in which she was reported to have kept several hundred dollars in cash had been broken open and emptied.

Youth and Wife Disappear.

Wright and his wife, Peggy, disappeared from the rooming house early yesterday before the murder was discovered. He was formerly a resident of Memphis, Tenn., and police wired authorities there for any information concerning him. He was said to have a father engaged in business in Memphis.

The body of Mrs. Stanley was discovered by a woman roomer. The body was found thrown across a canopied four poster bed. The top of the head was crushed and strips torn from bedsheets had been used to tie the woman's ankles and wrists. Mrs. Stanley was a large woman, weighing about 260 pounds and being nearly six feet tall.

A pillow was stuffed over the victim's face and a blanket had been thrown over the body, which was nude. There were five canaries in cages in the room, which was furnished in garish fashion.

Once Called by Police.

Mrs. Stanley had been summoned to the detective bureau for questioning more than a year ago when an automobile used in a holdup was found to belong to her. The holdup man, Albert J. Swanson, was shot and killed March 10, 1931, when he attempted to hold up a haberdashery at 1661 East 79th street.

Mrs. Stanley told police at that time that she knew Swanson only casually and that he had borrowed the automobile without her knowledge. Police believe she had other underworld connections, however. They found a telegram dated May 1, 1931, from a man named McFetridge in the county jail, who begged Mrs. Stanley to come and see him. McFetridge was discharged a year ago.

Aaron Carter, 43 years old, of 2677 Burling street, a Negro janitor, and Alois Karl, 55, a glass worker, who lived in Mrs. Stanley's rooming house, were held for questioning by Sheffield avenue police last night.

Union Orders Probe of Melrose Park Red Shooting

The American Civil Liberties union yesterday instructed its attorney, Arthur Fisher, to investigate the wounding of eight alleged communists in a riot in Melrose Park last Friday. If the investigation warrants it, according to John Hayes Holmes, chairman of the union, court action will be taken against the policemen. Holmes questions the police story that they fired only after the communists attacked them.

HORAN SUSPENDS THREE IN QUIZ OF BULLPEN ESCAPE

Bailiff Al J. Horan of the Municipal court yesterday suspended three deputy bailiffs, pending investigation of the mysterious disappearance of two prisoners from the bull pen of the South State street court Saturday and their return to custody three hours later. Bailiff Horan said he believed the deputies were not involved in an escape plot but were guilty of carelessness.

ALBERT J. HORAN.

The deputies are Michael Colohan, keeper of the lockup; Ted Mazzola, who returned the prisoners, and Charles Russo, attached to the court of domestic relations, who had visited the prisoners. The prisoners are Samuel De Stefano and Dominick Monaco, alleged members of the "42" gang of west side hoodlums, who had been arraigned in court on charges of threatening employés of a mortgage company unless a replevin for De Steffano's auto was recalled.

Horan said he found the lock of the bull pen in poor condition, so that the prisoners may have made their escape because of the faulty mechanism.

Earl's Sister Waits

LONDON, May 10.—Amy Johnson, Britain's air heroine and first woman to fly alone from England to Australia, tonight announced her engagement to James Allen Mollison, Australian distance flyer, who in March broke the record for the flight from England to South Africa. At one time Mollison held the record from England to Australia. Mollison met Miss Johnson two years ago when she completed her 15 day solo flight from London to Australia.

Miss Johnson witnessed Mollison's arrival at Capetown. Later she was reported suffering from a nervous illness. She returned to England on May 2, a fortnight after Mollison was reported engaged to Lady Diana Wellesley, 18 year old half sister of the Earl of Cowley.

Ten days ago Lady Diana's mother, Clare, countess of Cowley, after a family gathering said that Diana and Mollison had decided to wait a year to see whether they were still in love.

PAGE PIED PIPER! MILLIONS OF MICE LOOT AUSTRALIA

MELBOURNE, Australia, May 9.—(AP)—Millions of mice are destroying wheat, plundering homes, eating flowers in gardens and harassing housewives in northwestern Victoria. Extraordinary stories have come from various districts. The plague is reported to be the worst in history.

At Ouyen, one of the chief towns in the Mallee district, a policeman said a gang of mice had assaulted his cat and chewed off one of her ears and part of her tail.

Factories are working overtime to keep up with the demand for mousetraps.

ROBBER CAUGHT, HIS GIRL GIVES UP 2 OF HIS PALS

Says She Doesn't Want Him Punished Alone.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

Four gunmen and a young woman who helped them in the holdup of the Alcazar hotel, 3000 Washington boulevard, early yesterday, were in police cells last night because they fortified themselves with moonshine booze before the holdup. Policeman James Culhane of the Warren avenue station was wounded in a battle with the robbers.

The woman prisoner is Marie Bateman, 18 years old, a divorcée. After she was locked up she told how she led two of her bandit pals, befuddled with liquor, into Warren avenue station because she didn't want her sweetheart, Lawrence Hart, 25 years old, 1431 North Lockwood avenue, who had been captured by Policeman Culhane, to be punished alone for the holdup.

Wanted Justice, She Says.

"I didn't want to see the others go free while Larry was sent to prison for robbery with a gun," she said.

Policeman Culhane was shot in the hand in the battle with the holdup men. He was passing the Alcazar hotel as Hart and another robber ran out after taking $25 from the clerk, J. I. Locke. The policeman opened fire and the robbers returned it. Hart fell—because he was intoxicated, the Bateman girl said later. Policeman Culhane grasped Hart with his wounded hand while Hart's companion escaped in an automobile driven by a third robber.

Meanwhile Marie and George Carbine, the fifth member of the gang, had been cruising in the neighborhood. As they approached the hotel they saw a police car drive off with Hart a prisoner. Marie said she drove around until she met the two men who had fled when Hart was captured. Carbine left the group, she said, but she persuaded the other two to go with her and she took them to the station.

Fourth Man Is Caught.

There the two men identified themselves as Marvin Clayton, 2158 Maypole avenue, and Roy Kirkland, 4033 Monroe street. Carbine was arrested later by the police. He gave his address as 4218 Maypole avenue. Locke, the hotel clerk, identified Hart and Kirkland as the men who robbed him.

HOTEL SHERMAN COMPANY GOES IN RECEIVERSHIP

Includes Ambassador and Fort Dearborn.

Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson yesterday appointed receivers for the Hotel Sherman company, which operates the Hotel Sherman, the Ambassador, and Ambassador East, and the Fort Dearborn hotels. The action followed the filing earlier in the day of a petition by the law firm of Judah, Reichmann, Trumbull & Cox in behalf of the National Cash Register company with an unpaid claim of $4,120.

ERNEST L. BYFIELD.

Those appointed under a receiver's bond of $25,000 each are Ernest L. Byfield, president of the company; Frank W. Bering, former general manager, and Bertram M. Winston, real estate operator.

Tells Loss of Revenue.

Following the court action Mr. Byfield issued a statement that "drastically declining receipts due to business depression, the abnormally low volume of railroad travel, and greatly increased tax obligations" placed the company in receivership. The receivership, which he termed "a friendly equity action," will bring no change in the management, Mr. Byfield said.

Real estate holdings of the company, exclusive of the Hotel Ambassador East, are valued in excess of $11,800,000 by Mr. Byfield and there are mortgages of $8,000,000 outstanding against them. The figures do not include fixtures and furnishings or the College Inn Food Products company, a subsidiary.

Capital Setup Described.

The Hotel Sherman, according to the complaint, is capitalized with 20,000 shares of 7 per cent preferred stock and 14,000 shares of common stock, all of $100 par value.

"The officers of the company have consented to this action, believing it to be the best method of conserving the interests of all concerned. Occupancy of the company's hotels, although low, has been in excess of the occupancy of other hotels catering to the same class of trade," Mr. Byfield said in his statement.

DEATH LAID TO NATURAL CAUSES.

Carl Miller, 50 years old, said to be an unlicensed physician, died of natural causes, an investigation by Coroner's Physician I. M. Feinberg showed yesterday. The inquiry was ordered after Miller was found dead in Dr. Blaine L. Ramsay's hospital where he was employed.

BOY, 15, PENS A NOTE TO GIRL, LEAPS FROM 7 STORY BUILDING

Hempstead, N. Y., May 9.—(AP)—On the stone coping around the roof of a seven story building a 15 year old junior high school boy today wrote in large black letters:

"Ray Franklin Cheshire, 4:20 p. m., Monday, May 9, '32."

Then he leaped to his death on a concrete driveway near which he had left his chum, George Patten, also 15, with the statement: "I guess you can see a long way from the top of that building. I'm going up."

A note addressed to "Dot," which police declined to make public, was found in Cheshire's school notebook. The boy was the son of Austin C. Cheshire, assistant cashier of the Dime Savings bank of Brooklyn.

BUYS 1905 AUTO FOR JUNK; NOW HE'S DRIVING IT

Peter Esslinger, 3265 Armitage avenue, yesterday got a state license for a 1905 automobile. He said he bought the car for junk from the Potter Palmer estate when the Lake Shore drive mansion was being taken over by Vincent Bendix two years ago.

"But I found the car would do 35 or 40 miles an hour, so I'm using it for Sunday driving," said Mr. Esslinger, who is a carpenter. "It's furnished inside with silk, satin, and silver, with a telephone to the chauffeur and footman compartment. It's a swell car, and it only cost me a few dollars.

"I tried to sell the machine to a museum, but they would only give me $20 for it. I can get more fun than that out of driving it Sundays."

REPORTS HOOVER READY TO CALL SILVER PARLEY

Coinage Committee Head Urges Conference.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 9.—[Special.]—The growing congressional demand for a world silver conference was again brought to the attention of President Hoover today during the course of a White House conference attended by Chairman Andrew L. Somers [Dem., N. Y.] of the house coinage committee and Representative Perkins [Rep., N. J.].

REPRESENTATIVE ANDREW L. SOMERS [A. P. Photo.]

On his return to the capital Chairman Somers stated that in his opinion the President would give favorable consideration to a congressional resolution requesting him to call an international conference designed to prevent the dumping of silver. Chairman Somers and many other advocates of the use of silver as a cure for the depression believe such a conference must be held to furnish a base for subsequent silver legislation.

Plans Conference Call.

Chairman Somers said he probably will shortly introduce a resolution requesting the President to call an international silver conference. Later he said he expects to urge the passage of legislation which will make it possible to provide a degree of inflation through the issuance of silver certificates backed by a gold dollar's worth of silver. He said he was not certain as yet as to whether he will push his resolution authorizing the President to accept in payment of the war debts silver at the rate of 1½ fine ounces for each dollar owed.

An attempt to secure immediate action on a resolution requesting the President to call a silver conference failed in the senate today.

Senator Charles L. McNary [Rep., Ore.], assistant floor leader, asked that the resolution which was offered by Senator William H. King [Dem., Utah] be delayed for a few days.

Second Call on Hoover.

Chairman Somers' trip to the White House marked the second time in the last three days that a congressman has called at the White House to discuss silver. Senator Wesley L. Jones [Rep., Wash.], chairman of the senate finance committee, left the White House Saturday convinced that the President will call a silver conference if congress by resolution so requests.

Because of the unwillingness on the part of this country to enter into an international finance conference which would open the way for a discussion of tariffs and the interallied war debts, Chairman Somers said today he would draw up his resolution so as to confine the agenda to a discussion of silver. He expressed the opinion that President Hoover's refusal thus far to call a silver conference was based on a belief it could not be held down to a discussion of silver alone.

"I am not certain," Chairman Somers said today, "that it would be wise to pass legislation permitting the allies to pay their debts to us in silver as provided by the resolution I offered the other day. My committee is studying this question. It is possible such a resolution would have a bad effect. If we can obtain an anti-silver dumping agreement I believe the issuance of silver certificates would be worth while. These certificates would be backed by sufficient silver to purchase a gold dollar. This would provide some beneficial inflation."

ROB SPORTING GOODS STORE.

Two bandits took a selection from the stock of a sporting goods store at 907 East 63d street yesterday after they had tied up the manager, Thomas Harmer, and a customer. They took $35 from the cash register.

Whoopee Ocean Cruise at $2,000 Starts Inquiry

An investigation by the "Secret Six," cooperating with federal and other agencies, was reported under way yesterday into an ultra-elaborate world cruise which is being promoted here and in New York.

The cruise, which is to be on a world famous liner, according to plans, will last one year. Minimum rates are to be $2,000. Internationally known figures, including princes, premiers, and common gangsters, are mentioned in the prospectus of passenger or other lists. Among those locally of consequence are said to be William (Three Fingered Jack) White, George (Red) Barker, and "Dago" Lawrence Mangano.

Trio to Have Concessions.

These names are said to have inspired the investigatorial interest of the "Secret Six." Alexander Jamie, head of the committee, is reported to have acquired information involving the trio as would-be voyagers. White, Barker, and Mangano, he was told, would not be mere passengers, but operators of concessions — gambling, drinking, and so on—on a percentage basis.

Just how far the reported investigation would dig could not be learned last night. Any federal interest in the matter would lie, it was said, in the employment of the mails to sell the idea of the cruise.

The idea originated in New York and was furthered here by a group of select salesmen who have already approached many wealthy Chicagoans. From their talk it was indicated that such notables as former President Coolidge, Premier Benito Mussolini, the prince of Wales, and others would be passengers. Just one grand international and friendly party, it was pictured. The cruise is being promoted by the Ocean Tours corporation of Fifth avenue, New York.

Features of the Cruise.

As a special feature, according to one reported sales idea, there would be a bout between Jack Sharkey and Max Schmeling, with Jack Dempsey as the referee. Douglas Fairbanks and Will Rogers were said to be mentioned as the passenger representatives of Hollywood. And, of course, there would be bars and casinos. And there, it is said, is where White, Barker, and Mangano were trying to project themselves.

Merely from reports it is estimated that the cruise with 3,000 passengers would mean about $7,000,000, out of which would come expenses, some share to "charities," and profits.

BI-PARTY GROUP IN SENATE AIMS TO SLASH COSTS

"Restore Economy" Is the Motto.

10 Per Cent Cut "Impossible."

It was brought out that Senator Oddie had taken it on himself as chairman of the appropriations subcommittee in charge of the treasury and postoffice bill to decide that a 10 per cent cut was "impossible." Senators Kenneth McKellar [Dem., Tenn.] and Carter Glass [Dem., Va.], both of whom have contended the savings could be made without discharging an employé asserted that for two weeks Senator Oddie had refused to call the subcommittee together.

"I am shocked at such a disclosure," declared Senator Couzens. "Since when has one senator had the right to usurp the power of a committee?"

"But I am the chairman and it's up to me to decide when the committee is to meet," sputtered the unhappy, red faced Senator Oddie.

Oddie Was at White House.

Laughter and calls of "No, no!" greeted his pronouncement.

"That's the most astounding statement I've ever heard," said Senator Couzens.

The Democrats twitted the Nevada senator about his part in the recent conference of Republican senators with the President. Could the senator promise, if they voted for his resolution, that the President would not issue another attack on congress for its failure to economize? Senator Oddie had not quizzed the President.

Senator Borah pointed out that economies so far were not eliminations, but in many cases merely postponements.

MacArthur Protests Army Cut.

In the meantime Gen. Douglas MacArthur, chief of staff, sent to Representative Bertrand H. Snell [Rep., N. Y.], minority leader of the house, where the war department supply bill is now pending, a protest at the proposal to cut 2,000 officers and place them on the retired list.

Though a minimum peace strength called for 14,063 officers, said the chief of staff, the army had been getting along with 12,000, and he concluded:

"Further reductions would bring us close to prostration—a condition not conducive to the promotion of a feeling of security at home nor to enhancing the respect with which our pacific counsels are received abroad."

DUBLIN TO GET STATUE OF CHRIST TO GUIDE SAILORS

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, May 9. — A statue of Christ, designed as a symbol of the Roman Catholic faith, to tower 100 feet over the entrance to Dublin bay is, according to the Daily Mail, to be erected in Kingston harbor at a cost of 25,000 pounds [$125,000 at par]. Andrew O'Connor, Irish American sculptor, is now engaged in his Paris studio preparing the designs of the monument.

The figure of Christ will be thirty feet high, surmounting a plain granite column of seventy feet. About $10,000 has already been subscribed toward the cost, and this balance is expected to be quickly raised by visitors to the Eucharist congress in Dublin next month.

The proposed statue will be illuminated by flood lights so that sailors eight miles out at sea can see it as a guide to Dublin.

O'Connor, who is noted for his original work on both sides of the Atlantic, studied under Rodin and won the gold medal for sculpture of the Paris salon in 1928.

Alaskan Fur Trader Here on Plane Journey to Seattle

Joe Dexter, a fur trader of Golovin, Alaska, who went into the arctic in 1899 and returned to the United States one month ago for the first time, last night passed through Chicago, traveling over United Air Lines from New York to Seattle, Wash., where he will board a vessel to return to his trading post. Dexter will have traveled 8,000 miles by plane when he reaches Seattle. He had never seen an automobile, an airplane, or any other modern form of transportation until he began the trip to the United States, he said. The purpose of the trip was to visit his two sisters in Boston.

SWANSON ORDERS ASSISTANTS TO WAR ON RAPISTS

Launches a Campaign to Curb Sex Crimes.

State's Attorney Swanson yesterday issued an order to the members of his staff to make a special drive on rape cases when he was apprised that this class of crime is again on the increase. The assistant prosecutors were instructed to refuse any compromises to defendants, even though a plea of guilty is offered. Judges and juries are to be asked to impose severe penalties, which may be for any term of imprisonment from one year up to life.

Mr. Swanson issued his instructions after William Parks, colored, 23 years old, 6797 South Chicago avenue, was held to the grand jury from the Felony court on two charges of robbery. Parks is alleged to have tried to attack his victims, two high school girls, but was prevented from carrying out his purpose by the appearance on the scene of Policeman John W. McCarthy of the Woodlawn station.

Double Indictment Sought.

Assistant State's Attorney Frank Mast asked that Park be held on the robbery charges because this crime carries a more severe penalty than the charge of attempted rape. Judge Howard Hayes complied with the prosecutor's request, although Assistant State's Attorney Edwin J. Spiro, who is in charge of the grand jury, said that he would also request an indictment for the attempted attack.

State's Attorney Swanson said that every possible charge should be made against Parks so that, in case of a conviction, the pardon board can be apprised of the fact that an attempted assault occurred following the robbery.

Recalls Previous Campaign.

When an outbreak of rape occurred some time ago, Prosecutor Swanson said, he ordered a campaign against this type of offender and it had a salutary effect. His new campaign, he hopes, will again cause a decrease of such cases.

"Sex crimes should not be tolerated in any community," Mr. Swanson said. "Such offenders should be prosecuted vigorously and speedily. I have ordered my assistants to give preference to these prosecutions until we have cleared up this type of crime."

BOMB DAMAGES WAREHOUSE.

BURSTING LILAC BUDS TO SIGNAL A BOON TO POOR

Flower Guild Lays Plans for Distribution.

BY PAUL POTTER.

The Chicago Plant, Fruit and Flower guild received reports yesterday that lilac buds are bursting in many downstate gardens. The guild plans to organize every suburban town in the Chicago area to supply lilacs and other flowers, and also vegetables, to hospitals, settlements and tenements in the city this summer.

T. V. Purcell, president of the guild, announced that the guild's executive committee was planning to observe "lilac day" in coöperation with THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE on the first day the blooms are available in volume. It was thought the distribution of these flowers among Chicago's tenements can be made within 10 days.

"For several years, lilac day has marked the opening of the Flower guild's season, extending from May to October," stated Mr. Purcell. "The guild has arranged for representatives of garden clubs to gather up the flowers, plants, fruit and vegetables donated by gardeners, at each railroad station in the city.

"Chairmen are also organizing every suburban town in the metropolitan area with the hope that in this year of greatest need, the offerings of every garden owner will be especially generous."

The flowers or other garden products, wrapped in moist papers, are to be collected by garden club members, or they may be handed to conductors on most of the suburban railroads entering Chicago, the guild reports. The offerings are collected at the terminal stations and delivered to welfare stations and hospital wards, or taken by visiting nurses into poor homes where invalids may enjoy them, or distributed by other worthy agencies.

"Can you imagine any lovelier token of spring than the appearance in a crowded city neighborhood of great bunches of lilacs?" This comment on "lilac day" was made by Miss Harriet Vittum, head resident of Northwestern university settlement, 1400 Augusta boulevard, one of the many settlement workers aiding the guild.

"When huge baskets of these lilacs arrive at the settlement, children see them and come running. A procession forms and from all over the neighborhood come lines of children asking for 'just one blossom, please,' to carry home."

BOMB DAMAGES U. S. CONSULATE IN JAPANESE CITY

Infernal Machine Hurled from Automobile.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 9.—Henry B. Hitchcock, American consul at Nagasaki, Japan, notified the state department today that an unidentified man had bombed the consulate there at 11:40 a. m. today. The building was set on fire, but the damage amounted to less than $100. No one was injured.

Great interest was manifested in the report by state department and White House officials despite Mr. Hitchcock's report that in his opinion no political significance should be attached to the bombing. According to Mr. Hitchcock, none of the circumstances surrounding the bombing indicates that it was the result of any widespread resentment against the United States.

Bomb of Crude Manufacture.

Mr. Hitchcock's message simply said that the consulate was set on fire by a bomb of crude manufacture tossed at the office entrance from a passing automobile The fire was put out, he added, with an extinguisher and a garden hose before serious damage had been done. The police were informed and immediately began an investigation, Mr. Hitchcock said.

Mr. Hitchcock's home is at Canton Center, Conn. He is married, 45 years of age, and a graduate of Yale. He has been in the American consular service in Japan for the last 20 years. He served at Tokio, among other Japanese cities. Glen W. Bruner, American vice consul at Nagasaki, is a native of Red Cloud, Neb.

Building Owned by U. S.

The bombed consulate is a combined office and residential building owned by the United States government. It is located on the east coast of Nagasaki harbor facing the docks. It is two stories high, square in conformation, with a wooden frame and outer walls of brick.

The state department's report on the bombing said:

"The American consul at Nagasaki reported to the state department today that the consulate was set on fire at 11:40 a. m. by a bomb of crude manufacture, which was thrown at the office entrance from, it is believed, a passing automobile. The fire was extinguished promptly with fire extinguishers and the garden hose and the damage is estimated at less than $100. Apparently the consul attaches no political significance to the bombing. The police authorities are actively investigating."

New Bombing in Shanghai.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, May 9.—A dispatch from Shanghai today reported that Teiji Nakayama, sublieutenant of the Second company, First battalion, was seriously wounded when an unidentified Chinese, said to have been a soldier, hurled a hand grenade this morning near Paoshan road in Shanghai. Nakayama was taken to a marine hospital. The battalion was engaged in a sham battle for a Japanese movie company at the time of the outrage.

Threaten More Bombings.

SHANGHAI, May 9.—(AP)—A threat to assassinate Japanese officials in China by bombings such as that which occurred last month in Hongkew park came out of the local Corean colony today.

A man named Kim Koo signed a statement in which he described himself as the head of the Corean Patriots' society and said he was the instigator of the Hongkew bombing.

On that day, said the statement, he sent Yun Kil, a young Corean revolutionary, into Hongkew with bombs and Yun "achieved his purpose." The young man now is in the hands of the Japanese, said Kim, and may be dead or alive.

Promises Similar Affairs Soon.

"My life is dedicated to freeing my country," Kim's statement said. "The Japanese are doing everything in their power to apprehend me, but my work continues. Our association seeks to kill Japanese civil and military leaders. There will be other affairs similar to that at Hongkew soon, both in Japan and Manchuria."

Japanese troops have begun to withdraw toward the international settlement as stipulated by the armistice signed last week. Today they left Liuho, Kating and Nanziang. Tomorrow they will evacuate Lotien. As they move back Chinese police take over the territory.

Guard League Envoys.

HARBIN, Manchuria, May 9.—(AP)—The entire police force of Harbin tonight was called to guard the league of nations commission inquiring into the Sino-Japanese dispute. The commission was met at the station by the Chinese mayor, Pa-o, and delegations of Chinese, Japanese, American and other officials.

Dr. Wellington Koo, Chinese assessor, who has been especially threatened, was heavily guarded by detectives. The streets on the route from the hotel to the station were closed to traffic because of rumors that an attempt would be made to cause trouble while the commissioners are here this week. The commission will next go to Tsitsihar.

Film Careers Cause Their Separation

SALLY EILERS (MRS. HOOT GIBSON).

Disclosed by Crash

Hollywood, Cal., May 9.—(AP)—Sally Eilers and Hoot Gibson, motion picture players, have separated permanently, as there is no hope of reconciliation, they said today. The statement was made after Gibson visited his wife at the Santa Monica home of Ben Lyon and Bebe Daniels, where Miss Eilers is recuperating from an automobile accident.

"While we are very unhappy about the outcome of our marriage, we think separation is the best for our happiness," said Miss Eilers.

Gibson joined her in the statement. They have not gone into the matter of a divorce, but Miss Eilers intimated that this will come later.

The separation came Saturday night. They went to the Mayfair dance. She left Gibson at the party and went home with Eddie Cline, director, and Mrs. Cline. Their motor car hit a telephone pole as Cline tried to avoid collision with another machine. The women were injured slightly. The fact that Miss Eilers did not go to her home disclosed the separation. It was first reported that Gibson was in the Cline car also.

Citizens Ask 10% Pay Cut for Aurora City Employes

The citizens' tax council of Aurora yesterday requested Mayor Conrad M. Bjorseth and the city council to reduce the pay of city employés 10 per cent. At present the employés, the mayor, and other officials are working twelve months for eleven months' pay. The tax council told the mayor that, while working for certain periods without pay was commendable, a flat pay cut was more desirable.

HOOVER VETOES RELIEF BILL FOR ARMY CIVILIANS

Calls Measure Dangerous Precedent.

Washington, D. C., May 9.—[Special.]—President Hoover today vetoed a bill providing hospitalization and the privileges of the soldiers' homes to civilians who served in the quartermaster corps during the war with Spain, the Philippine insurrection and the China relief expedition. The President vetoed a similar measure last year.

Second Similar Veto.

The veto today marked the second time this year that President Hoover has turned down legislation conferring additional benefits upon soldiers or their dependents.

"I cannot concur in a proposal to single out one class of civilian employés who served during certain periods of hostilities and confer upon them a right to the benefit of hospitalization and domiciliary care provided by law for veterans of our wars," said Mr. Hoover in his veto message.

Refuses to Set Precedent.

"Such proposal would be establishing a precedent which in all justice, would call for similar legislation in behalf of other civilians. It would ultimately involve the government in hundreds of millions of expenditures by the usual accretions of wider spread inclusions of new and borderland groups.

"I am not unmindful of the value of the service rendered by these civilian components, but I do not feel that they should be made beneficiaries of the laws which have been enacted to care for our veterans—those who served under enlistments, enrollments or commissions in the army and navy. Our first obligation is to these veterans and we should certainly not now reduce the availability of the hospital and home facilities which have been provided for them by throwing such facilities open to civilians."

RULING ON BANK STOCKHOLDERS' LIABILITY DEFINED

State Auditor Gets Digest of Decision.

State Auditor Oscar Nelson yesterday received a digest of a recent Supreme court decision on the liability of stockholders of closed banks. The decision is far-reaching and is said to be the first expression by the high court on the points of law involved.

STATE AUDITOR OSCAR NELSON.

The interpretation of the decision was furnished the auditor by Attorney June C. Smith, who represented the receiver of the Merchants' State Bank of Centralia, in Marion county, in a suit against the stockholders.

Liable After Sale of Stock.

"The Supreme court holds in the Merchants bank case," Attorney Smith's report reads, "that each stockholder in a state bank is liable to the depositors and creditors of the bank up to the amount of the par value of the stock. That each stockholder is so liable for all money deposited in the bank while he is a stockholder; that this is a personal liability and continues until the money is repaid to the depositors; that when a stockholder transfers his stock to some one else his liability does not terminate, but continues until the money deposited while he was a stockholder has been repaid.

"The fact that certain shares of stock have been transferred many times does not affect this liability—each successive owner being liable for the money deposited while he was the owner of the stock. The stockholder is not liable for money deposited before he became owner of the stock, nor for money deposited after he ceases to own the stock.

Liability Survives Death.

"A suit may be brought against a stockholder ten, twenty, or any number of years after he transfers his stock, provided the suit is brought within ten years after the bank is closed.

"The Supreme court also held that the death of a stockholder does not discharge his liability. It may be enforced any number of years after his death and if his estate has been administered and distributed to his heirs and devisees, the property may be followed into their hands and each made to pay to the depositors the full amount of the value of the property received from the estate.

"The judges dissenting from the majority opinion of the court do not dissent from any question of the liability of the stockholders. They were simply of the opinion that where a stockholder has died the claims of depositors should be presented against his estate within one year after his executor or administrator was appointed. In all other respects these two judges agree with the majority opinion of the court. Hence, on all questions of importance in the case the holding is unanimous by all members of the court who took part in the decision."

National Banks Different.

The state auditor's office said the ruling is different in regard to national bank stockholders. There, it was explained, only those of record for sixty days prior to the closing of a national bank are liable.

Other attorneys pointed out that the question is one of proof. If a stockholder is liable for 100 per cent of his stock, only for money actually deposited while he owned such stock, it is claimed he cannot be held liable for sums withdrawn and later redeposited, nor even for average balance. A legal contention, where there are numerous withdrawals and deposits, is that withdrawals are against the earliest deposits, hence a person who bought stock on, say, Jan. 1, 1929, and sold it on Dec. 31, 1929, cannot be held liable on an account where any or all withdrawals in 1930 equal or exceed the total of deposits, less withdrawals, in 1929.

Regarding local payments by stockholders, the auditor's office said that many voluntary payments have been made by those who held small amounts of stock.

SERRITELLA JURY DEADLOCKED IN NIGHT SESSION

Defendants on Stand, Deny Fraud Plot.

be fed at Christmas time, or whether 3,500,000 people in the city of Chicago must be cheated the year round so these 1,500 may be given one meal."

Mr. Seyfarth said there could be no doubt that a conspiracy existed by which the chain stores were allowed to cheat the public without interference from the city sealer's office under Serritella.

He selected one meat market on the south side, told how the state's investigators had visited it six times; how on each occasion the buyer was short weighted, the first time 5 cents, then 7 cents, then 6 cents, again 6 cents, then 4 cents, and finally 13 cents.

Attack Plea of Error.

"The defense has sought to have you gentlemen believe," Mr. Seyfarth said, "that these overcharges might have been caused by errors of judgment on the part of the butchers. Does that one instance look like honest error? You have seen that the same sort of cheating was committed in markets and groceries all over the city, and that it was condoned by Dan Serritella and Harry Hochstein, who should have protected the public instead of betraying its interests so flagrantly."

Just before the evidence in the case was closed, Prosecutor Keele was balked in his efforts to impeach testimony given by Serritella and Hochstein.

The two defendants made denials that they ever had conspired to permit merchants to defraud the public, and while admitting that the merchants had contributed to the Serritella Christmas basket fund and had given political donations to Serritella, both defendants insisted that the donations were voluntary and did not purchase any immunity from prosecution.

Mr. Keele sought to present evidence of contradictory testimony given by Serritella and Hochstein before a grand jury in June, 1931. Frank E. O'Dowd, vice president of the Edward Hines Lumber company, who was foreman of that grand jury, testified that the jury had questioned no other witnesses except Serritella and Hochstein, and had not been asked to return an indictment.

Object of the Prosecution.

This was intended by the state to disprove testimony by Serritella that he had been a witness before the June, 1931, grand jury and had been "exonerated." On cross-examination, however, Defense Attorney Michael Ahern drew out of Mr. O'Dowd an admission that Prosecutor Keele, in calling Serritella and Hochstein, had explained that he sought no indictment at that time, but only wanted to place both men on record.

Then, when Mr. Keele yesterday called to the stand a court reporter who had taken down the defendant's testimony as given before the grand jury, the defense objected violently to any testimony showing what Serritella and Hochstein had told the grand jury.

The judge refused to allow the court reporter to relate what the defendants said before the grand jury, and the state then rested its case and began the final arguments.

The testimony given by Serritella and Hochstein was brief. Both sought to convey the impression that they had been indicted for giving baskets to the poor. Serritella when asked if he had accepted donations amounting to $250 from L. M. Conners, branch manager of the Consumers Sanitary Butter and Coffee stores, said he had.

SOVIET SOLDIERS KILL 100 AS THEY KNEEL IN PRAYER

Peasants Try to Worship on River Bank.

BY WILLIAM SHIRER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VIENNA, May 9.—Shot down by machine gun and rifle fire as they knelt praying on the banks on the Russian side of the Dneister river, while church bells tolled in the orthodox Ascension day service on the Rumanian side, 100 peasants were killed and scores were wounded by soviet guards, according to stories in the Bucharest press wired here today.

Most of the victims were Moldavians whose relatives live on the Rumanian side of the Dneister, which separates Russia from Rumania. Hundreds of persons have been killed in the last few months by Russian patrols while trying to escape over the frozen river into Rumania but the latest killings were especially tragic. The Dneister is no longer frozen and the peasants were not trying to escape from Russia. Their mistake was in praying.

Watch Rumanians Pray.

The massacre happened, according to Bucharest dispatches, near the Russian town of Dubosary, which lies directly across the Dneister from the Rumanian village of Kriulany. In Kriulany on Ascension day the bells of the Orthodox church began to toll for the religious services celebrating Christ's ascension.

In the Rusian town across the river no bells tolled, but the peasants there heard the bells across the river and, attracted by them, came to the riverside to hear better. They watched their brethren on the Rumanian side filing into church. And, as the bells rang out, they knelt by the river and prayed.

Soviet Commander Angered.

According to the dispatches, this spectacle did not please the commander of the soviet border guards. He ordered the cavalry to charge. The horsemen swept down on the peasants, firing at them, and machine gunners raked the river banks.

The sound of the shots broke up the services at a church at Kriulany, the worshippers filing out just in time to see the massacre on the opposite bank. The Rumanian guards reported that the soviet soldiers removed the bodies quickly.

The report of the killings was received in Bucharest from Tighina, a town near the scene of the shooting.

Salesmen Told Value of Newspaper Advertising

The value of newspaper advertising in retail merchandising was stressed by C. C. Youngreen, past president of the American Association of Advertising agencies and the Advertising Federation of America, last night in a talk to several hundred salesmen of W. D. DO YOU INHALE?

O. K. AMERICA
TUNE IN ON LUCKY STRIKE—60 modern minutes with the world's finest dance orchestras, and famous Lucky Strike news features, every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday evening over N. B. C. networks.

Why are other cigarettes silent on this vital question?

Do you inhale? Seven out of ten people know they do. The other three inhale without realizing it. Every smoker breathes in some part of the smoke he or she draws out of a cigarette.

Do you inhale? Lucky Strike has dared to raise this vital question . . . because certain impurities concealed in even the finest, mildest tobacco leaves are removed by Luckies' famous purifying process. Luckies created that process. Only Luckies have it!

Do you inhale? Remember—more than 20,000 physicians, after Luckies had been furnished them for tests, basing their opinions on their smoking experience, stated that Luckies are less irritating to the throat than other cigarettes.

Do you inhale? Of course you do! So be careful. Safeguard your delicate membranes!

Pile Sufferers

Can You Answer These Questions?

Do you know why external remedies do not give quick and permanent relief?

Why cutting does not remove the cause?

Do you know the cause of Piles is internal?

That there is congestion of blood in the lower bowel—the veins flabby, the parts almost dead?

Do you know that there is a harmless internal remedy for piles discovered by Dr. Leonhardt and known as HEM-ROID that is guaranteed?

HEM-ROID banishes piles by removing the cause. It stimulates the circulation in the lower bowel—drives out the thick impure blood, heals and restores the affected parts.

Dr. Leonhardt's HEM-ROID has an almost unbelievable record of success right in this city. So why waste time on external remedies or worry about an operation when Walgreen's invite every Pile sufferer to try HEM-ROID with guarantee of money-back if it does not end their Piles no matter how stubborn the case?

DRY LAW HIT BY 2D WICKERSHAM BOARD MEMBER

Anderson Calls It Abuse of Federal Power.

New York, May 9.—(AP)—Prohibition in its present form was described tonight by Col. Henry Anderson of Richmond, Va., a member of the President's commission on law observance and enforcement, as "an abuse of power on the part of the government" which "in the end must prove ineffective."

His statement, made in an address before the Ohio society in New York, came on the heels of one in which George W. Wickersham, chairman of the commission, announced himself as favoring submission of the prohibition question to the people.

Col. Anderson outlined the national liquor corporation which was a part of his suggestion for government control as given in his individual report two years ago. Conditions disclosed in the commission report, he said, have grown steadily worse and early action to ameliorate them seems needful.

Experience Painful.

"I stand ready," he continued, "to support any sound plan which would preserve what has been gained by painful experience and promises an effective solution of this vexing problem.

"What I do insist upon is that we should now meet this question fairly and seek its constructive solution.'

A difficulty besetting enforcement, he asserted, was that "the eighteenth amendment was the first instance in our history in which the effort was made by constitutional provision to extend the police control of the federal government to every individual and every home in the United States."

He ascribed some of the failure of the prohibition amendment to the refusal of several states "containing over one-fourth of the entire population of the country" to coöperate in enforcement.

Threatens Social Security.

"The manifest disregard for law in all sections of the country and the failure of enforcement have created serious conditions," he continued. "We are in grave danger of losing what has been gained by the abolition of the liquor traffic and the saloon as formerly conducted solely for private profit. The fruitless efforts at enforcement are causing increased irritation and disrepect for the law generally.

"The enormous revenues from the traffic, placed in the hands of the lawless and criminal element, are enabling them to carry on this business in defiance of government and to organize and develop other lines of criminal activity to an extent which threatens social and economic security."

JAIL BELCASTRO TWICE IN DAY FOR VAGRANCY

James Belcastro, 36 years old, once known as "king of the bombers," was arrested yesterday at Polk and Halsted streets on a charge of vagrancy.

When a writ of habeas corpus was filed police made the formal charge and Belcastro was released on bonds of $1,500. He is to be arraigned today before Judge Thomas A. Green.

Last night as Belcastro loitered at Halsted and Harrison streets, Policemen Prindiville and Fuerst of the Des Plaines street station arrested him again. At the station it was announced he would be held without booking until 7 a. m. today. In 1927 Belcastro, one of the public enemies, served a Bridewell term for carrying concealed weapons.

WOMEN AROUSED BY DRY REPEAL AS MORAL ISSUE

Finland's Example Is Cited by Mrs. Sabin.

Mrs. Charles H. Sabin, national president of the women's organization for national prohibition repeal, said yesterday that in the forthcoming presidential election, women for the first time since their enfranchisement will have a moral cause for which to fight. "And moral causes" she said, "are the only ones upon which women can be aroused to a white heat."

Mrs. Sabin, arriving in Chicago in the morning, spent a busy day in the local headquarters at 700 North Michigan avenue, making plans for the campaign of women's organization during the two national political conventions in June for planks advocating the repeal of the 18th amendment. It was announced that the women would establish headquarters in the Blackstone hotel during the convention.

Cites Example of Finland.

In the afternoon Mrs. Sabin was guest at a tea given by Mrs. Charles King at 1530 North State Parkway.

"Temperance always will be the woman's cause," Mrs. Sabin declared in her talk at the tea. "Finland last winter ended its thirteen years of 'the noble experiment' of national prohibition. The women of that country showed us how the women's vote may be expected to be counted when the issue is between prohibition, and real temperance.

"Two-thirds of the women of Finland voted in favor of the repeal of their national prohibition law. Their vote alone would have sufficed to give the Finnish legislature the mandate to retire prohibition to the limbo of well-meant mistakes.

Demand Decent Control.

"This was not because the majority of the women of Finland were empty-headed, addicted to cocktails or subsidized by liquor interests. It was because they were worried mothers and wives, eager for the decent regulation of the communities in which they lived and in which their children were growing up."

Progress was reported on the local plans for National Repeal week which opens on May 16. Mrs. Sabin will go to Kansas City to complete plans for the observance of National Repeal week there.

Gets Huge Cake

Mayor Cermak celebrated his fifty-ninth birthday twice yesterday, once as the guest of the Bohemian Woman's Civic club at a luncheon, and in the evening at a family dinner at his home, 2348 Millard avenue. As a surprise an enormous birthday cake was cut at the luncheon. Only one candle graced the cake cut at the dinner.

When asked his age, the mayor replied with the story of a girl who, when asked her age at a pooling place, replied, "I'm of legal age." Evading further queries he said he was 50, and again, "old enough to be mayor." He was born in 1873. A huge basket of roses, the gift of Ald. John Toman [23d] and Edward J. Denemark, superintendent of the house of correction, was delivered to his office.

The family party was arranged by the mayor's three daughters, Mrs. Frank J. Jirka, Mrs. Floyd Kenlay, and Mrs. Richey V. Graham.

BELL RESEARCH CHIEF TESTIFIES AT RATE HEARING

Dr. Frank B. Jewett, president of the Bell Telephone laboratories and vice president in charge of development and research of the American Telephone and Telegraph company, testified yesterday when the telephone rate hearings were resumed before Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson. His testimony dealt with the relationship of the laboratories to the Bell companies and the Western Electric company.

The hearings are in connection with the application of the phone company for a permanent injunction restraining the Illinois commerce commission from enforcing its order of 1923 lowering the rates on certain coin box services. The injunction was once granted by the District court, but was sent back by the United States Supreme court for differentiation between interstate and intrastate income of the telephone company. This morning the controller of the laboratories will testify as to the income derived from the telephone companies.

HELD ON SHOOTING CHARGE.

Fred Muddinger, 22 years old, 1530 Hudson avenue, was held to the grand jury yesterday in bond of $15,000 by Judge Howard Hayes on a charge of assault to murder. He is one of three men who are alleged to have shot Edwin Burzermeister, 1625 Addison street, in an attempted holdup.

ROOSEVELT UP TO PHYSICAL PAR, DOCTOR ASSERTS

Can Endure Presidency Cares, A. M. A. Told.

New Orleans, La., May 9.—[Special.]—Franklin D. Roosevelt, governor of New York, is as strong physically as any person of more than average physical excellence, and if elected president can well endure the responsibilities and cares of that office.

That was the opinion expressed Monday by Alice Lou Plastridge, of Warm Springs, Ga., speaking before a meeting of the American Medical association, in convention here this week. For five years Miss Plastridge has been treating Governor Roosevelt for his 11-year-old infantile paralysis.

Drug Substitute Sought.

"He's as strong as you and I," continued Miss Plastridge. "He just does not walk as well as we do. But I can assure you that despite that impediment he is in splendid physical condition."

The medical men gave much attention to the discussion of a substitute to take the place of habit-forming drugs. Research is advancing along that line, it was reported.

Birth Control on Program.

Dr. Walter L. Treadway and Dr. Paul Wolff of Berlin, Germany, head of the narcotic council of the league of nations, were among the featured speakers. Dr. Treadway told of the work of Cobb chemical laboratory at the University of Virginia.

"They are seeking a substitute derived from opium and having all the qualities of the narcotic drug without the evil addiction," said Dr. Treadway.

Dr. Wolff sounded a warning against the false sympathy of doctors in prescribing opiates for patients as a dangerous practice in the formulation of drug addictions.

Birth control was another subject uppermost in the minds of the delegates. The entire question is to be discussed in an executive session tomorrow. Dr. J. P. Brook of Gransville, Mich., has proposed a one-year investigation of using birth control in regular practice.

12 PUT ON TRIAL AS KIDNAPERS OF PEORIA DOCTOR

Lawyer Denied Severance —Death Asked for 3.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Peoria, Ill., May 9.—[Special.]—Selection of a jury promised to be a long and tedious affair as the ten men and two women charged with the kidnaping of Dr. James W. Parker for $50,000 ransom went on trial in the Circuit court of Judge Henry J. Ingram today.

Only one tentative juror of the first panel of four tendered by State's Attorney Henry Pratt was permitted to remain by Defense Attorney George Sprenger, who exercised a dozen peremptory challenges before returning the panel to the state. He is Walter Cusack, a mine operator from Edwards.

PURSIFULL.

240 Peremptory Challenges.

Kidnaping for ransom is a capital offense in Illinois and each side has twenty peremptory challenges for each of the twelve defendants or 240 in all. Observers predicted that a week or more would be required to complete the jury unless Attorney Sprenger, representing eight of the defendants, tires of his exhaustive manner of examination.

The trial opened with the denial by Judge Ingram of a severance for Joseph H. Pursifull, lawyer of sorts, political dabbler, one time school teacher and author of a book called "Love, Marriage and Divorce."

In his petition Pursifull admitted complicity in the case and the prosecutor said the document was tantamount to plea of guilty. Pursifull said that "any connection he had" was caused by "fear and duress" and that he believed his life would have been endangered had he refused the requests of the kidnapers. They are not only kidnapers but "killers," the petition said.

Pursifull, a grim looking man with a vacuous stare in his cloudy gray eyes, was arrested with James W. Betson, ex-detective, Ku Klux Klan leader and "reform" politician, in the headquarters of Len Small. They approached members of the Parker family and said they were acting as intermediaries for the kidnapers.

Insists He Was Blindfolded.

Judge Ingram deferred action on another motion by Pursifull to suppress a document found in his office. When arrested he said this document contained notes on information he was to use in writing the ransom letter to the Parkers and that he made the notes while blindfolded at the command of two mysterious men who entered his office. Prosecutor Pratt asked Pursifull how he crossed the T's and dotted the I's.

The arrest of Pursifull and Betson on March 31, which was followed the next day by the release of Dr. Parker, captive for 17 days, without payment of ransom, was accomplished by operatives of the Chicago Secret Six under Alexander Jamie. Attorney Sprenger asked each of the veniremen whether they knew "anybody connected with the so-called secret six of Chicago."

The defense attorney also asked what newspapers the prospective jurors had read, whether the nature of the crime would prejudice them against the defendants and whether they would hesitate to return a conscientious verdict because of the fear of criticism. He also inquired whether they had any conscientious scruples against the death penalty in a proper case and noted the uncertainty or vehemence with which they responded. This was because State Attorney Pratt in his examination of the veniremen had put this question:

"It is the right and duty of the jury to decide the form of punishment in this case. If you feel that the death penalty should be meted out to any of the defendants would you hesitate to impose that penalty?"

Ex-Convict, Safe Blower.

The prosecution, it is understood, will seek the death penalty for Pursifull, Betson and Claude [Red] Evans, ex-convict and safe blower. The other defendants are:

A. B. FALL FREED AFTER 9 MONTH TERM IN PRISON

Leaves in Ambulance for El Paso, Tex.

Carrizozo, N. M., May 9.—(AP)—Albert B. Fall, once again a free man, rested at his Tres Rios ranch tonight after a long trip by ambulance from the New Mexico penitentiary at Santa Fe.

Santa Fe, N. M., May 9.—[Special.]—Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior, left the New Mexico state prison today, a free man. He had served nine months and nineteen days of the year and a day sentence imposed upon him by the District of Columbia Supreme court for accepting a $100,000 bribe while a member of President Harding's cabinet.

ALBERT B. FALL. [U. & U. Photo.]

A model prisoner, Fall reduced his term 77 days by good behavior. Tonight the aged ex-convict was journeying in an ambulance across the state he helped to nourish through infancy towards his former home, Tres Rios ranch, at Three Rivers, N. M. Fall no longer owns the property, title having passed to Edward L. Doheny, the California oil man, from whom Fall was convicted of accepting the bribe. Doheny foreclosed a $100,000 mortgage on the ranch. After an overnight stop Fall will continue on to El Paso, Tex.

Arrived in Same Vehicle.

The ambulance rolled out the prison gates at 1:22 o'clock, mountain time. It was the same vehicle which conveyed Fall to the prison last July and which Fall bitterly referred to at that time as "a damned hearse."

A sedan closely followed the ambulance. At the wheel was Fall's daughter, Mrs. C. C. Chase. In the rear seat were Fall's wife and another daughter, Mrs. Jouett Illicot. The family physician, Dr. Robert O. Brown, had examined Fall in the warden's office and pronounced him fit for the trip, although still a sick man as he was when he entered prison. Reports that Fall was mentally ill were denied.

Released After Delay.

Fall gained his release only after a long distance argument between Warden Ed Swope and Washington officials. Swope was determined to hold the prisoner until he received amended commitment papers, with elimination of the phrase that Fall should remain confined "until the $100,000 fine is paid."

The warden relented after ascertaining that the amended papers had been air mailed from Washington last Saturday and would arrive here tomorrow.

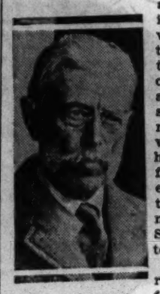
They were married in July, 1918, and separated on April 8, following a quarrel over money, the bill stated.

CHARLES R. FLINT, AGED FINANCIER, RETURNS HOME

Washington, D. C., May 9.—[Special.]—Charles R. Flint, who outfitted a navy for Brazil in 1893 and who was known as the father of trusts," in this country, object of a widespread search since last night, when his wife had reported him missing, fooled the searchers by returning to their apartment in the Shoreham hotel today.



CHARLES R. FLINT. [W. W. Photo.]

The 83 year old retired financier, former partner in Grace & Co., New York financial house, left his home about 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon to go to Johns Hopkins hospital, Baltimore. When he did not return after a reasonable time his wife told police, she telephoned the hospital and learned he had not been there.

Mr. Flint retired two years ago after a long career in organizing corporations which earned him his title as "father of trusts."

TAX HYSTERIA IN ENGLAND CRAMPS RECOVERY DRIVE

Levies Continue to Rise as Britons Groan.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 9.—The British parliament today resumed its discussion of the new tariffs imposed by the national government. These tariffs, while definitely protective in intention, can only add to the crushing burden of taxation under which Britain is groaning and which, having brought her to the brink of ruin, is now acting as a brake on recovery.

A comparison of figures of the total tax revenue now and before the war supplies astonishing evidence of how war hysteria and extravagance destroyed all sense of public responsibility.

Government after government, Conservatives, Liberals, Socialists, all piled on the taxes. The Tories were just as extravagant as the Socialists and the Liberals tried to outdo both. The result is that the ordinary British taxpayer today is paying nearly five times as much as he paid in 1913.

How Taxes Leaped.

In the fiscal year, 1913-1914, the total amount of the tax collected by the government was $789,972,000, taking the pound as roughly worth $4. This, with a population of 45,000,000, made a burden of $17.50 for every man, woman, and child in the country, or taking the family unit as five persons, $87.50 for each family.

The 1931-1932 revenue has grown to the enormous total of $3,404,472,000 and for the present year, after every effort at economy was engendered by the panic and crash of last autumn, it is estimated at $3,392,408,000, or $75.50 per person, or $377.50 per family.

In reality it is a great deal worse than this, for, under the British policy of soaking the rich, the income tax is paid by only about 3,000,000 people. Excise stamp duties, customs, and the like, of course, catch the poorer classes, but in the last analysis it is the energetic people who need money for developing business and launching new undertakings to restore employment and who are forced to bear the heavier burden of taxes.

Surtax Heavy Burden.

This is particularly clear when one considers the income tax and surtax law. The standard rate of the income tax is 5 shillings in 1 pound, or 25 per cent. There are exemptions in the lower brackets of income, but they cease so soon they may be regarded as negligible. Any one earnig over $2,000 annually has to pay a full tax. It is when the surtax is reached, however, that the "robber state" gets in its best work.

The surtax starts at incomes of $8,000 annually. At first the pressure is applied gently, but the squeeze rapidly gets harder as the incomes increase. On the first $400 it is 1 per cent extra, but on an income of $400,000 the tax is first the 5 shillings, or a 25 per cent income tax, and then an additional 7 shillings and sixpence surtax, so that the unfortunate taxpayer is mulcted out of $250,000 by the state and has $150,000 left for developing a business, managing an estate, or what not.

The death duties, however, are the real business wreckers. Like the surtax, their object is to soak the rich. Beginning with 1 per cent on an estate of $400, they rise steeply so that the heirs of a person who left $8,000,000 must hand over just half of the estate to the state.

Seizure of Wealth Hurts Trade.

In the present condition of British trade it is impossible frequently to realize assets without a heavy loss, but the treasury is inexorable. Taxes must be paid, although the country is ruined, and the result is that businesses, estates, and stocks are thrown on the market at knockout prices when the rich man dies.

Many undertakings are permanently crippled by this legalized expropriation of wealth. It is true that more than half the British revenues are spent on the cost of past and future wars. This means that the revenues go to maintaining fighting services, paying military and naval pensions and interest on old war debts. Even with this in mind, it is utterly impossible to justify the excessive increase in the cost of ordinary government expenditures since the era before the world war.

Expenditures for purely civilian services have grown roughly from $200,000,000 in 1913 to $1,500,000,000 in the present year. This applies to all departments. The social services have grown like mushrooms. Old age pensions, doles, and poor relief have all been lavishly developed at the expense of those still working and struggling to make both ends meet.

In the case of education it is a fact that the cost of educating a child in the common schools in 1913 was $20. Today it is $60. The same applies through the whole realm of government. If England fails to recover from last year's smash and goes down to permanent ruin it will be due to taxation which has become confiscatory, and only differs in a degree from expropriation as practiced by soviet Russia.

BRITAIN TO INCREASE TARIFF ON SILK TO ASSIST OWN INDUSTRY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 9.—The British silk industries will receive temporary tariff assistance to meet the crisis they are now facing following the withdrawal of the abnormal imports duty of fifty per cent on artificial silk goods. Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer, tomorrow will ask the house of commons to authorize a change of duties pending a special investigation. The terms of his resolution will authorize an additional duty of twenty per cent on imported manufactured silk goods, it is understood.

In order to prevent dumping it is intended to have the resolution passed tomorrow night. The increased duty will become operative immediately. Chamberlain's announcement was made during a debate tonight on the finance bill.

CHICAGO YOUTH KILLED BY AUTO ON INDIANA ROAD

Anthony Plott, 27 years old, 942 West 34th street, was killed and his companion, Joseph Getautis, 26 years old, of the same address, was critically injured yesterday when they were struck by an automobile while hiking near Noblesville, Ind. The driver was Kenneth Sloan of Indianapolis. He was held for the inquest. Police said both men were hitch hiking to Thomas, W. Va.

Miss Lelah Castle, 18 years old, 4656 North Central Park avenue. Died at the Swedish Convenant hospital from an infection resulting from injuries sustained in an automobile accident several weeks ago.

Stephen Driscoll, 35 years old, 624 West 69th street, suffered a skull fracture, and his wife, Catherine, 34 years old, and Mrs. Mary Bulfin, 40 years old, 6945 Stewart avenue, were bruised when the auto in which they were passengers crashed into a street car at 69th street and Oakley avenue.

Policeman Thomas Curran, 58 years old, assigned to the North Damen avenue station, was seriously injured last evening when he was struck by an automobile as he alighted from a bus at Sunnyside and Central avenue. The auto was driven by Miss Marion Kivolek, 26 years old, 6524 Waukeshaw avenue.

LIST OF STARVING RUSSIAN SUICIDES GROWS RAPIDLY

Moscow Letters Reveal Plight of People.

BY DONALD DAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, May 9.—Latvian frontier guards since Jan. 1 have arrested more than forty German workers attempting to cross the soviet border illegally. Undernourished and ragged, some of them unemployed for more than a year, the Germans attempted to smuggle themselves into Russia in freight trains carrying German machinery. In Latvia the cars are inspected before they cross the frontier and the Germans, most of them youths, attempted to continue their journey on foot. Between four and five men are being arrested weekly and sent home.

Thus far not one of Latvia's 89,000 unemployed has attempted to go to Russia to seek jobs. With local industry paralyzed by a government whose bureaucracy is draining the nation's lifeblood, the number of unemployed are increasing. In Latvia everything taxable has been taxed and capital has fled abroad. Socialistic government pampers the unemployed, who refuse to leave the cities to work in the country where the peasants are crying for hands. Last year, with 10,000 unemployed, Latvia permitted thousands of Lithuanian and Polish farm laborers to enter the country for seasonal work. This year they will be barred.

Reds Subsidized by Moscow.

The Moscow communist international spends thousands of dollars each year subsidizing the Latvian communist party. More than 400 members of this party are serving sentences in Latvian prisons. Agitators, supplied with funds, continue to arrive from Moscow. They continue to report that there is no unemployment in Russia, that working and living conditions are on a high standard, that there is plenty of everything across the border. But no Letts attempt to enter Russia to seek work.

The explanation is found in the thousands of letters arriving in Latvia every month from relatives living in Russia. These letters report that conditions are steadily growing worse in Russia.

"Only the communists eat three meals a day," write a Lett from Moscow. "The workers have work but no bread. Before the peasant sold us our food in the markets, today he is treated as an enemy of the government and is being persecuted and banished or forced into communal farms.

No Milk or Butter.

"You can take a train to any town within a radius of fifty miles from Moscow and you will not be able to purchase a single pound of flour, a loaf of bread, a bushel of potatoes, a single egg, or a chicken or a goose. There are no pigs, no sheep, and the cows are concentrated in the breeding farms. There is no milk or butter.

"Our papers write that in Latvia the workers are starving and being forced to work in the forests. We are in a worse plight. If we get a cabbage from the coöperative we have to boil it in water only and if some one has the head of a herring left over he puts it in the 'soup.' Sugar is being sold only to teachers. We live on black bread and potatoes.

"The number of suicides is large, but not a word is published about them in the press. You never see old people in Moscow any more. They have all died. It is strange, a person 60 years old attracts attention. They are a curiosity.

Trade Bread for Milk.

"It is very interesting to visit the Moscow chief postoffice. Every day hundreds of people mail packages of bread to their relatives in other towns where there is none. Some one discovered that the postage is much less if you dry the bread before you mail it, so now the postoffice no longer smells like a bakery. We occasionally obtain a quart of milk from a peasant woman for which we pay two pounds of bread. She says there is no bread in their village, which is just outside of Moscow."

Another letter says:

"The famine has begun in Moscow. It is more terrible than in 1919-1920. At that time you had something to trade for bread and the peasants had food. Today they are as bad off as we in the city. It seems as though everything has been completely destroyed. The agriculture is destroyed, cows and even horses have been eaten. There is nothing left to eat.

Only Communists Fed.

"The government only feeds the communists, the Gay Pay Ou [secret police] and the army. There is no seed grain to sow, no potatoes to plant. Our life is horrible, but the future seems to promise worse. All persons who worked independently have been exterminated. If you have not a bread card today you are lost, and to get one you must be working for the government. What I will do I do not know. I do not like to give up yet."

In the Riga postoffice thousands of food packages packages with an average value of $4 are being mailed to Russia every week. Riga grocery stores feature window displays advertising that they will pack, mail and pay the customs on food parcels. The local soviet consulate has published a list of 54 standard parcels which may be mailed into Russia. The contents of each are different and if one wishes to mail some cheese and cocoa to a relative in Russia one must also include in the package one-fourth of a pound of tobacco, two pounds of macaroni and a pound of dried peas. It is not permitted to select the contents of the package yourself.

GRAND JURY AT MIAMI INDICTS LANCASTER ON MURDER CHARGE

Miami, Fla., May 9.—(AP)—Capt. W. N. Lancaster, former British army flyer, was indicted by the Dade county grand jury today on a charge of first degree murder for the death of Haden Clarke, 28 year old author and fiancé of Mrs. Jessie M. Keith-Miller, Lancaster's flying partner.

Lancaster is in jail. State Attorney N. Vernon Hawthorne claims the flyer, Mrs. Keith-Miller, and Clarke were the principals in a love triangle.

The Englishman maintains he is innocent and Mrs. Keith-Miller joined him in expressing the conviction Clarke committed suicide.

Clarke was shot April 21 at Mrs. Keith-Miller's home in a bedroom he and Lancaster occupied. Lancaster admitted he forged Clarke's name to two notes designed to show suicide. He said he desired to spare Mrs. Keith-Miller from an investigation. Clarke's mother discredits the versions of suicide.

L. F. SWIFT PUTS MORTGAGES ON LAND HOLDINGS

$1,500,000 Placed on North Shore Properties.

BY AL CHASE.

Two of Lake county's largest mortgages, totaling $1,150,000, made by Louis F. Swift on his various north shore properties, have been filed at the office of the recorder of deeds at Waukegan. One is for $950,000 and the other for $200,000. Both are made to William B. Traynor, as trustees, with J. G. Smithwick as successor trustee. The mortgages comprise a refunding loan to take care of several notes signed by Louis F. Swift and payable to George H., Harold H., Edward F., and Gustav F. Swift, and also to Swift & Co. Mr. Traynor is vice president of Swift & Co. Louis F. Swift is chairman of the board.

Location of Properties.

The properties against which the two mortgages are placed are in Deerfield, Vernon, and Shields townships; the latter including Mr. Swift's Lake Forest property. Among the notes mentioned in the $950,000 mortgage is one for $800,000 dated Sept. 28, 1931, to the order of Swift & Co., indorsed by Edward F., Charles H., Gustav F., and George H., and Harold Swift. Another is dated Nov. 24, 1930, for $100,000, payable on demand to George H. Swift; another is for a similar amount dated June 3, 1931, one year from date, payable to G. F., Harold H. and George H. Swift.

The $200,000 mortgages cares for a note of $100,000, dated Nov. 24, 1930, executed by Louis F. Swift, payable on demand to the order of George H. Swift. A second note for $100,000 is dated June 3, 1931, payable to Charles H., G. F. and Harold H. Swift. All of these notes and the two mortgages are at 5 per cent.

Hess, Inc., Will Expand.

W. D. Hess Jr., Inc., has leased the store at 4152 West Madison street for the sale of General Electric washing machines and ironers, for an undisclosed term, and will open this new branch the middle of the week. Mr. Hess, who is president of the concern bearing his name, states that this will be his sixth Chicago establishment. The others are at 1506 Howard street, 4502 Broadway, 2737 Milwaukee avenue, 7853 South Halsted street, and one to be opened shortly on Stony Island, just south of 69th street.

The concern later on, Mr. Hess states, probably will open branches in the larger suburbs. Until that time the products will be sold through dealers in the various towns around Chicago. R. J. Dallach is sales manager and F. J. Salbert is treasurer of W. D. Hess Jr., Inc. The main offices and show rooms are on the 21st floor of the Merchandise Mart. There also is a branch show room on the main floor.

The new corporation held a banquet last night at the Congress hotel, at which the 100 salesmen were guests of Mr. Hess. C. E. Wilson, vice president in charge of the Bridgeport, Conn., plant of the General Electric company, and A. J. Francis, manager of the home laundry equipment department at Bridgeport, were guests of honor.

Some Recent Leases.

Among a list of leases negotiated by Leo Raemer, president of the Illinois National Realty corporation, in the loop and outlying neighborhoods are the following. The store at 84 West Madison, for D. A. Schulte, Inc., to Joseph Warso for women's ready to wear; store at 4133 West Madison for Fannie Kahn to Abraham Altman for a shoe store and at 4135 West Madison to Herman J. Elkins for women's wear.

KILLED MOTORING TO VISIT MOTHER.

Evansville, Ind., May 9.—[Special.]—Clair Frances, 26, killed in a motor accident early yesterday while en route from Chicago to his home in McCutchauville to spend Mother's day with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bailey Frances, will be buried from his home tomorrow afternoon.

INSISTS ON TRIAL OF FOUR ACCUSED BY MRS. MASSIE

Prosecutor Threatens to Seek Her Arrest.

BY CLIFFORD GESSLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HONOLULU, May 9.—Determination to press the retrial of the four remaining men accused of the rape of Thalia Massie was expressed today by Prosecutor John C. Kelley, although the complaining witness sailed yesterday for the mainland. He announced that the trial will start as scheduled on May 25.

Kelley said that if she does not appear in Circuit Judge A. M. Cristy's court on that day, he will request a warrant for her arrest. This, however, is thought to be only a gesture on the prosecutor's part as it is conceded that he cannot proceed without her. He cannot enforce a warrant for her arrest beyond the juriadiction of the court and this authority does not extend to the mainland.

Police insist that the subpoena calling for Mrs. Massie's appearance was served orally by Dewey Mookini, territorial police officer, while another officer held the door to her stateroom open with his foot, but this report is generally discounted and it is believed that the navy won the trick to keep process servers away from her before her ship sailed for San Francisco.

Kelley said that he ordered the police officers not to use force and told them that "we want to avoid further rows with the navy."

Admiral Vouches for Confession.

San Francisco, Cal., May 9.—(AP)—The Chronicle, in a story vouched for by Rear Admiral William C. Cole, commandant of the Twelfth naval district, says Horace Ida confessed to a group of men who kidnaped him last Dec. 12 that he was one of five natives who attacked Mrs. Thalia Massie in Honolulu.

Further, the story says, Ida implicated Joseph Kahahawai, for whose slaying Lieut. Thomas H. Massie, his mother-in-law, Mrs. Granville Fortescue, and two navy enlisted men were convicted of manslaughter, sentenced to serve ten years in prison and saved from serving all but one hour by the Hawaii governor's commutation.

BROKER KILLS SELF WITH GUN NEAR HIS HOME

George B. Trumbull, 51 years old, an insurance broker, shot himself in the head yesterday in the alley behind his home at 4036 Lake Park avenue. His act was witnessed by two neighbors who had been conversing a short distance down the alley. They took him to the Chicago hospital, where he died a few hours later.

Trumbull was a son of John H. Trumbull, a charter member of the Chicago Real Estate board, who died in 1928. He inherited considerable property from his father, but had suffered financial losses recently, it was said.

Newton C. Farr, real estate broker who is agent for Trumbull's properties, said that the dead man had been despondent over separation from his wife. He was divorced in November, 1930, by his second wife, remarried shortly afterward, and had recently announced his intention of leaving Chicago and joining his wife, whom he had already established in a home at Great Neck, Long Island.

BOB CASHIER IN RESTAURANT.

Two gunmen yesterday took $900 from Miss Alice Hoffman, 3380 Clybourn avenue, cashier in the La Salle restaurant at 600 South Wabash avenue. Thirty customers were not aware of the robbery.

AUSTRIANS SAIL TO GET REMAINS OF EMPEROR KARL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 9.—Flying the imperial Austrian flag of its temporary owners, the British yacht Sheila left Southampton today with Prince Ulrich F. Kinsky and Count Festetics, Austrian royalists, bound for the Madeira islands, where, by Premier Mussolini' permission, the remains of former Emperor Karl will be taken aboard for reinterment at Villa Pianore, Lucca, Italy, the former Empress Zita's former home. Until the emperor can be buried in Vienna by Austrian royalists the remains will lie beside Bourbon ancestors. The emperor will be the first German to lie in the royal French vaults.

BRITISH AIR LINER HIT BY LIGHTNING; 13 ABOARD SAFE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 9.—Lightning today struck the Horatius, an Imperial Airways air liner in the cross channel service, while it was over Tonbridge Kent, en route from the Croydon airdrome to Paris.

Thirteen passengers were in the plane, which was flying at a height of 2,000 feet when a bolt struck it, damaging the wireless equipment.

The pilot, Capt. Jones, returned to Croydon. The passengers, who, it was declared, were at no time in any danger, were transferred to another liner which took off for Paris. The passengers said they did not feel the shock.

EVANSTON PUTS $650,000 OF TAX PAPER ON SALE

Issuance of 1932 tax warrants amounting roughly to $650,000 was authorized last night by the Evanston city council. Ald. George Paddock of the Seventh ward, who handled the tax warrant sale last year, was appointed chairman of the new drive. He will announce details of the sales campaign next Monday. The money derived will be used for all department expenditures.

A half hour debate over the plea of the United Spanish War Veterans for a permit to sell poppies in Evanston on May 26 enlivened the council meeting. Permits were granted recently to the American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars to sell poppies on that day, but the judiciary committee had held up this request. By a vote of nine to seven the permit was granted.

Union of Standard Club with Covenant Debated

Consolidation of the memberships of the Standard and Covenant clubs has been under discussion by a small group of members in each club, but no definite action has been taken by the boards of governors of the clubs to bring about the merger, said U. S. Schwartz, a member of the Standard club, who has participated in the conversations, last night.

I'm not famous but my car is

My Chrysler beats any car I have ever owned . . .

Mine isn't a front-page name. I'm not wealthy, I'm not poor . . . just go along enjoying myself in my own little world of neighbors and friends.

But just because I'm not famous myself is no reason why I shouldn't drive a famous car. I do. I drive a Chrysler—with that patented Floating Power everybody is talking about.

I don't mind telling you I like it better, far better, than any other car I ever owned. It's great to own a car everybody seems to admire. I don't care where I go, whom I meet, I can always hold my head up and be proud of my automobile.

It's satisfying to drive a car you can honestly think of as the smartest and best-performing car on wheels . . . the most up-to-date car . . . a car that has many fine things, many important developments, that other cars do not have.

Sure, I'm telling my friends to buy Chryslers. I'm a friend to my friends. Anxious to see them as pleased with a car as I am with mine.

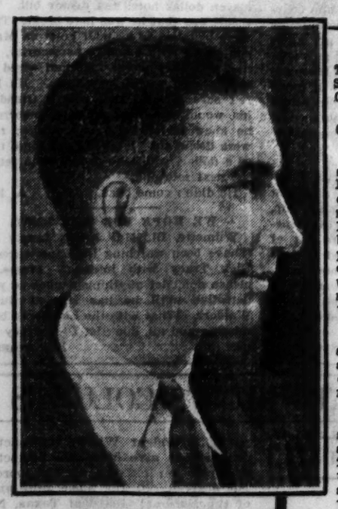
"Was 80% Bald" Thomas re-grew his hair



The Thomas
Scalp Specialists
General Office

November 23, 1931

Gentlemen:

I want to express my gratitude to you for the results which I obtained through your scalp treatment. During the early part of 1927 I began to notice a lot of dandruff on my scalp. My scalp itched severely and my hair became dry and brittle and fell out very fast. I immediately began to use various lotions but without beneficial results. In fact, after ten months of experimentation with these "cure-alls" I developed what doctors told me was a severe case of alopecia, and I was at least 80% bald. This condition worried me very much so I took various kinds of treatments for more than two years without any apparent improvement.

About this time I heard of The Thomas treatment and decided to investigate it. I came to your office and as you know, was accepted for treatment. Benefits came rapidly. My dandruff soon disappeared and hair fall decreased greatly.

The photograph of myself which I am enclosing shows exactly what you did for me. I have regained all of the hair I lost. New hair (not fuzz) three inches long is now growing on the spots which were so thin and bare. As I took treatment almost two years ago it is evident that the results are permanent and that I am not going to have any more scalp worries.

Again I want to thank you for the splendid results. You may feel free to refer to me anyone who is suffering the embarrassment of baldness as I did. Or, if you wish, you may use this letter to convince them of your ability to grow hair.

Yours very truly,

C. S. Clapp

YOU Men with dandruff, falling hair, itchy scalp, bald spots—profit by Mr. Clapp's experience. Don't waste your time or your hair experimenting with general "cure-alls." Consult a Thomas specialist immediately. He knows how to overcome your scalp troubles.

No charge will be made for a complete scalp examination. You, too, need and can have a good head of hair!

Note: The above picture of Mr. C. S. Clapp has not been retouched. The original picture and letter can be seen at The Thomas General Offices.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

WICKERSHAM OR JUST SHAM?

Mr. Wickersham, chairman of the law enforcement commission, recommends that a national vote be taken on prohibition. He suggests that an amendment to the eighteenth amendment be referred to the people, although it is not quite clear from the reports of his statement whether he meant just that. Nothing less than a question with a determinative issue is worth a vote. A test of opinion should contain an answer and a decision. Mr. Wickersham spoke of crystallization of deliberate opinion, which confuses his meaning.

It is supposed to be the purpose in the American scheme of government that a question of federal procedure of such a character as prohibition shall get to the people when they want it to and the manner of it is provided. It is not the duty of congress to prevent it, but to permit it when the issue is important and the consent of the country is uncertain. Congress would have been justified in refusing to submit the eighteenth amendment because it is not of constitutional texture. It is a police ordinance. Because of its very nature it is out of place in the basic document of American law, but it is there now and congress is out of order when it refuses to allow the political processes of the national Union to be used on it.

A vote to determine the sentiment of the country with no other consequences mandatory would be largely waste motion. There is no provision for such an election, but the methods of getting a decision are specifically provided.

The probabilities with regard to national prohibition are becoming clearer. The question may be disposed of in the manner contemplated by law. The asperities and brutalities of the Volstead act may be modified by congressional act. The act should be repealed regardless of other proceedings. The whole question may be submitted to orderly process or the prohibitionists may stand pat and take the consequences. One thing is certain. The country, vexed as it is by the law, will not stand still. Congress, finding itself more and more at outs with the prevailing opinion in the largest states, will do what it did with the thirteenth and fourteenth amendments. It will refuse to enforce them. Even one house of congress, alone, can refuse appropriations for enforcement and the federal agents will die official deaths.

A plausible assumption would be that Mr. Wickersham is talking for Mr. Hoover. Now is the fascinating time in a President's first term when it seems desirable to create favorable impressions in the minds of all men. If the President, a candidate for another term, has appeared unconditionally attached to one side of an argument it is not unusual for a distinguished friend of the candidate to suggest that the candidate is of much more open mind than his opponents in the argument might have concluded from what he has done and said.

If Mr. Wickersham is undertaking this service for Mr. Hoover it is a handsome bit of loyalty on his part. He may be satisfied with the outcome of his labors in studying law enforcement, but the majority of the investigators serving with him must feel that the waste basket was not indicated to them in the beginning as the place to which their studies and conclusions were destined. These investigators who separately found that prohibition was a failure and intolerable as a national policy were supposed to be making an investigation for the guidance of the administration. Mr. Wickersham says that the only way to reconcile the separate opinions that prohibition was a failure was to declare that it was a success.

Mr. Wickersham by the same process of reasoning may wish it to appear that Mr. Hoover, having accepted the Volstead act and all its consequences and Bishop Cannon and all his works, is in reality in sympathy with citizens wishing to destroy the act and to retire Bishop Cannon to clerical life.

This cannot be done by advocacy of a herring trail referendum. It can only be done by advocating the repeal of the Volstead act and the submission of the eighteenth amendment for repeal, the repeal of the Volstead act not to be dependent upon the verdict of the states on the amendment, but independent of it. Bad as the amendment must be as the sire of hereditary evils, the Volstead act is illegitimate offspring.

CHICAGO MONEY FOR CHICAGO ROADS.

The first warm Sunday of the season filled the roads with motorists. The only really congested highways in Illinois were those in the metropolitan area. Elsewhere in the state traffic moved at its accustomed pace. Near Chicago the radial roads were so crowded that driving was less a pleasure than a painful chore.

The last regular session of the legislature appropriated more than $100,000,000 for Illinois highway construction and maintenance. By far the greater portion of the money is going to be spent downstate where there is relatively little need for new highways. The metropolitan district pays at least half of the total road bill in the state and probably, if the truth were to be revealed, considerably more. The city motorist gets only a negligible proportion of the benefits. Citizens of the metropolitan area who have greatest need for getting out into the country are almost unable to do so.

The people of Chicago are justified in demanding a fairer distribution of the money. As a matter of fact, a reasonable regard for the interests and welfare of Chicago would actually profit downstaters. It would bring Chicago money into the country areas where it would be spent for food, lodging and motor supplies. Better highway facilities around Chicago would increase the consumption of gasoline and thereby add to the state's total revenues for roads. The best investment which Illinois can make today with its road funds is the building of wider roads and grade separations in all directions within a radius of, perhaps, forty miles from the loop. Beyond that zone the congestion, even on the first pleasant Sunday of the year, was not troublesome.

DISORDERLY MARKETING.

The price of wheat is at or near the low point for thirty years and more. Even in a period of exceptionally low prices for almost all commodities the current market for wheat is strikingly depressed. The fact is the more remarkable in view of the certainty of a short crop of winter wheat. This year's yield will run, according to all estimates, at least 200,000,000 bushels and probably closer to 300,000,000 bushels behind the harvest of a year ago. Wheat prices ought to be moving upward against the general price trend; instead they have been leading the procession downward.

The explanation lies, of course, in the operations of the farm board. The board's accumulation of wheat is hanging over the market. No one will buy because of the fear that, if prices tend to rise, the farm board will unload here or in the export markets. The statements of government agents as to farm board policies have been shown, time and again, to be untrustworthy, and few prospective buyers will venture their money, therefore, in speculations based on farm board promises of what will be done or will not be done with the government's holdings.

The wheat farmers must expect to bear the brunt of price recessions until the farm board's stabilization scheme is liquidated. Had the stabilization scheme never been undertaken, the prices of recent crops might have been somewhat lower, but the present and future would be far brighter. As it is, the farmers will continue year after year to pay in low prices for any slight help they received in the past. The wheat that was bought at artificially high prices and held off the market would have been sold and eaten had the normal marketing machinery been allowed to function. Because the normal machinery was dislocated, the price of wheat today cannot respond even to the certainty of a short yield.

The agitation for the farm board's stabilization scheme was promoted for a good many years. The argument always started with the premise that the marketing of wheat was disorderly as it was then conducted. The government was therefore to step in to create what was called an orderly market.

The farm board's operations can best be examined in the light of that criticism. We can now see that the marketing of grain, as it formerly was conducted, was as orderly as it well could be. Contrary to the common assumption, it is not true that at harvest time prices were depressed with the result that farmers generally received the low price for their grain. Wheat moved into consumption with a singularly even flow. Without subsidies from the taxpayers and without a corps of high salaried jobholders, prices adjusted themselves to the point where all the wheat that was produced, except for a reasonable carryover, was consumed within a crop year.

The critics of the traditional marketing system confused orderly marketing with unvarying prices. The two things are mutually contradictory. The essence of orderly marketing must be price fluctuation. Prices must go up or down to the point where the last bushel of wheat will be sold at the best price which can be obtained for it. The farm board, by tampering with the marketing machinery which had been developed in three-quarters of a century of experience in Chicago, has destroyed the prosperity of the farmers. There will be no price recovery until that machinery is restored as a free functioning agency.

Editorial of the Day

HISTORICAL DRAMA.

[Providence Evening Bulletin.]

In one section of the far east, within a radius of a few hundred miles, can be witnessed a situation which is packed tight with the drama of history, past and present. The participants are the three nations which may eventually, through forces none can control, plunge millions of people—and maybe the world—into another period of destruction and death.

On one side of the border wait the troops of soviet Russia, not knowing what may happen and fearful of consequences to the elaborate politico-economic system that has been built up in the last decade should it happen. On the other side are troops of the mikado, their commanders hankering to settle by force of arms with Russia troublesome issues, but doubting if the empire's resources can withstand the strain of a full sized war. And all around, conducting guerrilla warfare and making life unbearable for the conquerors, are Chinese troops—irregulars—who refuse to swear allegiance to or serve the new Manchurian government and play the two great powers against each other.

It may be that the tight situation now existing will quiet down because of economic pressure. But there are forces at work which sooner or later will bring the same participants to vigorous life. Japan must make her way into Manchuria or suffer being overlapped by the sheer weight of multitudinous China, as well as being in danger of slow strangulation in times of war by the denial of access to the Asiatic mainland and a continuous flow of supplies. Then there is China, which has historically considered Manchuria to be the barricade outside the great wall against the "barbarians," the most recent of whom have been the Russians and the Japanese.

The world may well watch the spectacle in the far east with apprehension. There nations are struggling not only for great material stakes, but carrying out, willy-nilly, the command of forces, deep lying, ruthless, not to be denied, which bode no good for future peace.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

MAYOR JIMMIE WALKER says he'll have one hundred thousand in his great beer parade in Gotham Saturday. But will it convince the stalwart bone drys who stand on the sidewalks and view the parade? It will not. They will look wonderingly at the marchers and then shake their heads and say it's a fine thing we have prohibition in this country or otherwise some of those one hundred thousand marchers might be tempted to take a drink. "But now," the drys will say, "it is impossible for anybody to drink even a drop of intoxicating beverages, no matter how small the quantity of alcohol." And they're not kidding; they believe it.

SILVER SONG FOR CHILDHOOD.

Shoes of silver wears the moon,
And walks on tiptoe light.
She picks her way past little stars
Through all the valleys of the night.
A veil of silver wears the moon,
And a gown of silver sheen.
Across the meadows of the sky
I watch her glide; I see her lean
Her silver head upon the wind.
I see her bend, all silvery fair
And pluck a little silver star
And pin it in her silver hair

CAMPASPE.

BURGOO!

Yessir, we thought Burgoo King would win. And he did! We put good money on Burgoo King right on the nose because of our faith in that magic, never to be forgotten word "burgoo." Just what burgoo is and how it is made we can't tell. You may find a recipe, but that, of course, is intended for family cooking in the back of the flat. Real burgoo must be cooked in Kentucky; it has to be made outdoors and boiled forty-eight hours by a cross-eyed Afromerican. No other burgoo is genuine. What goes into it? We have heard many excited statements, which seem to indicate that it is made by putting choice bits of quail, pheasant, rabbit, squirrel, bourbon whisky, humming birds' tongues, whales' milk, heavenly manna, and other things into two gallons of dew collected from rosebuds early in the morning. Cook forty-eight hours on an oak fire in the midst of a deep forest. And it must be stirred constantly by the cross-eyed Afromerican. Serve then and there, at midnight, in the light of the moon. And when you've eaten it you can know there is nothing else in life really worth while.

"BILLION DOLLAR TAX BILL Goes to Senate; Hoover Urges Haste."—Headline. Well, Mr. President, as far as we personally are concerned there needn't be the slightest hurry. Honestly, you'd be surprised how patient we are in this matter.

PSYCHOANALYZING WASHINGTON

Sir: A city of pearl and cream tinted coral, built out of the skeletons of tiny, submerged actinozoic taxpayers; beautiful beyond belief with the crystallization of artists' dreams; gift of an epoch of luxuriant exuberance when utility was subservient to architectural form, and money was no object. So were the pyramids erected, and the Parthenon. We are very proud of our Capital, and a little ashamed, now, in the conviction that such lavish display of wealth and beauty is, perhaps, paganlike or overaltruistic in this so material and mechanistic age. But, after all, the little coral building creatures must live their day and die, anyhow; and their skeletons have to be deposited somewhere.

The taxpaying animalculus is inclined to carp and call these things extravagance. Particularly just now he seems to feel that what is good taste in art is bad taste in economics. But he is still maintaining, of his own volition, the vicarious harem of Hollywood, of Arabian Nights' magnificence, and supporting a billion dollar aristocracy of bootleggers.

And, after all, are monument, memorial, cenotaph, so utterly useless? Are Washington's galleries, museums, convention halls, palatial department buildings quite unnecessarily ornate? They represent the loftiest of mankind's longings, rendered tangible and everlasting in marble; the glamour of dreams made enduring. And at such a time as the present, more than ever, a refuge from the sordid realities is needed by us all. No man is ever completely destitute until he is divested of his dreams. . . .

And our representatives, whom it is our great American prerogative to toast and then to roast,—if they were truly representative of a cross section of our citizenry, how infinitely worse would be our situation! For, in a really representative congress, there would be sitting a formidable bloc of hoodlums and gangsters; of rabid reds; of illiterates; of wild-eyed reformers; and the muddle they would make of things would be altogether beyond unmuddling. I am throwing only the commonest garden variety of bouquets, mind you, at our congressmen; but I think we should be thankful that they rate higher than the rank and file of us voters, and that the government at Washington, such as it is, still lives.

EOLUS.

IRONY.

I'm strong for the king and the queen act,
With soldiers to do as I said;
I've a hunch I could manage a trapeze,
And stand in the air on my head.

An actress has fun in her stagecraft,
A gypsy can dance on the mountains—
I work in a neat looking office
With desk shades and nice drinking fountains.

HELEN WELSHIMER.

AND THE TROUBLE is now that a lot of enthusiastic dwellers up in the hills of Kentucky will insist on voting for Burgoo King for President. And after all, you must admit, we might go further and fare worse.

THE CONSUMPTIVES' THINKING.

THERE is an old popular opinion that men with tuberculosis of the lungs are optimistic beyond all reason. This opinion makes out the consumptive as the granddaddy of all the tribes of Pollyannas, more numerous now than the tribes of Israel ever were.

This notion crystallized into a Latin motto which proves that the highbrows cannot alibi this matter and charge it to the lowbrows.

This abnormal hopefulness is even yet regarded as a symptom of consumption along with flushed cheeks. It never occurred to any one that it was strange that this characteristic could be a symptom of consumption, although it was not in evidence when the tubercular process afflicted the bones and joints, and just the opposite attitude was present in Addison's disease—a tuberculosis of the adrenals.

There is considerable evidence that tuberculosis of the lungs affects the quality of the thinking in one way. Robert Louis Stevenson wrote those things that made him famous when his tuberculosis was active and he was running fever. What he wrote when his disease was inactive, and he was running no fever, was commonplace. Some thought it bromidic.

When we analyze we find that the reputation of his writing was based on the evidence that it gave of what might be called fantastic thinking. It was characterized by imagery, weird conceptions, playful suggestions, and, at times, almost fairylike ideas, as well as poetic expression. Whatever the excellencies of writing based on these qualities, it lacks balance, poise, judgment. This was his manner of writing when he was under the influence of the poisons of his disease. When he was not, he wrote more normally and, in general, showed more plain, everyday, horse sense. Horse sense must be a very abundant commodity since nobody cares to read horse sense articles, stories, and such.

Such effect on the mind of a person with consumption can be established by a study of Stevenson's writings, even though the psychologists cannot match it in other ways. But when it comes to the effects of consumption on the mind of the consumptive the evidence is even flimsier. When a consumptive learns that he has this disease he receives a profound mental shock. He may stare death in the face. Even if he knows many cured consumptives, or does not fear death for other reasons, he is still confronted by matters of momentous importance. He must quit his activities and perhaps must stop his money making and become a passenger, he must go to bed for months, and loaf for a year or several years longer. He may need to leave his family or his home.

And then follow the years of his fight back to health and the mental attitudes that that involves. In all probability the mental response of consumptives to their surroundings is more the product of the men and their inheritance than it is of their disease. They react to this great stress and trial as they would have done to any other long continued strain. Many of them are cantankerous. Probably they were just born that way. In sanitariums many kick about the food. Doubtless most of them would have complained in this respect had they been in any other kind of institution because of any other disorder.

On the other hand, many are courageous and heroic. Many are sweet and kind. In almost all cases they are about the same kind of people sick that they were when well—or, at least, that they were when under great and prolonged strain.

ALCOHOL POISON.

F. E. C. writes: What is likely to happen when one goes on drunken debauches for several days, without food, and becomes rigid, hands and face all twisted out of shape, with intense cramps in stomach and abdomen? What can be done to relieve the patient?

REPLY.

This party suffers from alcohol poisoning. When a man continues drinking, and stops eating, he is headed for great discomfort and some danger.

This man had better go into a hospital and follow the doctor's orders. He will probably get well otherwise, and he may stop drinking for a few weeks, but self-treatment in alcoholic poisonning of this type means much unnecessary discomfort and some increase in danger.

FATTENING FOODS.

F. D. writes:

1. Which is more fattening, sweet potatoes or peeled white potatoes?
2. What is a safe amount of coffee to drink?
3. Is a certain amount of exercise necessary?
4. Why do some people eat less and put on weight, while others that eat more remain thin?

REPLY.

1. About the same.
2. Studies have shown that the average man can handle about two medium cups of average strength coffee daily.
3. Yes.
4. The amount of work done is the principal factor. People who handle live stock say type of body build is a factor. Habits of worry and nervousness on the one hand or calm on the other are factors. Regularity and sleep are of importance. So are the ductless glands. Finally, testimony as to how much one eats is notoriously inaccurate.

DISCHARGING EARS.

G. E. D. writes:

1. Can discharging ears lead to insanity?
2. Can this trouble be cured without operation? It has been present a long time and the discharge has a foul smell.
3. Is home treatment beneficial?

REPLY.

1. No.
2. Yes. Many cases are cured by proper treatment. Among such treatments are: operation, light therapy, the use of modified Dakin's fluid.
3. Light therapy and injections of Dakin's are treatments that are given in the home with periodic visits to the physician.

OLIVE OIL ON SCARS.

H. T. T. writes: Is there any way to remove a scar? I have heard that putting olive oil on would make it disappear.

REPLY.

Just putting olive oil on a scar, and thus removing it, would be magic. Gone, alas! are the days of magic.

Massaging a scar with olive oil mixed with patience and persistence will prove effective if the scar is not a bad one. Bad scars cannot be removed except by operation.

USUALLY CONSTIPATION.

S. A. writes: What causes flatulence, and how can I get rid of it?

REPLY.

CONVENTIONS OF THE PAST

A Review of Political Party National Conclaves Since 1832.

DEMOCRATIC.

JUNE 22 AND 23, 1860.

Baltimore, Md., June 23. — The Democratic convention reassembled at 7 o'clock this evening with a crowded audience. Much interest was excited by the proceedings, and was heightened by the prevalence of a report that Stephen A. Douglas had telegraphed to withdraw his name, which was known only by a few.

Mr. Moffatt of Virginia took the floor and spoke earnestly against secession. The south would never [he said] follow a black Republican President and a sectional Democracy. He continued to argue in favor of remaining by the national Democratic organization.

Mr. Claiborne of Missouri made an eloquent speech in favor of Mr. Douglas and advocated his claims as a national Democrat and gallant leader. The convention then adjourned till 10 o'clock tomorrow.

Baltimore, Md., June 23. — The theater is again crowded today. The Douglas delegates from Alabama and Louisiana have taken seats.

Mr. Parsons of Alabama denounced the secession movement as one of disunion. He cast the vote of Alabama as a unit for Stephen A. Douglas. [Tremendous applause.] Several delegates rose as different states were called, giving allegiance to Judge Douglas.

The vote was then announced as follows: Douglas, 173½; Guthrie, 9; Breckinridge, 5; Seymour, 1; Brock, 1; Wise, 1; Dickinson, 1; blank votes, 31. After an exciting debate in which the position of New York was explained, another vote was taken, Douglas getting 181½. He was declared the nominee.

[Bolting factions of the regular Democratic convention, in Baltimore on the same day, nominated John C. Breckinridge for President and Joseph Lane for Vice President. These nominations and a separate platform were subsequently ratified at a convention in Richmond, Va., on June 28.]

Every Man's University

Questions and answers prepared by members of the faculty of the University of Chicago outline what they consider a well educated person ought to know. Today's instructor, Arthur Pearson Scott, associate professor of history.

TODAY'S QUESTION:

What were the characteristics of Gothic architecture?

[This question will be repeated and answered in this space tomorrow.]

YESTERDAY'S QUESTION:

Were the middle ages a period of darkness and a serious setback to civilization?

ANSWER:

In many ways the coming of the Germanic barbarians into the western Roman empire meant a setback for orderly government and economic prosperity, and for art, science, literature and education. After a time, however, the vigorous northerners absorbed the fundamentals of the classical civilization, and on the basis of a mixture of older and newer elements a political, social and economic system was developed which had a character of its own. The fairest way to look at the middle ages is first to study its characteristic features such as feudalism, the unity under the church, Gothic architecture, serfdom and the manor, and second to notice how these gradually developed into more familiar modern forms, such as national states, national literatures, town life, and a strong middle class.

LINCOLN PARK POLICE.

Chicago, May 2.—[Friend of the People.]—Could you tell me when and where applications can be had for Lincoln park patrolmen? G. A. B.

I wish to advise that applications are given out only at time of examinations. At present there is an eligible list in force, and until that list expires there will be no examination for patrolman. Any person, however, may file his name at this office and he will be promptly notified as to any future examination. J. H. ULRICH,

Supt. of Employment, Lincoln Park.

ASK PROBATE COURT.

Chicago, May 6.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My husband's sister died several weeks ago. She had only one daughter, but my husband thinks perhaps she left him something in her will. 1. How can he find out what kind of a will she made? He stayed with her for about six months and took care of her while she was sick. 2. Could he put in a claim for taking care of her during her illness? J. W.

REPLY.

1. If the estate is being probated he can secure a copy of the will from the clerk of the Probate court of the county where she resided at the time of her death.
2. Depends upon the proof as to the understanding when the services were rendered. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

MUST BE LICENSED.

Chicago, May 6.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Is it necessary that a concern be incorporated which sells a vocational course through the mails? May an unincorporated concern of this kind use the title of school or institute? W. S. P.

REPLY.

No, but it must be licensed if it is teaching a subject the practice of which requires a license. Write to the department of education and registration in Springfield stating your facts. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

A SUPERB RACE TRACK.

Hammond, Ind., May 2.—The Indianapolis speedway yearly classic has shown that great numbers of persons will spend time and money to view such an event, but it is becoming tiresome. Road races were popular years ago and still take place abroad. It would seem Chicago possesses an unusually good roadway with one improvement, and to use it for a 500 mile race, say in June, when good weather is assured, should result in bringing thousands of persons and much money to the city, perhaps yearly.

The course suggested would be the outer drive, west side, from Grant park to and around the wading pool near 51st street, then north on the east outer drive up and over the south end of Soldiers' field on an elevated plank roadway sweeping down into Soldiers' field and up and out the north end east of the museum to Grant park and return. Perhaps the start and finish could be in Soldiers' field. Of course there is unlimited space for grand stands along the course and the course would be as safe as such a course could be. It is so situated that entrance to the course could be controlled for admission fee purposes. On this account the use of Soldiers' field could be eliminated in case the novelty of that suggestion should not appeal.

FREDERICK O. PAIGE JR.

GREETINGS.

Milwaukee, May 4.—I am taking the liberty of answering the letter signed "Lennie" with regard to poor sentiments on Mother's day greeting cards.

I have been in the retail greeting card business for nearly 20 years and have made a long and careful study of the product now being published by the leading greeting card publishers of this country. I know that never in the history of the industry have the recognized and leading publishers been so careful in the selection of their designs and their sentiments for greeting cards, not only for Mother's day but for all occasions. They purchase their sentiments from the outstanding writers of this country and reject thousands and thousands of submitted verses every day. The growth of the industry even during these years of depression proves conclusively that they are doing an excellent job.

I am sure that if Lennie will go to some of the better stores in Chicago she will find hundreds of beautiful sentiments which cannot help but appeal to her.

There was never a time in the history of this country when fine sentiments meant so much to the American people as they do today and these beautiful sentiments published on greeting cards selling at extremely moderate prices are serving their greatest missions today in bringing happiness and remembrance to people all over this country who are in trouble and distress and serving to remind them that sincere friendship is an asset that cannot be affected by any depreciation or depression.

HARRY W. BROWN.

INSOLENCE.

Chicago, May 3.—A few evenings ago on answering the doorbell I was confronted by a young, well dressed fellow about 17 years of age, who after considerable preliminary talk on his part finally stated he was soliciting subscriptions for magazines; he would take my subscription for any magazine. He was very insistent, but as some parts of his story did not coincide and as I could not afford to subscribe, I dismissed him courteously. In leaving the building he printed in capital letters over my name on the bell "tight as hell." If any publishing company is sending out these so-called canvassers I hope they will coach them properly on their behavior before these boys develop into vandals.

NORTHSIDER.

WHITE PAPER.

Chicago, May 4.—Now that THE TRIBUNE has received the largest shipment of paper ever carried by a single ship, perhaps you could publish for the benefit of your readers a complete list of the bureaus, commissions, and various other tax consuming agencies now being maintained in Washington. It would also be very interesting to know the alleged reasons for their existence and the results (if any) accomplished.

JOHN L. SUGDEN.

WE LIKE 'EM.

Chicago, May 4.—Your paper has been carrying columns, including pictures, of blossom queens from the east shore of Lake Michigan. Why must your Chicago readers be bored with the doings of the hick towns across the pond? The mayor took time from his task of "redeeming Chicago's fair name" to take part in the ceremony, and genial Greeter Gaw performed his official task when the royal entourage reached our city. This is an annual affair, and comes around with the regularity of taxes and about the same time. This and many other events of like value, which our local newspapers so delight to spread before us, strengthen the argument of New Yorkers and others that Chicago is the "biggest hick town." J. H. JOHNSON.

THE FARMERS' PLIGHT.

Chicago, May 5.—I have just come back to Chicago from a visit to my old home in Michigan. Farmers who have been successful are losing their farms because they can't pay their taxes. One dairy farmer can't pay his taxes because it costs more to produce and market his products than he can get for them. Another farmer is losing an eighty acre farm because he can't pay $75 taxes. A relative of mine borrowed a thousand dollars because of sickness and is losing a 160 acre farm because the farm won't even sell for that much. Another relative is renting a farm of forty acres for $5 a month and can't sell anything to raise $5. He can't get work from any other farmer because the other farmers haven't any cash. The land is getting poorer because the farmers have taken all out of the land that they can get out of it.

If real farmers can't make a go of farming how can city bred people expect to? The only way a city dweller can do, if he just wants to exist, is to rent a small farm and exist until things pick up, and he can't do that unless he has enough cash in his sock to pay the farm rent and buy flour, sugar and coffee. TWO FISHERMEN.

Chicago, May 4.—We see in the press pictures of one Calvin Coolidge catching fingerling trout in a shallow lake, he being dressed in a business suit, with a stiff linen collar, four-in-hand tie and a hat correct enough for an afternoon affair. We suspect indications of presidential acceptance if urged. We recall one Grover Cleveland also fishing—for big ones. He did not need a photographer. Clad in canvas coat and overalls, he stuck a quart of rye in one hip pocket, a quart of bourbon in the other, took his pipe and shag tobacco and went after them.

Meanwhile he found time and will to tell Britain to get the hell out of Latin-America or fight; to move the mails in Illinois when the governor would not, and, with Whitney, to build an American navy for which Roosevelt got credit.

There are fishers and fishers. E. F.

A STENOGRAPHER'S STORY.

Chicago, May 3.—I work in a small office on the 16th floor of a loop building. The other day a man walked in asking for one of the men in the office [whose name is engraved on our door]. I told him Mr. A. was out of town; he seemed very distressed. He had just arrived from California with a wife who was ill. They had traveled on excursion rates and the trip was too much for her; consequently a stopover in Omaha with an eleven dollar hotel and doctor bill. The result was that he was here broke. They were installed in a small hotel on Madison street, with baggage as security, but had no money to eat. He had wired his father, who would help them. He had felt sure Mr. A., who was a friend of his, would help them out until tomorrow; he knew no one else in Chicago; they were desperate. I fell for it to the tune of a dollar, which he promised to return the next morning.

He didn't come back. A. H.

WE HOPE FOR THE BEST.

Wilmette, Ill., May 3.—My family and I have been watching the experiences of Dick Tracy with interest. Please, O please don't let anything happen to your detective until he has rescued Buddy Waldorf. What with the Lindbergh baby missing and all, don't let Dick Tracy fail us. E. SANGER.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

MAY 10, 1916.

MAZATLAN, Mexico.—The American consul here announced that he had received several anonymous letters informing him that the consulate was to be blown up. The same communications contained warnings to all Americans to leave Mexico within forty-eight hours.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex.—Mexicans in Texas, Arizona, New Mexico and California have armed and prepared for an attack on Americans and their property in the four states on May 10. The plot was discovered here by federal and state authorities. Local authorities conferred with United States army officers from Fort Sam Houston and steps have been taken to meet the contemplated uprising.

WASHINGTON. — Confronted with an incipient revolt in congress against his Mexican policy and by a threatened repudiation by his own party, President Wilson took action designed to give increased protection to American citizens on the border. He ordered out the 4,000 militiamen of the National Guard of Texas, New Mexico and Arizona to perform border patrol duty, and he ordered 3,500 infantrymen of the regular army from northern hosts to reinforce the regiments already on the border. In addition to these Secretary of War Baker late tonight ordered eleven companies of coast artillery comprising 1,100 men and five batteries of field artillery to the Mexican border. If more troops are called out it is believed the Illinois Guard will be the first to go. Gen. Funston has demanded 50,000 militia for the border.

BERLIN.—In a note given to Ambassador Gerard by Foreign Minister von Jagow Germany accepts full responsibility for the sinking of the Sussex, announces that the submarine commander has been punished, and volunteers to indemnify Americans injured through the explosion of the torpedo when it struck the Sussex.

THE WHISPERER

By ROY VICKERS

SYNOPSIS.

The "Whisperer" crimes have held London terrorized for month. Numerous wealthy persons have been kidnaped and held for ransom. The ransom victim is sent a small wireless receiving set, by means of which the Whisperer speaks, using his own short wave, and gives directions for delivering the ransom demanded. Police dare not interfere, because death results for the captive if instructions are not carried out.

Roland Blatch joins the Whisperer's band in order to try to recover jewels he was forced to steal from his employer, Sir Henry Glazeborough, M. P., a leading philanthropist, in order to insure the safe return of his fiancée, Joyce Merrow, who was kidnaped by the bandit. Roland carries out the tasks assigned to him by the bandit and is involved in the killing of an unransomed victim, although the Whisperer has remained hidden from his view. Roland trails him, however, to his hideout and makes the startling discovery that the arch criminal is Sir Henry. The Whisperer takes Roland captive, but Roland escapes and returns to see Joyce. Chief Inspector Larpent is with her.

INSTALLMENT XXVI.

A DEED OF DARING.

Roland smiled and his eyes were moist as he answered.

"That's good of you, Mr. Larpent. It's sporting—fine! But I'm afraid it would be no good accepting the chance to bolt. It's better for Miss Merrow and myself to get it over. As soon as he finds I've escaped, the Whisperer will send you evidence that I have committed murder."

"Ah!" said the detective profoundly. "You've done that anyway, in the eyes of the law, by helping him—even if you'd only called him a taxi. Come to that, I'm not at all sure I couldn't be put in the dock myself for sitting about here and giving you advice instead of running you in."

Something of what was in the other's mind came to Roland.

"What do you want me to do, Mr. Larpent?"

"Tell me all you know. You needn't tell me about—Miss Harner. I know how you saved her life."

"What!" cried Joyce eagerly. "Roland saved Miss Harner's life? You didn't tell me."

"Yes. I was in the room when she came bursting in to her father. I'd expected to have to go and tell him later on that we'd found her body. And it wasn't a job I fancied. I owe this young man one for letting me off that."

"O, daddy!" she shrieked. "That's the man who saved me from the Whisperer!"

"I intended to tell you all I know," said Roland. "We'll begin when you like. Amongst other things I know the identity of the Whisperer but I can't prove it."

"So do I—and Miss Merrow has guessed it," said Larpent. "And I can't prove it either. But it's just possible that you and I can do it together."

Before Roland could say anything Larpent spoke again and this time his voice was stern and formal.

"You two young people have suffered as much as anybody through the Whisperer. And maybe you'll have to suffer more. I can't tell—but I'm going to put it to you straight. I'm going to make a big demand of you, Mr. Blatch. I'm going to ask you to work with me as Miss Merrow has been working with me. But I'm going to ask you to risk your life to help us catch the Whisperer with the evidence about him."

"To risk your life," repeated Larpent, while Joyce shrank. "And if the attempt is successful I offer you in return—absolutely nothing. It may even be my own personal duty to put you in the dock beside him."

"Thanks!" jerked Roland. "I like you all the better for telling me that, Mr. Larpent. I'm game. What's the job?"

"The job," said Larpent haltingly, as if the words were being dragged out of him, "is to give yourself up—to the Whisperer."

"Walk into a trap and be caught," continued Larpent. "And trust to luck that we can get there before he actually murders you."

"We may fail to get there in time," added Larpent reflectively.

"No!" said Joyce. "You mustn't do it, Roland."

Roland took her hand.

"Look at me, Joyce. . . . Look up, dearest! Now—do you really want me to tell Mr. Larpent I am afraid?"

Slowly she shook her head. Roland turned to the detective.

"When do we start—Chief?" he asked, and laughed with exhilaration, for here was a Chief he could gladly serve.

"At once," answered Larpent. "You'll want your evening clothes. Can you get at them in a hurry?"

"Yes. If I can go back to my digs without your fellows arresting me."

"Good! Let's see, what's the time? Eleven-fifteen. We've just about an hour in which to get ready. Listen as hard as you can, young man."

There had been a late sitting of the house of commons in which Sir Henry Glazeborough had contrived to work in one or two sentimental speeches in support of British charities.

Mr. Harner, the Australian minister, listened to the speech in the Distinguished Strangers' gallery and afterwards, with his daughter, had gone on to the little informal reception which Sir Henry always gave after making a speech in the house.

By a little after midnight the big drawing room in the double flat at St. Christopher's mansions was rapidly filling with more or less wealthy members of the half fashionable world who made up Sir Henry's circle and occasionally supported his charities. Some of them had brought friends for the first time and were unknown alike to Sir Henry and his butler.

In the hall a married couple gave their name to Marples. Immediately behind them, though not in the party, was a man of uncertain age, heavily tanned.

"Your name please, sir?"

"Mr. Carstairs," answered the newcomer without looking at the butler.

"Lord and Lady Renthorpe . . . Mr. Carstairs," announced Marples at the drawing room door, but as usual on these occasions, his voice was drowned by the buzz of talk within.

"How do you do! How do you do! So glad you could come!" boomed Sir Henry and then resumed his discourse to a small circle of elderly women who were hanging on his every word. "As I was saying, nothing causes me greater embarrassment—nothing makes me feel more paltry—yes, I say paltry, my dear Lady Renthorpe—than when these poor orphans come to me personally and, with tears in their eyes, say: 'O, sir. . . .'"

Roland avoided Sir Henry's part of the room. It was a part of Larpent's plan that there should be no hurry about the disclosure. He moved about amongst the other guests, some of whom were talking about the Whisperer and actually speculating as to the fate of Roland Blatch. Everything, in fact, was going according to plan when he edged round a corpulent dowager and came face to face with Miss Harner.

Larpent had not warned him that Miss Harner would be present, so that he was almost as startled by this sudden meeting as the girl herself.

Miss Harner who had kept cool when faced with death now lost her head.

"O, Daddy!" she shrieked. "That's the man who saved me from the Whisperer!"

Her first cry had stopped all conversation and her last words were heard by every one in the room. There was a moment of puzzled, awed silence, through which came the voice of the Australian minister himself.

"I'm proud to meet you, sir. I wish I could express my gratitude."

"How perfectly thrilling!" cried Lady Renthorpe. "I've never seen a real detective before. I never knew they were so nice."

There was a roar of laughter at this mild impertinence that betrayed the underlying nervous excitement of the guests.

"I'm not a detective, I'm afraid," said Roland, then turned to Sir Henry.

Sir Henry Glazeborough was an actor of consummate skill. Bewilderment, fear, and perhaps fury must have possessed him—but the rôle that he played in this phase of his life was utterly unshaken.

He stood, his watery eyes wide open, his hands raised in an elaborate gesture of surprise.

Roland came toward him and held out his hand.

"I had to come back, sir. You know I could not help robbing you. But I believe you think I ran away."

"Blatch!" Sir Henry struck a highly dramatic attitude. "My dear, dear fellow, I cannot tell you how glad I am to see you." The lightning brain behind the fleshy, fatuous countenance had already decided upon its line of action. "Ladies and gentlemen—my secretary, Mr. Roland Blatch." He held Roland's hand—the other hand was on Roland's shoulder. "You will all remember the tragic circumstances in which he suddenly disappeared. For a little while I thought—and I make this confession now with tears of humiliation——" Real tears stood in the eyes of this amazing man and his voice was broken as he continued—"I thought that he had run away from me because he feared I would misunderstand his motive. I felt it as a blow to the friendship that always permeated our professional relationship."

Sir Henry was making an ideal impression on his guests—a kind employer—a stanch friend to a young man in trouble. The hand that held Roland's was moist and flabby—and Roland knew that this hand, guided by the resourceful brain, would presently try to tear the life out of him.

Have you thought of vegetable breads as a tasty, unusual way of bringing vegetables more often and in greater variety to the family table? They're not really new, of course, but sometimes, unless we rummage through grandmother's cook books occasionally, we almost forget that breads do offer another means of serving corn, squash, pumpkin, parsnips, and many other of our common vegetables.

These vegetable breads, historians tell us, got their start in this country in the early pioneer days when necessity mothered invention, and the settlers learned to eke out their precious cornmeal with cooked pumpkin! And for a good many years thereafter, while wheat was scarce, the common garden vegetables frequently went into the big baked loaves of our great-grandmothers. Potato breads arrived about 1700, when some one discovered that by adding mashed potatoes or potato water to wheat bread the leavening could be speeded up. And today we are discovering that yams and sweet potatoes also give a pleasant texture and an intangible flavor to muffins, biscuits, waffles, and various other bread products.

As a starter we'll have a recipe for green corn pancakes that will make the family open its eyes.

GREEN CORN PANCAKES.

3 teaspoons baking powder.
½ teaspoon salt.
2 tablespoons melted butter.
1 egg, separated.
1 cup milk.
2 tablespoons sugar.
¾ cup grated green corn.

Sift the dry ingredients together. Stir in the milk, butter, beaten egg yolk, and corn. Fold in the stiffly beaten whites and fry on a hot greased griddle till golden brown on both sides.

SWEET POTATO MUFFINS.

3 teaspoons baking powder.
¼ cup sugar.
½ cup mashed sweet potatoes.
½ teaspoon salt.
2 tablespoons butter.
1½ cup milk.
1 egg.

Sift the dry ingredients and stir in quickly the melted butter, beaten egg, milk, and mashed potatoes, which moist ingredients have been thoroughly blended previously. Bake in greased muffin tins in a hot oven [375 degrees F.] 15 minutes for small muffins, 25 minutes for large ones.

PUMPKIN WAFFLES.

2½ cups flour.
1 cup sour milk.
4 tablespoons fat, melted.
2 eggs, separated.
4 teaspoons baking powder.
1 teaspoon soda.
½ teaspoon salt.

Sift the dry ingredients, then stir in the beaten yolks, milk, fat and pumpkin. Add one tablespoon sugar if desired. Bake in a waffle iron until crisp and brown.

Plow in Four Sections for Relief Gardens

Four groups of men in as many different sections of Chicago yesterday were plowing up idle land donated for the emergency relief fund county-wide garden campaign to aid unemployed.

One crew, under direction of Warner G. Baird, Chicago realtor who is chairman of the county campaign, started breaking ground on a 300 acre tract of forest preserve land near 1st avenue and Roosevelt road, Maywood.

Another 7 acre patch on Western and Berwyn avenues was being plowed in a new project launched by the Salvation Army, which turned over its site for the new training college to produce vegetables this summer for unemployed men housed in Wrigley lodge, 509 North Union street. Brig. Sam Wood was placed in charge of the gardening operations, and plans to grow corn, tomatoes, onions, beets, and other vegetables.

Meanwhile a vacant building at 330 South Market street was turned over to the relief fund and Walter H. Hoyt, assistant to Mr. Baird, sent about 12,000 pounds of seed purchased at cost to the new location, where unemployed men from the fund's shelters will sort them into packets for heads of needy families.

An avalanche of requests for aid has come from families who offer to work on gardens this summer if the relief workers can arrange to care for them. Just now, Mr. Hoyt states, the need is for contractors or implement concerns in the county to offer the use of tractors and sod-bottom plows suited to preparing the available land. He already has been assured of aid in transporting men to the fields, and of skilled men to supervise the proper gardening operations.

A Free Ticket between Los Angeles and Seattle

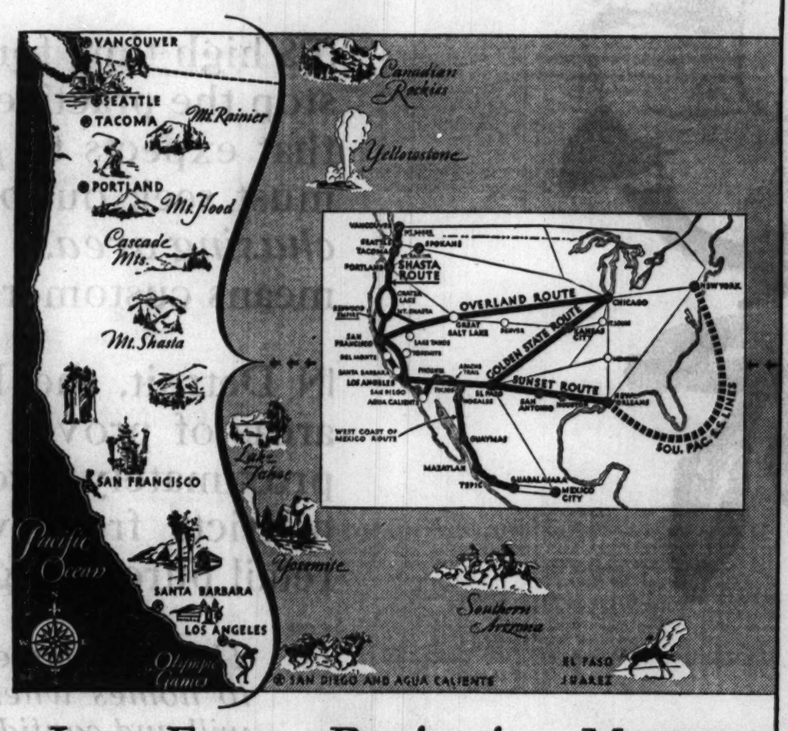
CALIFORNIA



Low Fares—Beginning May 15

SOUTHERN PACIFIC offers you a new privilege with these summer roundtrips to the West: See the whole Pacific Coast—at no added ticket cost! Of course no railroad can give away tickets, but this new privilege virtually amounts to a free ticket between Los Angeles in Southern California and Seattle in the evergreen Pacific Northwest. Use two of Southern Pacific's Four Great Routes and get this extra value.

Suppose your destination is Los Angeles, San Francisco, Portland or Seattle. You can go straight to any one of these cities and back at the summer fare of $90.30. But under Southern Pacific's new privilege, on a roundtrip to any of these cities you can enter California on the Sunset or Golden State Route, enjoy southern California, then northern California, continuing on through Oregon and the Pacific Northwest and returning on any northern United States or Canadian line. Or you can reverse the order, going direct to Victoria, Vancouver or Seattle and then on down the coast. In either case the rail fare is not 1¢ more than $90.30.

How One Man Lost 22 Pounds

Mr. Herman Runkis of Detroit writes: "A few lines of thanks from a rheumatism sufferer—my first bottle of Kruschen Salts took all the aches and swellings out of my joints—with my first bottle I went on a diet and lost 22 pounds and now I feel like a new man."

To lose fat SAFELY and quickly take one-half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water in the morning before breakfast, go light on potatoes and fatty meats.

For your health's sake ask for and get Kruschen—the cost for a bottle that lasts 4 weeks is but a trifle at any drugstore in the world and if after the first bottle you are not joyfully satisfied with results—money back. All good druggists will be glad to supply you.

Daily Beauty Hints by Antoinette Donnelly

Very Bad Men Are New Rage in Mysteries

Many, Many Crimes Are Put in Stories.

BY MORTIMER QUICK.

THIS is hard boiled day.

Neither Dashiell Hammett nor Mr. Faulkner is in at the death, or rather deaths, as murder continues on a wholesale basis, but Norman Klein in "NO! NO! THE WOMAN!" [Farrar & Rinehart] is pinch hitting for them in a way that will probably seem satisfactory. It would be hard to find within the covers of one medium sized book more reprehensible characters. I, for one, am glad that the scenes are set in and about New York. Mr. Klein is an ex-Chicago newspaper man, and perhaps his loyalty to the city of his origin leads him to feel that only New Yorkers could be so perfectly terrible.

But there are more different kinds of excitement in this book than could be imagined in calmer moments. A child is kidnaped with horrible results, people are and are not killed with thrilling frequency. Gold is dug, jewels are stolen, and adultery committed. In fact, about the only commandment that isn't broken is the one about graven images, and this only because people are too busy in their own interests to worship any extraneous objects. It is a little sad that the only decent person in the book is among those missing. But if you like to have your breath bated until it hurts you'll be exactly suited.

In "DAMNING TRIFLES" [Knopf] Maurice C. Johnson, a Chicagoan, says right out he's talking about Chicago. And a pretty place he makes of it. If it weren't for some nice young reporters we wouldn't be safe for a minute, he makes plain, what with all the corruption in high places and the way we are being fooled by those to whom we officially turn for protection.

These books will please you very much if you like your mysteries highly seasoned. If big shots and their minions are being bumped off at the rate indicated Chicago will be safe as a church in no time.

To turn to a mystery of quite a different order, "THE PULITZER PRIZE MURDERS" [Farrar & Rinehart], by Dorothy Heyward [Mrs. Du Bose Heyward] will entertain you very much. To be sure, three [count 'em] murders occur, but all among really nice people who don't seem to belong to the murdered classes at all. To begin with, they are all literary. Margaret Ayer Barnes will probably shake in her shoes when she hears one of them won the Pulitzer prize. The setting is interesting and different, too, and the author's sprightly manner, rather surprisingly, increases the atmosphere of fright and suspense. I find it the best book of its kind I have read for a long time. It is a pleasure to find a quality so literary in an authentic thriller.

In "THE GREEK COFFIN MYSTERY" [Stokes] Ellery Queen has contracted what seems to be a prevalent idea. All of our mystery writers are doing it, particularly the ones whose output is reviewed today. But he musters any number of false and beguiling clews, and in spite of his epidemic solution has achieved a very interesting story. To my mind it is the best of the Ellery Queen books, but something has got to be done about this special variety of criminals. Might I suggest to Mr. Queen that in his next story he twirl his eyeglasses instead of his pince-nez and that he take the advice of his eminent father delivered at the foot of page 80, "Quit being fancy"? And since in his titles Mr. Queen seems to be boxing the international compass might I also recommend as names for his next two books the "CANADIAN DIME MYSTERY" and the "SWISS CHEESE MYSTERY"?

Cohan's Play Is Acrid Tale of Betrayal

"Confidential Service" Is Ironical Comedy.

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

George M. Cohan, whose musical comedies are a blithe tradition in the reminiscences of the middle aged theatergoer, the most versatile figure of the American stage and now one of its several assistant deans, submits at the Grand Opera house a new specimen of his authorship called "Confidential Service." It is an odd piece of slightly discordant mockery—an ironical comedy built out of such staple material as a jewel theft, an adultery and an infallible detective. Its irony is far from mellow, and its comedy is not of the merry kind.

This play strikes a note that Mr. Cohan has sounded several times during the last six or eight years. It deals, in a somewhat acrid way, with a betrayal of friendship. He gives the impression, even when seeking a humorous effect, that he has lost faith in the "good old pals" who populate the American scene. The disillusionment has been too much for a man who was never born to be a satirist, and so when he jingles his jester's bells they seem out of tune and harsh.

In this latest product of his disenchanted imagination Mr. Cohan has given himself the rôle of a private detective who undertakes to become the guiding philosopher and volunteer avenger of two people who are being callously betrayed by their respective husband and wife. The character is sketched as a droll, quizzical type of Cohanesque worldliness, but beneath the surface he is a man with a mania for settling the hash of adulterers.

He hunts down the sinful pair with the assiduity of a ferret and teases them like a cold-blooded tomcat playing with captured mice. All this he does, apparently, for the greater glory of private detectives and the glee of breaking into love nests.

The character is to me somewhat unpalatable, no matter how amusingly Mr. Cohan adorns it with his idiosyncratic gestures. This detective was engaged to recover jewels, and the adultery that he uncovered in the course of his investigation was none of his business. Nevertheless, Mr. Cohan, as the grayhaired sleuth, makes it his business, without hope of fee. He elects himself the attorney, father confessor and destiny of the deceived pair, and plots an entrapment with the fanatic zeal of a prohibition agent. This pussyfooter may be very clever, but I like him not. To my eyes he bears a strong resemblance to a malignant busybody.

The story is meager of incident and not particularly brisk in dialogue. The action drifts casually from episode to episode without finding a vivid climax. It is a thin Cohanized charade that never becomes real and the author-star finds himself with a long rôle and little to do except to repeat himself and to wag an admonitory finger at his puppets. Mr. Cohan acts industriously with his index finger. He succeeds in pointing his moral, perhaps, but not in adorning his tale.

Elsie Lawson is attractive and persuasive as the adulterous wife, and Charles Trowbridge makes an effective study of the betrayed husband. On the whole, however, there is no special distinction in the performance. Mr. Cohan is temporarily handicapped by a touch of laryngitis.

"Confidential Service" suggests that Mr. Cohan's middle age has lost the happy touch of comic authorship and not yet ripened into ironical philosophy.

Southern Bishop Asks 2 Methodist Churches to Unite

Atantic City, N. J., May 9.—(AP)—Destruction of the ecclesiastical Mason and Dixon line that has existed in American Methodism since 1844 was urged today by Bishop A. J. Moore of the Methodist church, South. He told the Methodist general conference here the time had come for a unified church knowing no "north" and no "south."

The division has been "unfortunate," said the bishop. Without referring to the slavery question on which they split, he added: "The prejudices of yesterday should be forgotten."

The conference received the appeal with enthusiasm similar to that displayed on Saturday when it adopted an anti-racial discrimination regulation which speakers said would preclude "forever" the rapprochement with the southern church. Bishop Moore did not refer to the regulation.

Bright Gadgets Add Thrills to Summer Styles

Buying Accessories Is Real Pleasure.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

GATHERING costume accessories is a most engrossing recreation. The things these clever accessory makers send out for your approval are miracles of smartness. Nothing highlights a dull costume so alluringly as colorful gadgets, the belts, clips, jewelry, kerchiefs, gloves, and hats, and handbags that are the indispensables of the modern feminine ensembles!

Look for belts, especially the very new arrivals made of braided cord. These braided belts are at least three inches wide when used for brilliant contrast on white silk sports frocks, while other narrower widths will be worn on printed dresses.

There are all kinds of metal mesh belts for sheer summer frocks, tricky performers that stretch obligingly around either dress or coat. These are narrow but make up for their diminutive size with their silver and gold [simulated] luster. Suede belts are definitely outsmarting patent leather with so many delectable pastel colors that it's a very strong minded shopper who ends her shopping quest with merely one of these suede successes.

For the gal who has a wild and unappeased hunger for eyelets there are scores of holes in lots of the newer belts; holes or eyelets of every size, to match footwear and handbags, and for the real eyelet collector it is quite possible to match the mesh of your hose, gloves, shoes, with handbag and also belt. This surely is the year to indulge your yen for holes, for everything you need for you summer wardrobe can be full of holes, openly distinctive and distinctively summer 1932.

If you need new blouses now is your chance to buy some very recent arrivals. For with the entire feminine population dashing about in suits, it's been a very promising season for the blouse makers and they have sagaciously sewed and cut and sent us some of the best looking models that buying suit shoppers have ever seen.

Striped blouses have been particularly snappy this season . . . narrow stripes that look like stick candy . . . crisp colorful inch wide stripes that look like blazers, and now some new ideas that fairly shout about their splendor achieved with two and three color combinations. One gorgeous contrast was made with mahogany red used with gentian blue and chalk white. The sleeves were short, the neck was either V or square, and you could wear the blouse either over or under your skirt. This blazing bit of glory would be perfect for your blue suits.

Scotch plaid gingham blouses are bustling around every blouse shop, piquantly cheerful things that certainly belie any stories about Scottish dourness. These blouses can be worn with wool suits, linen suits and the newest wide wale pique suits that will be seen everywhere before you realize that summer has at last coyly entered Chicago. A plaid gingham blouse in the wildest colors you can find will make a white linen tailored suit the smartest costume on the boulevard!

With your white knitted suit, to be a couple of weeks ahead of everybody, wear the new amber colored sweater, amber tinted hose, and amber brimmed hat. The rest of your costume should be white, a bright chalk white. This is a new color contrast that is perfect for either blond or brunette, and a heart smashing success for red heads!

Fate of Orchestra Hinges on Meeting of All Sides Today

Whether there will be continuing life for the Chicago Symphony orchestra will, it is expected, be settled this afternoon. A conference yesterday afternoon between Henry E. Voegeli, manager of the orchestra, and James C. Petrillo, president of the Chicago Federation of Musicians, in the office of George Lytton, who has been instrumental in drawing together the two parties to the discussion, resulted in a decision to hold a final meeting today before the executive board of the Orchestral association.

Only one item in the discussion remains to be agreed upon. That is the number of men to be engaged for the orchestra. It has already been agreed that the number of concerts during the season of twenty-eight weeks be cut from 126 to 100, and that the minimum wage scale of the players be reduced to $75 a week. The Orchestral association, however, proposes to present the season with an orchestra of eighty-seven members, while the Chicago Federation of Musicians is holding out for the reengagement of the present number, ninety-seven.

It is therefore probable the greater part of today's meeting will be taken up with the question of engaging these ten men.

Masons from U. S. Gather to Dedicate Virginia Memorial

Washington, D. C., May 9.—(AP)—Masons from over the country were gathered today for the climax of Masonic week—the dedication of the stately National Masonic memorial in nearby Alexandria, Va.

The dedication, however, was only a part of the fraternal organization's participation in the George Washington bicentennial.

More than 100,000 Masons are expected to be at the dedication on Thursday. The conception of the memorial grew out of proposals to give Masonic treasures housed in the Alexandria-George Washington lodge, of which the first President was once master, a fireproof resting place.

Women to Act as Hostesses to Visitors to City

Visitors to Chicago will be welcomed hereafter by feminine greeters, all of them members of the Chicago Daughters club, who, it was announced yesterday, will assume the duties of civic hostesses.

The 200 members of the club met yesterday in the Hotel Sherman and completed plans for their new work. Mrs. Donald I. Graham, the president, explained that the club members will cooperate with hotels to arrange tours for guests, will help visitors on shopping trips, and will provide chaperons for young girls and women visiting here alone. The club hopes to be of assistance to the visitors to the two conventions next month, she said.

The Daughters club will give a George Washington bicentennial luncheon at the Sherman on May 23. Speakers will be Mrs. Jacob Baur, Mrs. William S. Farrell, Mrs. James Davidson, and Judge Philip J. Finnegan.

Alumni of De Pauw Plan Special Trip to Chapel Service

The "Longden Special," a train named for Dr. Henry Boyer Longden, vice president of De Pauw university, will leave the Dearborn street station over the Monon railroad at 6 o'clock Saturday morning, June 4, for Greencastle, Ind., carrying more than 100 alumni of De Pauw for the annual alumni chapel, Phil Maxwell, 7658 Sheridan road, president of the Chicago De Pauw Alumni association, announced today.

Among those who expect to make the trip are Judge Will M. Sparks, Judge James H. Wilkerson, Bishop Edwin Holt Hughes, Mrs. Edward Rector, and Roy O. West, president of the De Pauw board of trustees.

Miss Margot Atkin Is Elected President of Junior League

BY JUDITH CASS.

CONGRATULATIONS and praise for her efficient and splendid work as president for the last two years of the Chicago Junior league were showered on Miss Dorothy Schmidt yesterday at the annual meeting, and Miss Margot Atkin, the newly elected president, came in for her share of good wishes and congratulations, too.

Shoulder corsages of gardenias were presented to the outgoing and the incoming presidents and a rising vote of thanks was given to Miss Schmidt by the 114 members who were crowded in the large dining room of the Petit Gourmet for the meeting.

Reports on the various activities of the league were made and 40 new members were announced. Plans for the stupendous work the league is to do at the Century of Progress were discussed, and although I'd love to tell about those plans now, for they really are remarkable, the league cannot make an announcement at this time.

The league, you know, is to have charge of the children's activities at the exposition.

The other new officers are: First vice president, Mrs. J. Beach Clow [Edith Louise Newcomet]; second vice president, Miss Louise Neff; secretary, Mrs. John Shaw [Barbara King]; treasurer, Miss Harriet Borland. Directors, Miss Adelaide Atkin, Mrs. Shreve Badger [Theodora Winterbotham], Mrs. Willard C. Boyden [Angela Johnston], Mrs. John L. Cochran [Eleanor Brush], Mrs. Ambrose Cramer [Mary Meeker], Miss Florence Higinbotham, Miss Jane Kirk, Mrs. Walter F. McLallen [Marguerite Watson], Miss Schmidt, Mrs. Carleton Scribner [Mary Belding], Miss Helen Tieken, and Mrs. Alfred M. Wolfe [Vera Stock].

Miss Borland was not "among those present" at the meeting, for she has been in bed with tonsillitis for several days and, although she is better, she was not well enough to get up and go out yesterday.

Theater Plans Tentative.

Plans for the season of the Junior League Theater for Children next winter are tentative, for the girls will not know for another month what theater they can give their performances in, but they are only tentative as to place, etc., for the league is determined not to give up this immensely successful undertaking.

After the business meeting was adjourned the members went out into the Italian court to get a breath of fresh air [they had to dodge raindrops most of the time, however], while tables for luncheon were being set up, and then they went back into the Gourmet for luncheon.

Miss Atkin and Miss Schmidt leave the evening of the 21st of this month for Los Angeles to attend the national convention which convenes on the 24th. The eastern delegates will be in Chicago on the 21st and the Chicago girls will be busy that day entertaining the visitors.

Garden Club at Lake Forest Busy.

With the Lake Forest Flower show just a little more than a month away, the Garden club members are working out schemes for making this year's exhibit excel the horticultural triumphs of other seasons in the smart village. The show is to be held on June 11 and 12 at Villa Turicum, the Lake Forest estate of Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick.

While Mrs. McCormick has opened her lovely gardens for several years to provide the setting for the flower shows, this is the first year that her name has appeared on the committee arrangements of which Mrs. William McCormick Blair is chairman.

A summer fashion pageant will be given this afternoon and evening at St. Chrysostom's parish house under the auspices of the "Tuesday Nighters," a young people's organization, to benefit Camp Oronoko.

Mrs. Potter Palmer, chairman of the reception committee, will be at the Arts club this afternoon to greet those who attend the tea that is scheduled to take place from 4 to 6 o'clock to open two loan exhibitions, sculpture by Charles Despiau from the collection of Frank Crowninshield, and drawings [by sculptors] privately owned by Chicagoans.

Claire Dux Concert Tonight.

Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed, Mrs. Edgar J. Goodspeed, Mrs. Wilbur Post and Mrs. James W. Thompson will be among the dinner hostesses tonight preceding Mme. Claire Dux's [Mrs. Charles H. Swift] concert in Mandel hall on the University of Chicago campus for the university community. President and Mrs. Robert M. Hutchins will give a supper party for Mme. Dux after the concert.

The annual meeting of Branch 16 of the Army Relief society will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the Casino. Mrs. William H. Hubbard is president of the local branch, Mrs. Harry H. Shearson, treasurer; Mrs. George A. Wildrick, secretary, and Mrs. Charles F. Fitts, recording secretary. The object of the society, which has national headquarters in New York, is to give emergency relief to officers and enlisted men of the regular U. S. army.

Marionettes in a Good Show.

The North Avenue Day nursery and the other charities which are to benefit by the week's engagement of the Tatterman Marionettes in "Stringing Broadway" at the Goodman theater should benefit materially, for the revue is exceptionally clever and entertaining, and seems to be attracting quite large—and fashionable—audiences.

Puppet shows heretofore have been mainly for children, but this one is sophisticated enough for the most exacting "first-nighter" and the perfection with which the marionettes are manipulated is nothing short of magical. The radio station scene in which a garden club member gives an address on the language of the flowers, the scene in which a columnist dictates his column, at so much per word, and the old tale of Little Red Riding Hood, presented in three scenes, the first in the manner of A. A. Milne, the second in the manner of Mae West, and the third in the manner of Eugene O'Neill, were the most amusing numbers to last night's audience, which included among its numbers Miss Dorothy Schmidt, Miss Peggy Hambleton, Mr. and Mrs. Aldis Browne, Russell Tyson, Alfred P. Shaw, Mr. and Mrs. William O. Goodman, Mr. and Mrs. Vassar Bowman C. Lingle, Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell D. Follansbee, Mrs. Clair E. More, and Mrs. Charles H. Schweppe.

Saturday the marionettes are to appear in "The Legend of the Lightning," a play derived from the Pueblo Indians, at 10:30 o'clock in the morning and again at 3 in the afternoon. The Junior League Theater for Children is sponsoring the production.

Mrs. Laurence O. Wilson of 700 Rosemary road, Lake Forest, will open her residence on Thursday afternoon from 1 to 5 o'clock for an exhibition and sale of children's clothing for the benefit of the unemployed.

Members of the board of directors of the Lake Shore League of Women Voters are to hear all about the convention of the National League of Women Voters held in Detroit last week, at a luncheon meeting at the Fortnightly next Monday, from Mrs. Augustus A. Carpenter, who was a delegate.

Alliance Francaise Observes Mourning.

The annual meeting of the Alliance Francaise will be held next Monday afternoon in the organization's quarters in the Fine Arts building, but the tea which Mrs. Charles S. Dewey had planned to give for the members at her residence after the meeting has been canceled because of the death of President Doumer of France. The alliance will give no social affairs for forty days—the official period of mourning in France.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert McCormick Adams have leased "No. 12," the same house in the row of residences on the Lake Forest college campus which they occupied last summer, and will move out on June 15. Mrs. Adams' mother, Mrs. Wilhelm Ludwig Baum, will not open her country estate near South Haven, Mich., until the end of June, when her son, Wilhelm, will return from his studies at Andover.

Movings and Summer Plans.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Wheelock have moved from 73 East Elm street to 170 East Pearson street. Mrs. Wheelock is the former Dorothy Rend.

Miss Edith Nesbit of Warrenton, Va., is visiting Mrs. James H. Channon and Miss Letitia Channon of 222 East Chestnut street. Many informal parties are being given for the attractive young Virginian who is a sister of Scott Nesbit, the husband of the former Ruth Channon.

Miss Eliza Campbell of the Pearson hotel is leaving Friday to spend the summer in Peace Dale, R. I., where she has taken a small house to be near the family of her brother, Wallace Campbell of Providence, who summers at Peace Dale.

Mr. and Mrs. Dennis F. Kelly of 900 North Michigan avenue will move this week-end to the Lake Forest house which they have leased from Mrs. Mary S. Mabbatt at 401 Westminster avenue. Mrs. Mabbatt and her daughter, Miss Judith Mabbatt, are to occupy quarters in the garage, which has been transformed into a residence, for the summer.

Betty Archer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. D'Wolf Archer of Evanston, has been asked to assist in the graduation exercises at Connecticut college in New London, Conn., where she is a sophomore, and has been chosen to carry the laurel chain, an honor comparable to carrying the daisy chain at Vassar.

Bride Today

The marriage of Miss Theodora Wagner, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Charles Brentano Wagner of 3500 Sheridan road, to Guy Asa Osborn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Sanders Osborn of Kenilworth, will be solemnized at 8:30 o'clock this evening in the Blackstone hotel. The ceremony will be followed by a reception for the families and a few close friends.

'Tis with our judgment as our watches, none
Go just alike, yet each believes his own.—Pope.

BY MAE TINEE.

Good morning!

Like the poor, comparisons to "Zwei Herzen in ¾ Takt" are always with us! Each new German operetta to reach our shores is invariably heralded as being either as good as or better than the first Teutonic tune film to capture the fancy of the American moviegoer. Comes "Das Lied Ist Aus," proclaimed as "Greater than . . . etc."

You may agree with this statement. I do not. I found the Cinema's present offering an entertaining and melodious affair, but not so intriguing as was "Zwei Herzen." Certainly the former has no musical number that compares with the unforgettable waltz song of the latter, which almost immediately hummed on the lips and over the radios of the entire country. Charming airs this film does have, however—output of Robert Stolz and Geza von Bolvary, who wrote "Zwei Herzen," and also "The Merry Wives of Vienna," "The Theft of the Mona Lisa" and "Love's Command." "Das Lied Ist Aus" is the banner song.

Willy Forst, the gay, lilting fellow who entertained so delightfully in "Zwei Herzen," is very much present in this production, which tells the story of a famous prima donna who falls in love with the secretary she has engaged in a fit of spleen.

The young chap has walked out suddenly in a café where, by request, she was singing the big number from her new show. The lady feels that she has been deliberately insulted and aims to show this impertinent brunette where, as we say, he gets off.

When she learns the reason for his sudden departure her heart turns to honey within her. All goes well till Herr Weidenau asks for certain hours off each evening. Then jealousy jabs spiked teeth into Tilla—and the picture will tell you the rest.

"Das Lied Ist Aus" is excellently acted and sung. Liane Haid has a lovely voice and pleases most of the time, though she IS awfully, awfully coy. Sets and sound are splendid. English titles—a splendid innovation, these English titles!—make the story perfectly comprehensible to patrons who sprechen nicht Deutsch.

Without a doubt the rich, warm German and Viennese music that charmed another generation is coming into its own again! Well, was there ever anything lovelier than "The Blue Danube Waltz" or that enchanting light opera score, "The Merry Widow"?

See you tomorrow.

Von Sternberg, Dietrich to Go on with Film

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., May 9.—Settlement of the difficulties between Marlene Dietrich, star, Joseph von Sternberg, her director, and the Paramount Motion Picture studio, which employs them, was announced today.

Miss Dietrich and Von Sternberg walked out of the studio two weeks ago after refusing to work in a picture called "Blonde Venus," and the studio in turn cut both off its pay roll and announced intention to sue each of them for $100,000.

Statements issued both by the employers and by Von Sternberg this afternoon announced that the director, speaking both for himself and the German actress, had receded from their attitude, and had agreed to work in the film, as assigned; the studio's statement said that the controversy had been settled in a manner to uphold "a studio's right to control the screen actions of artists and directors as stipulated under their contracts."

Von Sternberg took issue with this, and stated: "I still believe I was right in seeking to test whether or not a director and an artist can be compelled under their contracts to direct and perform in any story assigned to them.

"When it became apparent, however, that the final determination of the test could not be recorded for at least a year, and when I realized that this process might keep Miss Dietrich from the screen for that length of time, I felt this to be unfair both to Miss Dietrich and to the motion picture public and so I decided to settle my differences with Paramount out of consideration for the interest of the star."

Incidentally, the break between Marlene Dietrich, her director, Joseph Von Sternberg, and the Paramount studio came about because of a piece of action in the Von Sternberg story, "Blonde Venus," which the studio considered would be an affront to American filmgoers. The bit of action mentioned was intended to show Miss Dietrich as an "easy lady" walking down the street with her child's hand in hers, trying to flirt with a prosperous looking man. The studio decided this and some other parts of the story would have to be rewritten.

According to the studio version, Von Sternberg then refused to direct the changed version, and Miss Dietrich followed his lead by declining to act in it. Von Sternberg's stand was that a good director would be able to handle the scene deftly enough not to alienate audience sympathy.

Chicago Bach Chorus Gives Good Concert

Melodies Have Part in Modern Music.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

The Chicago Bach chorus, appearing at Orchestra hall last night, proved the value of regular and frequent performances of Bach's music. It would seem, as this organization delves into the archives of some of this music, that Bach invented a good part of the fine melodies that have been picked up by other composers and brought down to the present days, and most of those that he overlooked were devised by his contemporary, Handel.

It is a subject that would repay investigation. One hears it said that Bach is one of the modern composers, and one regards the statement as a bit of graceful, rhetorical flourish. But when it comes to the ear, as the Chicago Bach chorus brought it to the ear last night, that Bach's melodies are eternal not only because of their own value, but because later writers have made liberal use of them, then the statement takes on a real meaning.

Dr. Sigfrid Prager conducted a program that included choruses from several contatas, several more complete cantatas, and the great Magnificat, and the chorus responded with complete sympathy and understanding. The choral body was enlarged on this occasion, including not only the active members of the organization but a group from the Concordia Teachers' college of River Forest and a boys' choir of about three dozen.

The soloists were Else Harthan Arendt, Frances Haeger, and Frances Silva, sopranos; Lilian Knowles and Philippine Hennig-Rohrman, contraltos; Edwin Kemp, Tenor, and Mark Love, bass. They gave decided aid to the artistic merits of the evening, particularly Mrs. Arendt in an aria from the cantata "Jauchzet Gott in Allen Landen." It was a display both of how to compass some tricky florid passages and of a thorough understanding of the Bach manner.

A joint debut recital under the auspices of the Musical guild was given by Florence Gullans, mezzo-soprano, and George Swigart, violinist, at Kimball hall. These are young artists, seemingly not far distant from the work of the studio, and both with definite talents and the appearance of studio work well done. It is one of the pleasant duties of the Musical guild to discover and present young talent. The organization has done much in the past, and on the evidence of last night's program it will continue its good work in the future.

Opening of London Opera Lacks Former Brilliance

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 9.—The opening of the London opera season—reduced this year to a period of four weeks—tonight was not quite such a brilliant affair as in previous years. There was a crowded house, including royalty, society leaders, foreign diplomatic corps, including Ambassador Andrew Mellon, but the scene lacked its former brilliance. Only a few tiaras were seen and the diamonds which in past years were a conspicuous feature were absent. Only a few women wore jewels in their hair. A notable performance of "Die Meistersinger" was given under the conductorship of Sir Thomas Beecham.

Prof. Dodd Talks Tonight on Causes of Depression

The first of two lectures on the depression will be given tonight at Fullerton hall in the Art institute by Dr. William E. Dodd, professor of history at the University of Chicago, known as one of the leading interpreters of the trends in American life and the author of many books. Tonight's lecture is entitled "Historic and Industrial Causes of the Depression" and the second lecture, to be given May 17 in the same hall, will be on "Probable Relief and Recovery." Both talks will begin at 6:45 p. m.

Bathing Suit Top to Evening Frock Paris Sensation

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Jane Regny provided a sensation for the gaping world when she showed her summer collection recently. She launched evening frocks with tops like the latest bathing suits—you know the kind, that look like brassieres and that leave part of the upper anatomy nude. There is a brief bodice that is attached to the high topped skirt by a little isthmus of cloth at the front.

A dress of this sort is actually quite modest, and displays much less than does the bathing suit, for it has a long, enveloping skirt, and the extra sections of flesh on view are only little crescent moon shaped pieces just above the waistline at the sides. The bare back, traversed by a single strap, is nothing new in styles, women having so displayed their backs these several seasons gone by.

If you will turn your attention to the accompanying sketch you will see exactly how Jane Regny treats the bathing suit evening dress, for here is pictured her sensational frock. It is made of a heavy, mat, white crêpe. The bodice is slung around the neck, as shown and fastens by a strap across the back directly under the shoulder blades. In front it has the narrow isthmus I mentioned before, holding it to the pointed topped skirt. The skirt is flared at the side front by godets and in back by a cascading panel of the white crêpe.

Eleven Shades of Nail Polish for Your Hands

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Jeweled finger tips, my sisters! That's what you play your backgammon with these day—if you're very, very smart!

You get these jewels out of nail polish bottles, not at the jewelry shops.

And you don't stop at making jewels display your finger tips, either. The toe nails are bejeweled similarly. But that's another audience. My honest, hard wolkin' gal sisters and we just won't have no shucks with 'em—today. Let them put on their sandaled slippers. It's us for the stout brogans that carry us back and forth from work. Nevertheless, we can sneak up on the pampered darlings with finger nails flashing, can't we, now?

It is amusing and amazing what this nail polish industry has developed into. Eleven shades, ranging from extra pale pink to oxblood red, to say nothing of the "jewel" shades just mentioned, are laid before us for choosing. And, believe it or not, the aim is to match the skin with these nail polish tints. So I'm informed by one of the trade, though I question the skin matching for the oxblood nail tip. That, however, is just one of our funny little feminine inconsistencies. There is an orangey shade to tie up with the tanned hand.

But the big news is that the hand beautifying business is growing apace and apace-r. With your manicure now you may get lessons in how to achieve hand graciousness. Gracious and graceful they tell you every hand should be that deals an ace or a cup of tea. And magic whiteners are appearing, fragrant and lovely, to further distract your contract partner.

Stress is laid on the skin condition of the hand and how to counteract unhappy conditions. Soon, it is prophesied, no woman will get a manicure who does not at the same appointment get a hand beautifying treatment.

All of which is going to prove bad news for the girl who doesn't begin to work what home magic she may toward hand betterment. There is much that can be done this way. Even massaging the same cream into the hands that you use in your nightly facial improves the hand condition remarkably in a short time.

Romance and Marriage Wait for Better Days

But They Can't Delay Forever.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

That the depression is taking a toll of high romance is seen in the marriage license figures for 1931 as compared with those of 1929. In New York alone there were more than 6,000 fewer licenses issued in 1931 than in 1929. The disparity in new home foundings in 1931 as compared with 1929 the country over would, no doubt, arrive at an alarming figure.

But the fateful step that leads to the founding of a new family cannot be heartily recommended where the loss of job or fear of loss of job hangs heavily over the head. Much as we romanticists would like to see marriage operate without the financial bugaboo, it cannot be done without some established weekly or monthly income.

At the popular church for weddings, the Little Church Around the Corner in New York, there has been a marked falling off in the number of marriages performed in the last year. The Rev. Randolph Ray, rector, lays the decline to economic conditions, the young people just waiting and biding their time. Those who marry, on the other hand, find this an excellent marrying year with house furnishings low and costs reduced generally.

Perhaps out of all this money debacle there may come a new standard for home founding. Youth may be biding its time—but youth's time for biding isn't our time. Waiting is not one of its cultivated arts. There is not going to be any magic lifting of this economic stress in which we are all involved, more or less. Youth certainly is not going to sit by and wait two, three, five years for economic recovery. The moment things begin to look a little bright, if not before, they're going to plunge.

This time of waiting will have taught a good many girls and boys that what they thought necessary in the way of amusement expenses can be substituted by milder forms of expenditure. The apartment furnished completely and all ready to walk into will not seem so imperative to some of our young women as it did in '29. The value of a dollar is being impressed seriously on this generation of marrying age.

The lesson of how one dollar today may serve where two yesterday seemed imperative is not without its future promise. Still, we would not advocate marriage where there is joblessness or threatened joblessness to consider, for two, unfortunately, cannot live more cheaply than one—on no salary.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 9.—[Special.]—Mrs. Edward Everett Gann, sister of the Vice President, went to Altoona, Pa., today where she will make an address. She will join her brother and Mr. Gann on Wednesday.

Mrs. Charles Francis Adams was the guest in whose honor Mrs. Ben H. Fuller, wife of the major general commandant of the marine corps, entertained at luncheon today in the marine barracks.

Mrs. Ray Lyman Wilbur was entertained at luncheon today by Mrs. W. C. Mendenhall at the Chevy Chase club.

The Swiss minister and Mme. Peter were hosts at dinner last evening in honor of M. Borel, chief arbiter for the Swedish-American claims commission. The minister presented M. Borel to the President at noon today. The guests at the luncheon were members of the legation staff.

Mr. and Mrs. Warren Delano Robbins were hosts at dinner this evening in compliment to the former's mother, Mrs. Price Collier of New York.

Mrs. Elenzo Tyner and her daughter, Miss Peggy of Chicago have given up their apartment in the Mayflower and moved to the Shoreham for the remainder of the spring.

Work of Agencies to Be Marked in Youth Week Today

The observance of Youth week will center today upon the services offered one million boys and girls by agencies such as Boy and Girl Scouts, Camp Fire Girls, Boys' and Girls' clubs, Y. M. C. A., Y. W. C. A., Knights of Columbus, Jewish People's institute, and churches, social centers, community houses, parks and playgrounds.

Special programs have been arranged by many such institutions in the second day celebration of Youth week to show what is being done by organizations to fill the leisure hours of the city's youth. The Chicago Boys' clubs, with branches over the city, will have stunt night tonight with parents and friends as the audience.

Tomorrow Youth week will be observed as youth day in industry. At a meeting of the Association of Commerce, Mayor Cermak and William J. Bogan, superintendent of schools, will tell what the city's youth is doing for the city. Awards in the Chicago cleanup campaign will be made.

Parent Traces Child Actions to Their Cause

Finds Servant Was to Blame.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

Question: "I cannot resist writing you after reading your article. A week ago we were having the most terrible fits of temper and there seemed to be a real problem connected with our 3 year old son. In the middle of the night he would cry hard and insist on coming into our room.

"Previous to this experience he had been a very easy child to deal with. We could not place the cause of the trouble, but felt it was worth letting our maid go, and I planned to take care of him until things straightened themselves out. I have been without help only four days now and already everything is running very smoothly. Don't you think it likely that the temper and crying were the result of the maid not knowing how to manage children—or at least my child?"

Answer: I think everything points that way, and I am glad you are going to choose more carefully next time. There are young women who have an instinct for getting along with children, and a native intelligence for handling them. Also, there are some who have learned a great deal by experience. I have known wonderful maids and nurses, but a mother has to be careful and patient in her efforts to find them, and no search should be more thorough than this one.

A surprising number of behavior problems are described to me when the obvious cause is that the child is left all day with a housekeeper or maid who may be splendid in her work but who is utterly incapable of being a child's companion and guide. After all, it is a great deal to expect of any one. As far as my personal opinion is concerned, I think wherever a choice is possible a mother should turn her house over to the outsider and take charge of the children herself.

Finds $3 Will Feed Needy Family of 5 for Week in Aurora

Miss Imogene Carlisle, a nutrition expert representing the midwestern branch of the American Red Cross, has been for several weeks assisting the relief organizations in Aurora.

She has formulated diets for those being granted aid, which are nutritious as well as low in price. Miss Carlisle said yesterday that it had been found feasible to feed a family of five in Aurora for about $3 a week. The diets contain some meats, but are mainly composed of vegetables and cereals.

"By proper attention to diet," Miss Carlisle added, "progress can often be made toward the control of certain diseases. We have had a large number of persons attend our classes in nutrition. Our principal endeavor, of course, is to show those whose funds are limited how to get the maximum of value from their expenditures for food."

Jack said "Clothes cost money!"

No FOOLING!
My husband was MAD!
His CLOTHES wore out FAST when I WASHED them with STRONG GRANULATED soap.

Then my NEIGHBOR told me, "Change to CHIPSO—CHIPSO has NO FREE LYE to ROT and WEAKEN clothes."

✱ ✱ ✱

No HARD RUBBING and our CLOTHES LAST LONGER.

✱ ✱ ✱

FIRST time you try CHIPSO you'll KNOW it is SAFE for clothes because it makes your HANDS so SMOOTH and NICE!

Strong soaps were rotting Sue's clothes

It CERTAINLY was a CRIME—the way STRONG GRANULATED SOAP RUINED Sue's CLOTHES!

✱ ✱ ✱

Well, I told her to CHALK it UP to SAD EXPERIENCE, and SWITCH to CHIPSO!

✱ ✱ ✱

Those RICH CHIPSO SUDS SOAK out dirt FAST—yet leave COLORS in! CLOTHES get SNOWY WITHOUT RUBBING.

✱ ✱ ✱

CHIPSO is GUARANTEED! It has NO free LYE to ROT your CLOTHES and HURT your HANDS.

✱ ✱ ✱

My grocer told me Chipso is safe even for silks!

I was awfully FOOLISH—I used a GRANULATED SOAP—not realizing how STRONG it was UNTIL CLOTHES FADED and TORE—

✱ ✱ ✱

Then my GROCER said, "Mrs. Roe, did you KNOW that CHIPSO is SAFE, even for COLORED SILKS?"

✱ ✱ ✱

So now before I give the wash a CHIPSO SOAK, I first run my SILK THINGS through those RICHER and SAFER CHIPSO SUDS!

✱ ✱ ✱

Don't let STRONG SOAP ROT your CLOTHES—and HURT your HANDS. CHIPSO has NO free LYE—keeps CLOTHES like NEW!

He's a MAN in the making!

How proud you are of him! How carefully you safeguard his food, his rest, his play—for you want him to grow up the healthiest boy in the land. Of course, you worry when he doesn't want to eat. And that's why we are reminding you of a cereal so tempting children can't resist it.

And Kellogg's Rice Krispies are one of the best of cereals for children. Nourishing. Yet so easy to digest, they do not overtax. Fine for breakfast, lunch, or the evening meal.

CUBS FACE GIANTS TODAY; 3 PITCHERS READY

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., May 9.—Dear old Philadelphia is one of the best cities in the world in which to sit and reflect, and since today's baseball game scheduled for the faded Athletics and the thoroughly miserable White Sox was called off on account of wet grounds, or because it is Monday, especial opportunity is given to ponder the current results of the trades effected by the Sox since Lew Fonseca, the affable baritone and magician, became manager.

Our several fan correspondents do not all agree with our expressed opinion that the Sox in the aggregate have profited by Mr. Fonseca's swappings. Several even have gone so far as to write that they think that Lew has been hornswoggled unmercifully, excepting, in all instances, the acquisition of Red Kress.

Let's Get Out the Figgers.

Since the main purpose of the trading was to add hitting strength, one naturally reaches for the batting figgers in seeking to ascertain how the trades have worked out so far. The Sox have come out of the trading with two new pitchers and their performance will be considered later in this piece. Right now we'll consider gents who are hired to hit.

The Sox have parted with seven hitters or alleged hitters and have six hitters or alleged hitters on their hands. The seven departed hitters, at the close of last week's baseball business Saturday evening, had been at bat 365 times and had made 107 hits for a group batting average of .292. The six newcomers at the same time had been at bat 296 times and had made 58 hits for a grand average of .196. The Funk-Simons major-minor transaction is not included in the compilation.

Look at 'Em One by One.

It makes little difference in practical reckoning who was traded for whom. The net fact remains that the Sox have sent away seven men other than pitchers and have in their places taken on six men other than pitchers. And here is a list of what the two groups have been doing with their bats in the order of their success.

THE DEPARTED:		THE INCUMBENTS:
Reynolds	.408	Seeds	.293
Jolley	.319	Hodapp	.265
Cissell	.269	Rothrock	.186
Watwood	.256	Berry	.178
Kerr	.250	Hayes	.176
Campbell	.241	Kress	.175
Tate	.200

In cold type [statisticians always say type is cold] the Sox would seem to be outsmarted. But who is there to say that Kress, who batted .311 last year, will continue 233 points behind Reynolds, who batted .290 last year? Comparison of these two players is made because they obviously are the stars involved in the dealings under discussion, although they weren't traded for each other.

Reynolds N. G. in Chicago.

IT'S WARNEKE'S TURN; ROOT AND SMITH ASK JOB

English a Fixture at Third Base.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The Cubs' plans to render a reception the Giants would remember were shattered yesterday by a delayed April shower. President William Veeck abandoned the playing idea when a downpour appeared about a half hour before the scheduled starting time. The postponement was all right with everybody except many thousands of women guests who were to be treated to a special free afternoon because there weren't enough tickets to fill all the applications for the last regular Ladies' day.

The women were given a break, however. Because overhead conditions were threatening when the gates were opened, the free patrons were permitted to enter without giving up their tickets. The slips can be used today, but not later, unless rain causes another delay. Yesterday's washout will be woven into a double header when the Giants come this way in June.

Three Pitchers Ready Today.

When Manager Hornsby goes to the park this morning he will have Lon Warneke in mind as the starting pitcher, but this idea is open to alteration. The young fellow, who has compiled a sensational record of four straight wins by allowing only 7 runs in 39 innings, was slated for appearance yesterday but the delay puts a couple of others in line for duty. Charley Root is eager and ready for a start. Bob Smith also is available, the crick in his neck having succumbed to the rays of Trainer Andy Lotshaw's magic lamps. It probably will be Gibson for the Giants.

Hornsby now is so well satisfied with his infield that Stanley Hack, the $42,000 Coast league purchase, may have trouble breaking back into the lineup as a third baseman. Woody English, who supplanted him, really is a better man at third than at his old shortstop job. Woody also hits in the pinches.

The young second base combination of Jurges and Herman is just about the classiest now performing in either major league, and the duo will not be broken up as long as Jurges hits as he did during the last two weeks.

Herman Bats .436.

In his last seven games Herman manufactured 12 hits in 27 times at bat. In the seven battles prior to that he was good for a dozen hits in 28 appearances. That's an average of .436 for fourteen days, and none of it is the result of hitting fly balls over short fences. Most of his drives are through openings in the infield or just over the inner defense. Some more hitting help may come from Lance Richbourg, now that he is installed in right regularly. Hornsby knew all the time just what Richbourg could do, but wanted to give the kids a chance. The kids flopped.

The need of a robust cleanup batter is apparent. It will be a couple of weeks before Ki Cuyler will be fully recovered from the effects of a fractured foot, but when he is available Hornsby may drop him into the cleanup post.

Outdoor Fans Enjoy Their Week at Show

BY BOB BECKER.

The tenth annual outdoor exposition opened yesterday in the Coliseum to remind Chicagoans that vacation lands are calling. The show will be open every day this week, including Saturday evening.

The presence of twelve Ojibway Indians from the Bad River reservation in Wisconsin gives a distinct north woods touch to the exposition, which always inoculates the city dweller with "vacationitis." The redskins have set up tepees in the Coliseum and will live in them during the show. Yesterday one of this group was busy showing visitors how to make baskets out of wood fibers brought down from the north country.

A tank, where George Glazier and his 18 year old niece, Agnes Hare, from Washburn, Wis., will give daily demonstrations of log rolling, and a casting tank, where fishermen have an opportunity to use bait and fly casting rods in various contests, furnish two sport angles to the outdoor exposition.

Five casting clubs will take part in the national indoor fishermen's contests, which will be held tomorrow evening. The contest is open to any one, rules providing for a twelve pound test line with a five-eighths ounce plug. Contestants will include Charles Zeisler, who will defend his title of bait casting champion, won three years ago at the outdoor exposition.

Aside from the many exhibits of game birds, wild animals from the north woods, and both live and mounted specimens of game fish, this year's exposition has many a tip for the outdoor fan on the newest items in fishing tackle, trick log cabins, canoes, and other equipment necessary to those who like to vacation in the lake and stream regions up north.

Booths portraying the advantages of vacation lands in Wisconsin, Michigan, and Minnesota, including intimate tips on where to get the biggest muskies and black bass, also are a feature of the exposition.

Yesterday was Michigan day at the show and Friday has been set aside as Minnesota day by Gov. Floyd B. Olson. He will visit the show on that day and broadcast over two radio stations to tell Chicagoland about Minnesota's attractions for the vacationist.

SCIMITAR'S EDGE GROWS KEENER; WHIPS GOLD STEP

BY FRENCH LANE.

One of the most remarkable old horses in American racing is Scimitar, now eight years of age, which races for J. D. Mikel, the young turfman from downstate.

The old fellow has won cup races at two miles and more, and has captured rich handicaps. A year ago he was running to be claimed for $1,200. But he came back last March and ran third to the ill-fated Phar Lap in the Agua Caliente handicap, and furnished plenty of opposition most of the way.

A short time ago he beat all the good handicap horses at Tanforan. His ancient legs seem to improve with age. They are just like so many tough old hickory sticks. And "Old Scim"—that's what the race-goers call him now—knows how to pick 'em up and lay 'em down.

Overlook Old Scim.

He showed up in the six furlong Wheaton claiming handicap at Aurora yesterday. The folks backed Gold Step with great confidence. They didn't think Scimitar could get into full stride in six furlongs.

Gold Step gave his backers a mighty run for their money. He was a length in front with only a sixteenth of a mile to go and Jockey McCoy was riding him desperately. Then the old bulldog Scimitar began moving up on him. It was all over. Scimitar went on to win by a head in a stubborn finish. He rewarded his backers at 5 to 1. Nyack was third. Black Mammy fell.

Rides Three Winners.

Charley King, the sensational young rider from Illinois, was up on Scimitar. It was one of three winners that he brought home and he had to ride marvelously to win each of them.

Strange places these jockeys hail from. Another new star has been introduced at Aurora in Tracy Reno, who had all the horse followers along the Pacific coast gasping during the last winter season.

Tracy climbed into the saddle on Well Heeled at Aurora yesterday and made the rail birds gasp by the beautiful ride he gave the steed. He sent Well Heeled through a treacherous opening at the head of the stretch and

REYNOLDS BATS WASHINGTON TO 3 TO 0 VICTORY

Boley Released

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., May 9.—[Special.]—Joe Boley, shortstop on the Philadelphia American league team for six years, who has played in three world's series, was given his unconditional release today.

Boley, who probably will become a minor league manager, came to the Athletics in 1927 from Baltimore. He was sent to Cleveland last winter, but the Indians turned him back during the spring training season.

Washington, D. C., May 9.—[Special.]—Carl Reynolds, the former White Sox outfielder, and Lloyd Brown, the Senators' promising young left-handed pitcher, shared the spotlight today, as Washington blanked the Cleveland Indians, 3 to 0.

Reynolds collected half of the six hits the Senators picked up off Wesley Ferrell, Cleveland's ace, and accounted for all three runs. He scored the first in the seventh and drove home the other two in the eighth with a home run.

Carl's three hits raised his batting average 17 points to .420, and gave him the major league lead over Jimmy Foxx of the Philadelphia Athletics.

Burning Blaze May Be Ready for Arlington

Reports came to Chicago from Kentucky last night that Burning Blaze, owned by Dick and Pat Nash of Chicago and generally regarded as one of the great 3 year old race horses of this season, still may be able to fight for the championship of his division.

He was eliminated from the Kentucky Derby after he had been heavily backed when he was cut down in a race a week before Derby day.

The leader on his left hind leg was severed but latest reports are that it has responded to treatment, and that he may be able to go back into training within 30 days.

This may make it possible for the sensational 2 year old of last season to fill his engagement in the $70,000 Arlington Classic in July, which will afford him a chance to battle it out with Burgoo King, the Derby winner, and others in the field.

For a time after he suffered the injury little hope was held out that Burning Blaze could race again.

HOW TO PITCH A STRIKE—IN SIX EASY LESSONS

DAILY DOUBLE FEVER SPREADS TO HALF MILER

Sportsman's Park Starts System Thursday.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The daily double idea on Chicago race tracks is becoming contagious. It had its inception at the opening of the current Aurora meeting and now it has spread to Sportsman's park, the new Tom Thumb track across the road from Hawthorne. Fans at Sportsman's park will have their first opportunity to buy a combination ticket on their choices in the second and third races Thursday and the system will be continued throughout the meeting.

Chicagoans had not seen the daily double in action until it made its debut at Aurora, although it had been used at New Orleans all winter. Max Sussman, who rents field glasses to race fans on Chicago tracks, came across to a big double down south one winter's day, making more than $1,700 on a $2 wager.

Play on the daily double at Aurora was normal until last Thursday, when Jerry Hallisey went home with a check for $3,132 as a result of holding the only ticket on Tufinut and Knockabout. The Aurora daily double booths did a heavy business thereafter, and now Sportsman's park hopes to follow their example.

King Cherokee Finally Wins.

King Cherokee, owned and trained by F. Perry, tried to score twice in the first week of the Sportman's park meeting, but third was the best he could do. Yesterday, however, he decided to have it over with, and before he was half way through the stretch in the Evanston purse, the feature of the day, those who held tickets on him began to sprint for the cashier's department.

The ladies' day crowd of more than 4,000 had made Hypoluxo the favorite in the Evanston, but he was left at the post after Bad Axe had done considerable cutting up there. The latter went to the front, but not for long. King Cherokee was four lengths to the good at the head of the back stretch and looked as though he could have made it forty when he went by the finish ahead of Harry Hieover and Orkin. He paid $10.62 to win.

A rainstorm drenched the track just before the running of the second race and rain continued to fall at intervals throughout the afternoon, so that it was fairly slow by the time King Cherokee came in.

Billy Buford Pays $51.92.

Long shot players were rewarded in the first two races, in which Billy Buford and Marion Ormont came home in front. In the opener J. D. Weil's Chicaloo had been made the favorite, but could do no better than third when they dashed by the judges' stand, for Billy Buford was going too fast. Pictorial, also overlooked in the betting, came up to take the place. Billy Buford, ridden by Jockey Reeves, paid $51.92 in the $2 mutuels, while Pictorial returned $26.44 to place.

The second race, a maiden event for three year olds and upwards, found Marion Ormont, which had finished third three times in 19 previous efforts, the winner. M. Dupuy brought her home ahead of Big Star and Thistle Joe. Prince Rock, the favorite, which has been trying to win almost every day since the meeting opened, wound up fourth. Marion Ormont paid her backers $31.96.

More Long Shots Come In.

Followers of form came back to life in the third, in which Noon Play and More Space, which had shared the favoritism in the mutuels, came in first and second before Mad Mullah. Noon Play paid $6.92 to win.

Kukui, the choice in the fourth, followed two long shots home, Oh Yeah and Shasta Charm finishing one-two ahead of him. Oh Yeah returned $15.08 in the mutuels, while Shasta Charm was at $19.94 to place.

Schurz Beats Roosevelt, 6-1; Wins 2d Place

Schurz High school's baseball team joined Lane Tech in the semi-final round for the Chicago Public High School league championship yesterday by defeating Roosevelt, 6 to 1, at Kilbourn park. The victory gave Schurz second place in the north section. Lane clinched the sectional title by defeating Senn last Saturday.

Six other games scheduled yesterday were postponed because of rain. Lane will seek its seventh consecutive victory today, meeting Lake View at Logan Square park.

Play in the four sections of the league will be concluded tomorrow with seven games. Two teams from each division will qualify for the semi-finals, which probably will start next week.

Howard Berg held Roosevelt to four hits in Schurz's last sectional game of the season. The score was tied, 1 to 1, until the third inning when Schurz scored three runs. Score:

Schurz	103	200	0	6	7	2

Massey Gets Ten Round Decision Over Herrera

Kansas City Race Track Burns; Damage $100,000

Kansas City, Mo., May 9.—(AP)—The Riverside race track grand stand near here was destroyed by fire tonight, twelve days before the annual spring meeting was scheduled to open. P. H. McCrory, president of the Riverside Jockey club, estimated the loss, including equipment, at $100,000. He said the meeting probably would be cancelled.

BRAVES DEFEAT PIRATES, 6-5, ON KNOTHE'S SINGLE

Hit Brings In 2 Runs to Clinch 12 Inning Game.

Pittsburgh, Pa., May 9.—[Special.]—Fritz Knothe's long single in the 12th inning brought two runs across the plate, and the Boston Braves won the first game of the series from the Pittsburgh Pirates, 6 to 5, today. And a short time later the same player ended the game by throwing out Traynor after the Pirates had scored a run and filled the bases.

Huck Betts opposed Larry French at the start but was removed in the sixth for Frankhouse who pitched well up to the 12th when Tom Zachary went in to pitch to only one man. Cantwell finished the game.

The Braves were outhit, 10 to 12, but made safeties count. Maranville opened the rally that won with a single. Hargrave hit a double in the final inning and Knothe his third hit of the afternoon.

REDS WHIP PHILLIES, 4-3.

Cincinnati, O., May 9.—[Special.]—The Cincinnati Reds whipped the Phillies today, 4 to 3, for their fifth straight victory in a ninth inning rally. Lombardi again starred, hitting a triple and a home run. Lombardi and Chick Hafey, until the ninth, had recorded all of Cincinnati's hits.

Lombardi's home run in the seventh sent the Reds out in front, but Lee's homer in the first half of the ninth evened matters. It took Gelbert's single after Herman's double, Lombardi's walk, and Hafey's bunt to end the game.

CARDS BEAT DODGERS, 7-6.

St. Louis, Mo., May 9.—(AP)—Pounding the offerings of the veteran Jack Quinn for four successive hits after one was out in the ninth inning, the Cardinals pushed across three runs to nose out Brooklyn, 7 to 6, in today's series opener. Sparky Adams' triple, his third hit of the game, scored a pair to tie the count and then, after two intentional passes, Jimmy Collins came through with a single to score Adams with the winning run. It also was Collins' third safety.

WHAT'S A CLUB? PROS WILL LEARN AT GOLF CLINICS

New York, May 9.—[Special.]—Taking a leaf out of the practice of physicians the Professional Golfers' association of America has just announced a decision to inaugurate golf clinics where its members can go for expert advice.

Four centers have been designated for the establishment of clinics—New York, Chicago, Atlanta, and a point to be decided on the Pacific coast. Meetings will be held in these various centers once a month and the subjects to be discussed will be teaching, club making, and greens keeping.

Right Into the Pocket! No, Not Billiards—It's Golf

Pampa, Tex., May 9.—(AP)—Here's a hole in one that's different. Marvin Harris drove 75 yards from the rough. The ball landed neatly in a hip pocket of Ivey E. Duncan, Pampa attorney. Mr. Duncan was slightly bruised.

NORTHWESTERN, CHICAGO GOLFERS ARE DEFEATED

Northwestern and Chicago golf teams were defeated in Big Ten matches yesterday, the Wildcats losing to Michigan, 10 to 8, at Westmoreland, while the Maroons lost to Illinois on the No. 4 course at Olympia Fields, 11½ to 6½.

Fischer of Michigan had the best score of the day in the matches at Westmoreland, turning in a 76. Northwestern took an early lead when McDonald, paired with Damaske, defeated Lenfesty and Fischer, 2½ to ½. Casper and Whitaker of the Purple squad tied Howard and Hard of Michigan, 1½ each, but the Wolverines won in the individual rounds, 8 to 4.

Scotty Reston, captain of Illinois, present conference champions, led the shooters in the best ball matches at Olympia Fields with 37—38—75. Bob Bohnen, Maroon captain, shot a 77. Reston and Frank Renwick scored three points for the Illini against none for Bohnen and Harry Baker of Chicago, while Jack Smucker and Paul Smith counted half a point for the Maroons against Bob Crowe and Sam Alpert of Illinois. Renwick had the best score of the day, a 73.

Albert Longfield, 431 Elgin avenue, Forest Park, jointed the hole in one élite Sunday when he dropped in an ace on the par 3, 201 yard third at the York Golf club, 22d street and York road.

Mission Hills Country club has solved the membership problem to a great extent this year with family memberships. Instead of giving away memberships for dues, the family system entitles the holder and his immediate relatives to club privileges. The cost is $100 plus tax.

Ridgemoor's course is in excellent condition, due largely to the fairway watering system installed last fall. Greens fees have been reduced to $1 daily and $2 Sunday, while club dues have been trimmed $5 a month. Officers of the club for this season are Robert J. Nordhold, president; F. H. Masman, vice president; J. Parker Button, treasurer, and W. A. Bayliss, secretary. F. W. Litzow is again in charge of the sports and pastimes committee, and the remaining directors are Marshall J. Fletcher, Dr. E. P. Swatek, Harry E. Radix, and Theo Letsche.

Lincolnshire Country club's executive board for the season is headed by Paul E. Blanchard, chairman, with E. A. Frederickson vice chairman and George P. Ellis, secretary. Guest fees have been reduced to $1 daily, $1.50 Saturdays, and $2.50 Sundays. Caddy fees are 70, 80, and 90 cents. All three courses are in excellent shape.

The Artists Guild's first golf tournament of the season will be held next Sunday at the Fox Lake Golf and Country club, which will be the scene of subsequent tournaments of the guild on June 18, July 16, Aug. 20, Sept. 17 and Oct. 15. The guild's golf committee is composed of M. Vaughn Millbourn, chairman; R. Fayerweather Babcock, Edwin L. Schatz, John Humski, and Charles Palmer.

Rose Marshall of Marquette Park won low gross with an 89 in the opening women's event at Cog-Hill golf club yesterday. Rose Long of Jackson Park, was second with a 90, and Isabelle Meany, also of Jackson, was third with 95. Fifty competed.

The other event was the low net competition, in which Mrs. Jane Martin of Jackson Park and Mrs. K. Brooks of Cog-Hill tied for first with 83. Three Jackson Park players, Mrs. E. Johnson, Rose Long, and T. E. Curry, tied for second place with an 84. Ties will be played off today.

MERHAR RESTS 2 YEARS, BEATS PETE WISTORT

Joe Merhar, Butte, Mont., heavyweight, making his first start in nearly two years, won an eight round decision over Pete Wistort of South Chicago last night at White City. Merhar opened a cut on the side of Wistort's left eye in the second round.

Henry Lenard was knocked down for a count of two in the second round of his fight with Johnny Ryan, Milwaukee junior lightweight, but got up and punched Ryan around the ring for the remaining six rounds and got the decision. Both are southpaws.

Jerry Crano, 160 pounds, Cicero, and Clyde Hull drew [6]; Meyer Frager, 135, knocked out Jimmy Peters [2]; Bobby Allen, 135, beat Small Change [4].

TWO JILTINGS TOO MANY, SHE SAYS; SUES BERLENBACH

New York, May 9—(AP)— Two jiltings by Paul Berlenbach, light heavyweight world champion, were too many, Claire Feidner, 27 his tall brunette neighbor, testified in Supreme court at Long Island City today. She is suing the fighter for $50,000, charging breach of promise.

Miss Feidner said Berlenbach had paid her attentions for about two years when he asked her to marry him, in January, 1927, and she accepted. The engagement wasn't announced, she said, because he didn't want "all the publicity."

Washington club this year. But those who know how he felt about working in Chicago are confident he never would have staged a comeback with the Sox. On the other hand, Kress was unhappy in St. Louis and welcomes a connection with even a losing outfit like the White Sox. Red is a young man and knows that he may live to see the Sox win ball games regularly.

Seeds, who is now topping the newcomers in hitting, will add at least 25 points to his present average this year and has unlimited promise for development.

Give Mr. Kress a Hand.

While the prime purpose of the Sox trading was to add batting strength, there are other phases of equal importance. Kress is a better fielder and a more alert baseball thinker than would be furnished by a composite of the best talents of Reynolds, Jolley, Cissell, Watwood, Campbell and Tate. Kerr isn't a regular, so we leave him out of the thinking department. Reynolds is a more valuable player than Berry only because of his hitting, when he's hitting.

When you pass on from Seeds, Kress and Berry, you'd better get your guard up if you are one who likes the Sox trades. Right now it is difficult to see how Hodapp and Rothrock are going to be of any value to the Sox, and Hayes is worth while only because of his brilliance afield. He simply can't bat. But he'll be a fine man to have around for utility infielding.

The Sox as a result of the Fonseca swapping have Sam Jones, aged 40, who has won 2 and lost 2 this season, not as good as his lifetime showing of 204 wins to 176 losses, and Milton Gaston, aged 32, who has won none and lost 2 this year, scarcely as good as his lifetime major league record of 76 wins and 118 losses. The departed pitchers are Bump Hadley, who has won 3 and lost 1 this year, Jim Moore, who has neither won nor lost, and Bob Weiland, who has won none and lost one.

FEIBER CONTRACT FUROR FAILS TO WORRY GRABINER

Harry Grabiner, vice president of the White Sox, yesterday refused to get excited over the protest of the University of San Francisco in the case of Lefty Feiber.

Feiber, discovered by a White Sox scout while tossing major league curves on the University of San Francisco baseball grounds, was signed to a contract last week. University officials threatened to file a protest with Baseball Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis under the rule discouraging the snatching of college players before graduation.

"We don't care to enter into a controversy with the university," Grabiner said. "Both the boy and his father signed the contract with us willingly, and we can't see what the university can do about it. They say Feiber looks like a real pitching find."

LAYTON WINS FIRST 2 BLOCKS FROM HOPPE

Johnny Layton defeated Willie Hopple yesterday in the two opening blocks of their 500 point three cushion billiard match at Bensinger's billiard room, 29 West Randolph street. He won the afternoon block, 50 to 47, in forty-eight innings and triumphed last night, 50 to 30, in forty innings. High runs were: Layton 8, Hoppe 7. The second and third blocks will be played this afternoon and evening. Layton now leads 100 to 77 in eighty-eight innings.

Indiana Expects Hornboestel to Lead Pack in Half Mile Run

BY WILFRID SMITH.

When Indiana university surprised the western conference and won its first track championship last winter in the annual indoor games, five points of its total were scored by a sophomore, Charles Hornboestel, a comparative unknown, but for whom great things are expected in his specialty, the half mile run. Indiana won its championship by such a narrow margin that had any of the seven athletes, who won or placed in six events, failed, Michigan would have been returned the winner.

Indiana scored 27.5-6 points in the indoor games; Michigan, 27 points. Henery Brocksmith, of course, contributed 10 points to Indiana's score by his record breaking victories in the two mile and one mile races. Beecher won the pole vault and also counted 1½ points with a tie for third place in the high jump. Hornboestel won the half mile and the remaining points were: Nesse, fourth in the one mile, 1 point; Watson, second in the two miles, 3 points; Fuqua, third in the quarter mile, 2 points, and Divich, tied with two others for fourth in the pole vault, 1-3 point.

Count on Individual Titles.

All of which demonstrates the value of a seven man team in the abbreviated schedule of indoor competition.

Indiana probably has no chance to win the outdoor championships next week at Northwestern. But the Hoosiers are counting on Brocksmith, Beecher and Hornboestel to win individual titles.

Hornboestel lives down on the Ohio river at Evansville, Ind. In high school he did not make a name as a track man, but after Coach E. C. Hayes took him in charge, he developed until it is entirely possible that, within his span of competition, he will take over the all time Big Ten record for the half-mile which Scott of Mississippi A. and M. has held since 1916. Scott's time was 1 minute 53 2-10 seconds, set in the days when the Big Ten games were open to all.

In winning the indoor half-mile this spring Hornboestel was timed in 1:57.1. Outdoors, however, this 20 year old Hoosier, who measures exactly six feet, is said to run at 1:55 more times than not.

Hopes for Olympic Berth.

One minute and 55 seconds should win the conference title, despite the efforts of Turner of Michigan and Brown of Ohio State, but Hornboestel's ambitions are more than that. He hopes to cut his time sufficiently to win a place on the United States Olympic team. Incidentally the accepted world's record for the half-mile is 1:51.6 made by Dr. Otto Peizer of Germany in 1926.

Hornsboestel is a member of Alpha Tau Omega social fraternity and of Delta Sigma Phi, commerce fraternity, in which college he is enrolled.

PETROLLE OPENS DRILL SATURDAY FOR BATTALINO

Manager in Chicago to Plan for Bout.

Billy Petrolle, Duluth, Minn., junior welterweight, will arrive Saturday to train at the Arcade gymnasium for his ten round bout with Bat Battalino, former featherweight champion, at the Chicago Stadium on May 20, his manager, Jack Hurley, said yesterday. Hurley reached town Sunday from Rochester, Minn., where he underwent a series of minor operations. Charley Retzlaff, Leonard, N. D., heavyweight, and Jack will go to Boston today. Retzlaff fights James J. Braddock there Friday.

Barney Ross, west side boxer, and Dick Sisk, South Chicago, were signed yesterday to meet in an eight round preliminary on the Stadium card. The weight has been set at 135 pounds. Sisk scaled 139 when he knocked out Ruby Goldstein of New York on the King Levinsky-Mickey Walker bill.

Another bout already closed involves Paul Dazzo and Sammy Levine, Chicago featherweights. They meet in a six rounder. Dazzo whipped Levine in a previous encounter. Paul, who won the bantamweight Golden Gloves title in 1929, has lost only two matches since turning professional two years ago. In his last start at the Stadium Hymie Wiseman won a decision from him.

Jack Kilbourne, who won four of five bouts at White City, yesterday was signed to combat Harry Harris at Pittsburgh May 23. Jimmy Carres, his manager, made the contest for ten rounds at 160 pounds. Tony Canzoneri, lightweight champion, and Battling Gizzy box the ten round windup match at 138 pounds.

Mickey Walker will make his first start tonight since he whipped King Levinsky last month. He clashes at Cleveland with Johnny Risko, whom he has beaten twice. Immediately after the bout Walker will leave for Summit, N. J., and resume training there for a match against Paulino Uzcudun at New York on May 26. Uzcudun has established himself at Orangeburg, N. J., where Jack Sharkey will start workouts Saturday for his title match with Champion Max Schmeling.

CERMAK ORDERS SURVEY OF FOOD PRICES IN CITY

Analysis to Reveal Retail and Wholesale Trends.

Mayor Cermak disclosed yesterday that he has directed J. L. Jacobs & Co., to furnish him an analysis of wholesale and retail prices of commodities in the Chicago area, paying particular attention to the prices of dairy products and other foodstuffs.

Further details were withheld by the mayor for the present, but as his announcement follows closely upon the cut of one cent a quart in the price of milk his statement was interpreted in the city hall as meaning that he is interested in knowing whether the prices of other foodstuffs have been reduced proportionately.

City May Save Also.

"If it is true that the reduction in milk prices will save the consumers $10,000 a day," said the mayor, "it sems to me that it is worth while to make a survey of the prices of all other foodstuffs."

It was pointed out that the information will be valuable to the city council in making appropriations in the 1932 budget for materials and supplies. Similar information prepared by Mr. Jacobs, reflecting the price trends of commodities, was used by the county board in building its budget.

The information also can be used by the city council in its pending investigation of the prices of foodstuffs, which was requested by Ald. Jonn Toman [23d].

Seek Price Fixing Data.

This investigation is for the purpose of reporting on the following subjects:

Whether, in the prices charged in Chicago for any of these commodities, there is evidence of price fixing or of a combination in restraint of trade.

"We are studying the distribution of costs of foodstuffs and the spread between cost and sales prices," said Mr. Jacobs. "The wholesale and retail prices reflect economic trends and are very interesting."

ALL EPISCOPAL CHURCHES TO AID IN FEEDING NEEDY

Bishop George Craig Stewart yesterday announced that every Episcopal church in the dicese of Chicago is to be made a concentration station for gathering of foodstuffs for Chicago's destitute during the coming summer. The announcement was made at the 42d annual meeting of the Church club of Chicago at the Hotel Sherman.

"The church should be the leader in solving economic problems," the bishop said. "When factories shut down, the church must speed up; when business ebbs, the church must be at flood tide; man's extremity is God's opportunity. Our basic problem seems to be to get foodstuffs from farms to hungry mouths. It is a problem of collecting and transporting materials."

Bishop Peter Trimble Rowe, known as the flying bishop of Alaska, told of his missionary experiences in the far north. Bishop Walter T. Sumner of Oregon, formerly of Chicago, expressed confidence that the city will find a way out of its present difficulties. Other speakers were Mrs. Charles Spencer Williamson, president of the Episcopal Woman's auxiliary of Chicago, and Dr. Dudley Scott Stark, new rector of St. Chrysostom's church.

C. P. WHITNEY, BROKER AND N.U. TRUSTEE, DIES

Charles Pratt Whitney, member of a firm of insurance brokers, and trustee of Northwestern university, died at his home, 404 Church street, in Evanston, yesterday. He was 66 years old. A year ago Mr. Whitney gave his residence, at the corner of Church street and Judson avenue, to the university.

Mr. Whitney was a member of the firm of Critchell, Miller, Whitney & Barbour, and many civic organizations and clubs. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Grace E. Whitney; a son, Gordon and a daughter, Mrs. Lucius B. Manning. Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow in Graceland chapel.

Dr. Hastings H. Hart, Noted Penologist, Dies

New York, May 9.—[Special.]—Dr. Hastings H. Hart, 81 years old, and for years a noted penologist, died today. He was for many years director of delinquency and penology of Russell Sage foundation.

PARSONS, NOTED ENGINEER, DIES; SUBWAY BUILDER

New York, May 9.—(AP)—Gen. William Barclay Parsons, noted engineer who helped build projects the world over, died today from an illness that took him to the hospital before Easter. An operation for embolism of the lung had failed to save the 73 year old engineer.

GEN. WILLIAM BARCLAY PARSONS.

Gen. Parsons, builder of the first subway in New York City, was chief engineer of the Cape Cod canal, a member of the board of consulting engineers of the Panama canal, and chief of engineers in the Spanish-American war.

He was a director of the Underground Electric Railway company of London as representative of American stockholders, and in Chicago was enlisted on the board of consulting engineers that laid down a $200,000,000 subway system in 1916. In China he made surveys of railways in 1898 and 1899.

He served as brigadier general in the Spanish-American war and reëntered the service as a major in the world war. He was a colonel in command of the 11th United States army engineers and saw active service near Cambrai. He personally supervised construction of the four track railway system that carried American troops and supplies from the seaboard to the front in France.

A native of New York City, Gen. Parsons was graduated from Columbia in 1878 and was stroke of the college crew in the first eight oar open shell race in the United States.

Court Enjoins Picketing of Movie in Geneva, Ill.

Judge John K. Newhall of the Kane county Circuit court issued an injunction yesterday forbidding picketing by union operators in front of the Fargo movie theater in Geneva. The action was taken upon the petition of C. G. Lekander, the theater manager, who discharged three union operators and replaced them with a nonunion man.

COUGHLIN'S RADIO SERMONS TO CONTINUE, DESPITE CARDINAL

New York, May 9.—[Special.]—The Rev. Charles E. Coughlin, pastor of the Shrine of the Little Flower in Royal Oak, Mich., is going to continue his radio broadcasts of sermons on economic, social, and political problems despite the criticism of Cardinal O'Connell of Boston, who recently rebuked him publicly for saying things unbecoming a parish priest.

CHARLES E. E. COUGHLIN. [A. P. Photo.]

Arriving here today by ship from California, Father Coughlin said he had signed a contract to broadcast again next winter beginning Oct. 16.

He declined to comment on Cardinal O'Connell's opposition to his dissertations on the air, while pointing out that he was responsible to his bishop, the Right Rev. Michael James Gallagher, bishop of Detroit, who, he said, approved of all of his microphone sermons.

During his twenty-seven weeks of broadcasting last winter, he said, he received 2,500,000 letters from persons of all religious faiths.

Caught Chipping at Statue; Sent to Work on Real Rock

Robert Campbell, 67 years old, 871 North La Salle street, was arrested Sunday for defacing the Logan monument, Van Buren street and Michigan avenue. He was chipping the statue with a chisel. "I just wanted something to do," he explained. Yesterday Judge Thomas A. Green sent him to the House of Correction stone quarry to work out a fine of $200.

PRIVATE FUNERAL RITES HELD FOR D. M. RYERSON

Private funeral services were held late yesterday afternoon for Donald M. Ryerson, chairman of the board of Joseph T. Ryerson & Son., steel concern, who shot himself through the heart Sunday on a beach adjoining his home. Services were held in the home at 261 North Mayflower road, Lake Forest. Burial was in the Lake Forest cemetery.

A coroner's jury found Mr. Ryerson had ended his life as the result of a nervous collapse, induced by overwork. He was prominent for many years in civic and charitable work. He is survived by his widow, two children, Joan and Anthony, and two brothers, Edward L. Ryerson Jr., president of the steel company and chairman of the Illinois Joint Emergency Relief commission, and Joseph T. Ryerson of New Haven, Conn.

Military Rites Tomorrow for Lieut. Col. Edw. Bittel

Lieut. Col. Edward Bittel, 57 years old, died yesterday in the Hines Memorial hospital. He had been ill for several years. He went to France as a major in the 131st infantry, the old 1st Illinois, and following his promotion to lieutenant colonel was transferred to the 140th infantry. He received several combat citations. Before the world war he was engaged in the restaurant business. Funeral services will be held at 10 a. m. tomorrow at St. Catherine's church, Oak Park.

Judge Ponders Motion to Quash Stedman Indictment

Judge Walter T. Stanton in the Criminal court yesterday took under advisement a motion to quash the indictment against Seymour Stedman, former vice president of the closed City State bank, and eleven other officials. They were charged with accepting deposits knowing the bank to be insolvent.

LEADERS DIFFER AS TO REMEDY FOR DEPRESSION

Westinghouse Head Gives His Views.

BY O. A. MATHER.

Most financiers and business leaders agree that debt, both public and private, coupled with governmental extravagance and consequent heavy taxation, are the prime causes of the current depression. But there is no common agreement on how to remedy the situation.

The existing debt burden suggests that it was incurred to a considerable extent through excessive use of credit. Naturally, there has been vast credit deflation. Is the remedy a reverse movement, such as one of the forms of credit inflation proposed in several bills before congress? And to what extent would any inflation be effective in helping to restore normal times?

Some phases of the present situation were set forth by A. W. Robertson, chairman and president of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company, in an address at the University of Pittsburgh. He emphasized the debt problem and in particular the onerous burden of governmental expenditures. However, he urged further expansion of credit by use of trade acceptances which would form the basis for further issuance of federal reserve currency.

Drop in Income.

"It has been estimated in 1929 our national income was about 94 billion dollars," he said. "The cost of government was 14 billions and our interest charges about 6 billions, making a total of 20 billions, or more than 20 per cent of the national income. Now, in 1932, we find that, although our income has shrunk to approximately 45 billion dollars a year—and it may be less before we get through with this depression—the costs of government and our fixed interest charges have remained as high as they were or are higher. This means that if we meet these payments it will take about 45 per cent of our present annual income.

"No wonder taxes are going delinquent and interest and debts are not being paid. As a people we simply do not have the income to meet these charges. Hence a continuous procession of defaults, foreclosures, receiverships, and bankruptcies. If we face the facts which confront us as a people, we will find we have total assets of some 290 billion dollars at present prices and total debts of some 200 billion dollars at face value. These are the principal items in our balance sheet.

Reason for Condition.

"The reason for our condition is to be found in the fact that our debts have remained in the amount fixed during our period of boom times and inflation, whereas our assets have been steadily shrinking on account of the decline in prices. And because of a drop in the price level of about one-third since the time when most of our debts were incurred, our debt burden is actually increased by about one-half.

"In the face of this general financial demoralization, governments are trying desperately to increase taxes in order to get sufficient revenue to balance expenditures. Just how increased taxes can be collected is yet to be seen. It will certainly be a painful process.

"There are two ways out of the mess we are in. The first is to follow along the bankruptcy road on which we are going and foreclose every mortgage and wipe out enough of the debts by bankruptcy and default to bring them down to some unknown level and start afresh from there. This would mean frightful losses and we could not expect to return to prosperity for a long time.

"The other way is to bring back our income to the 90 billion dollar level where it was when we started to deflate everything and every one except governmental expenses and debts.

Increase Price Level.

"Our incomes can be increased by increasing the price level, which can be done by increasing the amount of monetary exchange or credit available for business. The supply of monetary exchange or credit has dropped to two-thirds of what it was in 1929. It can be brought back to what it was and without danger. In addition to what can be done through the operations of the federal reserve system, the supply of credit can be increased

Swift Stock Selling Wave Now Recedes

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The Chicago exchange ticker tape indicated yesterday that the selling storm which raged all last week in the stocks of Swift & Co. and Swift International was subsiding. Trading in both these issues continued active yesterday, but was not up to last week's terrific pace. Each stock closed the day moderately higher in the face of a general declining trend.

Normal Far Exceeded.

The excellent support which was accorded both stocks last week has been rarely matched in similar situations in recent months on either the Chicago or the New York exchange. A normal weekly turnover in Swift & Co. is less than 10,000 shares. Last week more than 134,000 shares were offered in the market but it was stubbornly supported. Its closing price Saturday was only 3¼ points below the previous week's final quotation, and yesterday's improvement reduced this loss to less than 3 points.

The situation in the stock of Swift International, Swift's South American affiliate, was similar. On offerings aggregating 116,500 shares the stock sold down 5½ points, then rallied yesterday nearly a point.

The story behind the last week's market action of the Swift stocks is one that has been repeated in numerous shares in recent months. Large holdings of the shares had to be turned into cash. The liquidation began early in the week and was said to have been brought on by the closing out of certain accounts in connection with a Boston bank consolidation.

This initial selling weakened other margin and collateral loan accounts, thus bringing out further offerings. All this time good support was given the stock.

Courts Ruling Factor, Too.

To muddle the picture, however, there was the announcement early last week of the Supreme court's refusal to modify the packers' consent decree. This attracted considerable speculative selling in the packing shares including Swift issues which were already under for the reasons previously mentioned. While a blow to Swift & Co., the Supreme court decision got unusual attention because of the coincident weakness in the company's stock. This aggravated the problem of interests supporting the Swift stocks, but the buying continued and the stocks made a good demonstration.

The consent decree opinion knocked out potential profits which might have accrued to Swift if it had been allowed to expand its operations, but it did not affect the current business status. This was emphasized by officials who stressed the strong financial positions of both Swift & Co. and Swift International.

Neither Has Bank Loans.

Neither firm has any bank loans or short term borrowings. Inventories of Swift & Co. are at the lowest level in thirty years. Swift International, which had its banner year in 1931, easily covered its dividend requirements in the first four months of 1932. Both stocks yield approximately 20 per cent at current prices. Whether directors of either company will see fit to reduce the present dividend rate is a moot question.

The Swift stocks virtually monopolized interest on the Chicago exchange yesterday. They accounted for nearly two-thirds of the day's total transactions of 64,000 shares. Aside from the Swift issues prices generally were lower in a narrow range.

NEW YORK BANKS TO CONFER HERE TODAY ON INSULL

To Act on Disposition of Collateral.

Counsel for several New York banks will arrive in Chicago this morning to confer with Chicago bankers and receivers for the two Insull investment trusts over the disposition of the collateral which these banks hold against loans to the investment companies. An attempt will be made to iron out the differences which arose when the New York banks were restrained by court order from selling the collateral at public auction.

The injunction was granted by the federal court handling the affairs of these companies on the grounds that the sale would jeopardize the rights of other creditors. The auction originally scheduled for last Thursday was put off a day when the court issued its order and was then delayed until next Friday. The collateral consists of substantial blocks of stock of the Commonwealth Edison company, Peoples Gas Light and Coke company, and the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois.

The National Public Service corporation, controlled by Middle West Utilities company through the National Electric Power company, yesterday notified the Chicago Stock exchange that directors will omit the dividends on the $3.50 preferred and the class A and B common stocks at their meeting May 26. The preferred has been paying 87½ cents quarterly and the other issues 40 cents quarterly.

Marmon Motors President Completes Refinancing

Indianapolis, Ind., May 9.—[Special.]—Completion of a refinancing program of the Marmon Motor Car company involving more than $2,425,000, which enables it to continue, was announced here tonight by G. M. Williams, president, coincident with the publication of the company's annual report. This refinancing has been accomplished through coöperation of creditors, half by five year 5 per cent debenture notes and half by the common stock of the company, Williams asserted.

JNO. R. THOMPSON 1ST QUARTER NET TOTALS $195,433

The John R. Thompson company earned net profit of $195,433, or 62 cents a share, on the 300,000 shares of common stock in the first quarter, John R. Thompson Jr., president, reported yesterday. This compared with net profit of $217,830, or 72 cents a share, in the first three months of 1931.

Sales of the chain restaurant company last quarter totaled $3,282,226, as compared with $3,481,356 in the comparable period last year.

Rail Rate Decisions Seen as Just Some More Price Fixing

BY SCRUTATOR.

Through the "Traffic World" comes the information that in March alone railroads sent 1,045 urgent petitions to the interstate commerce commission begging for permission to change rates on less than 30 days notice to meet acute situations. Of these 734 were granted.

Most of these applications were for permission to make alterations in rate structures created by the commission or by the carriers at the direction of the commission. The commission invents many of its rate adjustments by concocting mathematically perfect mileage scales and laying them across the map.

"Permits to make changes mean, to a considerable extent, that the result of what many deem the commission's dream of a perfected rate body, based on mileage, is disappearing before the pressure of commercial facts that have no respect for an 'ideal' rate structure," says the Traffic World.

Rates Based on Miles.

The arithmetically perfect rates devised by the commission in its mileage scales are nothing more than a return to the type of ratemaking that existed back in the days when tracks were first flung into new country and rates were based on distance because distance was the only known factor. They are about three-quarters of a century behind the times.

Railways regulation in this country grew out of the need to correct certain abuses that had arisen in railway management. Those who originally supported the idea of regulation, however, could hardly have foreseen that in less than half a century the means adopted to police an industry would have developed to a point where a politically chosen group of men without previous railroad experience and their clerks would have practically taken over the entire operation of the nation's railroad system at the same time assuming no responsibility, financial or otherwise, for their stewardship.

Stripped of its pretenses and complicated details the regulation of the railroads has been just another price fixing scheme that failed. The transportation act of 1920 instructed the interstate commerce commission to adjust rates so that the railroads might earn a fair profit, interpreted as 5¾ per cent.

Cause and Effect Confused.

The carriers haven't earned that much in any year since. When earnings get too low the commission with a sweep of the hand orders a general rate increase. The industries further decentralize or ship more goods by truck or barge.

To charge the trucks and the barges with the decline of railway prosperity is to confuse cause and effect. There is still plenty of business to keep the railroads profitably employed. The increase in the amount of traffic handled by competing agencies is simply betrayal of the inefficiency of stringent political regulation. The absurdities of such regulation were not clearly perceived as long as the railways enjoyed a monopoly and there was no competing transportation medium to compare them with.

Price fixing is price fixing whether the commodity is cotton, wheat, rubber, sugar, sisal, currants, coffee, silk or transportation. Failure has marked every attempt.

The motor truck has pulled up the curtain and given the nation a view of what a government bureau has

New York, May 9.—The stock market was as quiet as a cemetery at midnight as the opening session of the new week closed

To begin with, today was Monday and most Mondays have been blue Mondays this spring in Wall street. Political news from Europe—the French elections—had about as much effect on prices as the stories told by week-end fishermen to their companions slouched around the trading posts. When the gong sounded at the close of the day the adding machines tabulated total sales at 600,000 shares,

ELECT WHITNEY AGAIN AS HEAD OF N. Y. EXCHANGE

New York, May 9.—(AP)—The New York Stock exchange held its annual election today and returned to office Richard Whitney as president, to serve a third one-year term.

The stewardship of the exchange has been in the hands of Mr. Whitney during what many in Wall street regard as the stormiest period in its long history.

At the time of the stock market crash in the fall of 1929 he was forced into the limelight by virtue of his position as acting head of the exchange in the absence of E. H. H. Simmons, the president, who was abroad.

ONE sure way to REDUCE AUTOMOBILE INSURANCE COSTS

Automobile insurance rates are up. All over the country car owners renewing their policies are amazed and confused at the increased cost of this necessary protection, in the face of falling commodity prices, lower rents and reduced earning capacity for the great majority of wage earners.

The reason for premium increases on automobile insurance is simply that automobile accidents have increased. Insurance companies have been called upon to pay more claims with the result that additional revenue is necessary to many companies.

In the final analysis there is one sure way to effectively reduce losses and thereby make possible a reduction in premium rates. That way is greater care on the part of drivers to prevent accidents.

The increase in automobile accidents reflects increased traffic on streets and highways, greater power and speed of cars. With these mechanical factors weighing down on the side of increasing accidents, the human factor stands alone to balance the scales on the other side.

People will respond to an appeal for safer driving if they are shown the need for caution and the established proven rules of driving that insure safety. I make this statement with confidence for we have very definitely found this to be true with over 150,000 motorists who are insured in our Company.

Today is the Twentieth Anniversary meeting of our board of directors. As I look back over these twenty years nothing stands out in my mind more clearly and forcibly than the accident prevention efforts we have maintained from the beginning.

This program consists largely of plain, simple, human appeals and suggestions to our policyholders. Because they have cooperated accidents have been reduced, which in turn has reduced losses, permitting us to pay a 25% dividend to our automobile insurance policyholders every year since organization. In the five year period ended December 31, 1931 we returned $9,122,959.00 to our policyholders in dividends which was in effect a reduction of that amount in the cost of their insurance. This saving was made possible by careful underwriting, economical management and loss prevention.

Our position as one of the five largest automobile insurance writers in the country gives us added incentive and responsibility to continue our loss prevention program. Our policyholders know that it is the one effective way to reduce the cost of their automobile insurance—in fact all insurance.

NEW YORK BOND MART TRAVELS IN UNEVEN ROAD

Stocks on Curb Steady in Inactive Trade.

New York, May 9.—(AP)—The bond market travelled an uneven road today, with some specialties under pressure and others holding a little better than even. Altogether it was a comparatively dull session notwithstanding the aggregate was brought up substantially by the heavy selling of National Dairy Products 5½s, which showed a net loss of 4 points. There was nothing in the day's news to explain this decline.

United States government bonds generally were steady, although most of them ended with fractional declines. The easing of this list was attributed partly to profit taking.

The rails were the weakest members of the listed loans family. Heaviest declines were confined to the convertible and secondary issues. Among the principal losers were some liens of Santa Fe, Baltimore and Ohio, Boston and Maine, Canadian National, Canadian Pacific, St. Paul, Chicago and North Western, Rock Island, Chicago and Western Indiana, Erie, Great Northern, Missouri Pacific, New York Central, Nickel Plate, Northern Pacific, Frisco, Southern Pacific, Southern and Union Pacific. Frisco 4½s of 1978, registered, slumped 29 points. Advances were recorded, however, by Denver and Rio Grande 5s and consolidated 4s, Burlington 4½s, Chicago and Alton 3½s, Chesapeake corporation 5s, Pennsylvania general 4½s, and Wabash first 5s.

Utilities Kept Down.

Communications company loans kept the utilities down. Weakness was shown by bonds of International Telephone, Postal Telegraph, and Western Union. Power and Light corporation liens improved moderately. Softness was exhibited by mortgages of Armour & Co., Chile Copper, National Steel, Phillips Petroleum, Shell Pipe Line, Shell Union Oil, and United Drug.

French bonds were little disturbed by the Sunday election in France, most of them holding steady. The Germans advanced, as did some of the Argentines, Australians, Chileans, Italians, Norwegians, and Polish. Outside of the government 6½s, Japanese loans eased.

Curb Mart Inactive.

The New York curb market was inactive today and in the absence of selling pressure prices held about steady. A few stocks worked lower. Among them was Singer Manufacturing which, trading in 10 share lots, was off 2 points net. It did not, however, violate last week's low. Humble Oil sagged 1¾ on a single transaction toward the close; otherwise oils were steady. Commonwealth Edison gave up a couple of points and Duke Power sagged 10 on very light dealings, making a new bottom.

Cities Service preferred had an early sinking spell but made full recovery, closing half a point higher. Electric Bond and Share met good support, ruling at or above Saturday's final quotation and showing a small net gain. American Superpower and United Light A eased nominally. The former's preferred stocks firmed.

Swift stocks improved in the late afternoon. The International company's issues, sagging slightly during the morning, eventually rallied a point net while Swift & Co. closed ⅝ higher. National Dairy A preferred duplicated its year's high at 101. The issue is inactive.

One of the thin spots was Northern Indiana Public Service 7 per cent preferred which tumbled 10 points in one of its infrequent appearances on the tape.

EX-PRESIDENT OF WAUKEGAN BANK NOW BANKRUPT

A voluntary petition in bankruptcy has been filed in the federal court in Chicago on behalf of H. C. Burnett of 426 North Genesee street, Waukegan, president of the defunct Waukegan National bank. He was head of the institution at the time of its closing June 18, 1931. Burnett was the largest individual stockholder of the bank, holding 378 shares, on which there now lies a 100 per cent liability.

CHICAGO BOARD OF TRADE STOCKS

Temporary Writ in Kreuger Inquiry.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 9.—Following publication of a notice of the proposed sale at auction Wednesday of 350,000 shares of Diamond Match company common stock, the Irving Trust company, as receiver in bankruptcy of the International Match corporation, applied to Referee Oscar W. Ehrhorn, who granted a temporary stay enjoining the sale of the Diamond Match shares.

A hearing will be held by Referee Ehrhorn at noon tomorrow. Then the question of the continuance of the injunction will be argued.

The 350,000 shares of Diamond Match, representing exactly one-third of the total common shares of the company outstanding, were held by Bankers Trust company, National City bank, Union Trust Company of Pittsburgh, and Continental-Illinois Bank and Trust of Chicago as collateral securing a $3,800,000 note of International Match corporation.

Estimated receipts at Chicago today: Cattle, 7,000; hogs, 20,000; sheep, 10,000.

The hog market started out yesterday as if it had the strength to stage a mild rally without being forced, but weakness soon developed in several parts of the yards. Before midsession sellers were doing their utmost to stave off a sharp break.

All thoughts of a comeback vanished when prices commenced to sag. The close was sluggish with most values back to the 33½ year low spot established Saturday, April 30. Buyers shaved costs 5@10c in face of the largest shipping orders in two weeks. The extreme top at $3.80 was the same as Saturday's price, but showed 5c loss compared with Friday. The general average moved down 5c to $3.45. Action was slightly better after a 5@10c lower basis had been established and only 4,000 hogs remained unsold at the close. Supplies were about average for Monday.

Prices of Steers Break.

An ample supply of good to choice steers gave buyers the upper hand in the cattle market. Weakness prevailed in practically all classes, but concessions were not easily obtained and only after several hours of dickering did packers manage to lower costs 10@15c in the better grades of steers. Many sales were made at steady prices. The extreme top for the day at $7.75 was only 15c under the highest point of last week's trade. Nothing of outstanding quality averaging 1,300@1,500 lbs arrived, although several carloads of choice steers within this weight range brought $7.00@7.35. A string of 99 Colorado steers averaging in loads from 1,058 to 1,225 lbs topped the market at $7.75. The bulk of all beef steers sold at $5.40@7.00.

Few cattle weighing less than 1,000 lbs passed $6.50, this figure getting choice 757 lb mixed yearling steers and heifers. Yearling heifers averaging 1,000 lbs sold at $6.60. Steers comprised the bulk of offerings. The comparatively small supply of butcher stock sold almost steady.

Demand for New Crop.

Demand for lambs favored the new crop of springers yesterday. Prices in that class held steady, while others had to be knocked down 25@35c before they could be moved. Choice California springers sold readily at $7.75 to local packers, while city butchers paid up to $7.85. Sorted 62 lb. milk-fed natives reached $8.00, the choice ewes and wethers going at the top, while buck lambs were sorted out at $7.00 and culls at $6.00.

Packer Talks of Prices.

Toledo, O., May 9.—(AP)—E. A. Cudahy Jr., president of the Cudahy Packing company, told retail dealers today that economic conditions had produced an almost chaotic state in the live stock and meat industry.

Cudahy spoke at the opening session of the 47th annual convention of the National Association of Retail Meat Dealers, to which four thousand dealers are expected during the four day meetings. Cudahy said cattle are selling at 1911 prices and hogs at 1897 figures.

NOTICE OF CLOSE OF DEPOSITS

Franklin Towers, New York, May 23, 1932.

After that date bonds of that issue will not be accepted for deposit by the depositaries. The depositaries are: Chicago Title and Trust Company, 69 West Washington Street, Chicago, Illinois; or Bank Farmers Trust Company, 22 William Street, New York, New York (successor to Bank of America, N. A.). The Atlantic National Bank of Boston, 10 Post Office Square, Boston, Massachusetts.

Plan of reorganization on the above property has been adopted by the Committee and can be obtained from any of the depositaries or from the Secretary, G. L. WIRE, 111 West Monroe Street, Chicago, Illinois.

Depositors who desire to dissent to the plan of reorganization must have in the hands of the depositaries with whom their bonds are deposited [1] a letter of dissent, [2] a remittance for Committee expenses, and [3] the certificate of deposit duly endorsed (the genuineness of the endorsement must be guaranteed by a bank) prior to the close of business on the date appearing after the issue otherwise depositors will be deemed to have assented to the plan of reorganization.

Franklin Towers, New York, May 12, 1932.

Committee for the Protection of Holders of First Mortgage Bonds Sold Through the American Bond and Mortgage Company, Detroit Officials Confer on Loan Renewal.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., May 9.—A $20,000,000 issue of city bonds carrying 5 per cent interest will be offered for sale on June 3. This was decided today. It had originally been determined to float a $15,000,000 issue, but this offering was postponed last week when Mayor J. Hampton Moore and Controller Will B. Hadley disagreed on how the proceeds should be spent.

By raising the amount of the issue the officials took steps to have enough money on hand to meet contractors' claims and to pay off $10,451,781 of debts piled up by land purchases during the last few years.

If the issue is not purchased by banks and syndicates on June 3 the balance will be placed on sale to the public in $100 units over the counter in the city treasurer's office.

Detroit Seeks Renewal.

Controller G. Hall Roosevelt of the city of Detroit, Mich., conferred with bankers in New York today regarding renewal of a short term loan of $4,169,000 which will mature Wednesday.

The spokesman for the New York banking group, which is headed by the Bankers Trust company, the National City bank, the Chase National bank, and the Guaranty Trust company, said no arrangements had yet been made, but that a proposition would have to come from Detroit officials tomorrow.

Ottawa, Canada, Issue.

Canadian banking houses will shortly offer $3,151,607 city of Ottawa 5½ per cent debentures, in four maturities, with a maximum of thirty years. The proceeds will be used for unemployment relief, public works and local improvements, largest item being in connection with new filtration plant.

The state of Maryland plans to sell in June $1,000,000 bridge bonds, probably 4½s, and also purposes to offer in August $3,076,000 general construction bonds and $375,000 Ocean City Inlet bonds. The bridge financing will represent the second and final installment of a $2,000,000 bridge loan, the first portion of which was sold in June, 1931. The other two issues represent the completion of the $8,163,000 program of state financing authorized by the state legislature last year.

WHEAT DEALERS AWAIT CROP REPORT TODAY

Far East Situation Closely Watched.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

New incentives are needed to get the wheat market out of the rut. Traders were inclined to act cautiously yesterday owing to uncertainty as to what the government report due at 3 p. m. today would show.

Prices held within a range of ¾@1c the latter on the May with the average slightly higher than Saturday's finish due in large part to sympathy with Liverpool. The finish was ¼c lower on May, which was 54¼@54⅝c at the last while the distant positions were ⅛@¼c higher with old July at 56⅞@57c; old September, 59¼@59⅜c, and December, 62⅜@62½c.

Reports that Russia had bought a cargo of Canadian wheat via Vancouver for shipment to Vladivostok and that Russian Baltic ports were inquiring for Argentina grain, as well as the purchase of 2 cargoes of the latter by Spain were responsible for an upturn of ⅜@⅝c in Liverpool, and there was also some outside buying. May there was 57½c at the last or 3⅛c over Chicago at the time. Winnipeg had a holiday which tended to restrict operations in the local market to a considerable extent.

Fear Trouble in Far East.

The traders are not overlooking possibility of trouble developing in the far east between Japan and Russia. There was a little buying based on press cables telling of a strained political situation, but the rank and file of traders are disposed to go slow on war talk at the present time. Cables to the department of agriculture from Europe claimed that Russian spring wheat seeding was later than last year when it was abnormally late in the important northern sections of the Ukraine and Caucasus.

There was talk of a good foreign demand at the seaboard for cash wheat, but the business appeared to be confined to Manitobas and durums and sales were finally placed at 300,000 to 400,000 bu. A decrease of 2,779,000 bu in the domestic visible supply brought the total down to 174,902,000 bu, against 193,831,000 bu last year.

Little attention was paid to crop reports during the day. Further rains were shown in parts of the west and southwest, but the general tendency was to wait for the government report.

Corn Has Narrow Range.

Corn futures held within a range of ¼@⅝c, the latter on the distant positions. Trade was largely of a local character with little in the general run of the news to cause any enthusiastic buying or selling. Shipping demand showed some improvement with sales of 108,000 bu, while there was 4,000 bu booked to arrive. Closing trades were unchanged to ⅛c higher with May at 29¾c; July, 32⅜@32½c; September, 34⅝@34¾c, and December 34¾c.

Wet weather prevailed over part of the corn belt which may delay field work for a short time, but the forecast was for generally fair with warmer in the west and northwest. The visible supply increased 479,000 bu for the week and aggregates 21,897,000 bu against 16,863,000 bu last year.

Oats closed unchanged to ⅛c lower, with May at 23⅛c; July, 22⅝@22¾c; September, 22⅝c, and December, 24⅛@24⅝c. Crop reports continue favorable.

Russia was inquiring for rye for shipment from Montreal yesterday, according to reports received by the trade. This failed to have any material effect on futures, however, which closed ⅛c lower to ⅛c higher, with May at 37⅞c; July, 40⅛c; September, 42⅝c, and December, 44⅝c.

OCTOBER EGGS LOWER

Pressure on October eggs increased on the Chicago mercantile exchange yesterday and prices fell off another ¼c. Butter futures again were unchanged. Support was fairly active in eggs early, but died out near midsession, while selling increased. New selling and liquidation were prompted by storage reports, which showed an inward movement nearly equal to that of last year. Butter reports were fairly bullish, the four markets reporting an outward movement of stocks, increasing the shortage 170,000 lbs, but speculative interest for the present is missing. Sales: Butter, 13 cars; eggs, 63 cars. Deliveries: Eggs, 1 car. Prices follow:

LARD TRADE FAIR

Speculative trading in lard futures was limited, without any particular features. The tone was easy, with the close 2½c net lower. There was no business in bellies and prices nominally were unchanged. Liverpool lard was 2@3d lower. Hogs were at the season's low, with receipts decidedly heavier than a week and year ago at western points. Exports of lard for the week were 5,932,000 lbs, compared with 8,627,000 lbs last year. Of bacon they were 3,900,000 lbs, against 4,791,000 lbs last year. Prices follow:

PIT NOTES

It is expected that the wheat trade will not do much other than evening up for the government report due at 3 o'clock. Estimates are for about 442,000,000 to 475,000,000 bushels winter wheat. Last month's estimate was 458,000,000 bushels, which surprised the trade. Private estimates for May average 463,000,000 bushels. Last year's final was 787,000,000 bushels. There will be no report on spring wheat.

A more mixed sentiment prevailed in the wheat market. Russian news was more in favor of holders and uncertainty as to the government report induces traders to go slow on both sides of the market, and they were considered as fairly evened up at the finish. The poor response to bullish news is due to continued absence of outside business and to a growing conviction on part of many local operators that there is little attraction in the present situation to inspire sufficient buying or selling to cause pronounced changes in prices in either direction. The continued heavy reduction in the visible supply of wheat is regarded as an important factor, especially as the total stocks are around 18,922,000 bushels less than a year ago.

by the use of trade acceptances in ordinary productive commercial transactions, namely, to pay our current bills for goods purchased for resale or materials bought for manufacture by accepting 90-day drafts, which can be discounted at commercial banks and rediscounted, where necessary, at a federal reserve bank, thus affording commercial paper collateral for federal reserve note issue. It has been done in good times and if done now would help materially to improve conditions and stimulate business generally."

Urge Confidence, Not Inflation.

Another view of the situation is presented under the caption: "Which Road — Confidence or Inflation?" by Munds, Winslow & Potter, brokers and investment bankers.

"We do not need inflation," the firm says. "Nothing will drive us more speedily into that morass of economic degradation than a political resort of nostrums that will tend still further to accentuate distrust and fear. We believe we are supported by public opinion that the chief element in the destruction of confidence has been the attitude, as well as the acts, of congress.

"We need confidence to make credit function. We need leadership to aid in the restoration of confidence. To whom shall we look for it? So far as congress is concerned, there must be a return to sanity and a patriotic devotion to national welfare. We must have economy along strict business lines combined with a deaf ear to the pressure of powerful political groups such as self-seeking farmer leaders, bonus advocates and other applicants for largesse from the public treasury.

"In the executive branch, we must have leadership, sound, practical and above all, courageous. There must be no pussyfooting. There is no leadership in an attitude that waits to get its inspiration from the uninformed masses. It must be bold enough to step out in front and, with an eye single to the needs of the whole people, mold public opinion."

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, May 9.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw was unchanged as far as nearby supplies were concerned, but the undertone was firmer and holders were asking fractionally higher prices than those prevailing at the close of last week. Refiners were said to be showing some interest at 2 points above the last sale price of 2.58c, but there was nothing available below 2.63c, while for later shipment higher prices prevailed. The only sale to a refiner was 9,000 bags of Philippines concluded late last week at 2.58c delivered, while an operator today paid 2.70c for 18,000 bags of Philippines for June-July shipment, which was 6 points above the last sale in this position. Futures were decidedly firmer, reflecting the strength in London and the better tone of the spot market. Approximate sales, 18,500 tons. Prices follow:

Refined sugar was quiet and unchanged at 3.75c for fine granulated, with a fair hand-to-mouth inquiry reported.

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, May 9.—(AP)—Cotton goods opened fairly steady in the gray goods division, with the demand showing a little more breadth. Finished goods were called for in small lots for prompt shipment. Wool goods were in light demand at the opening. Rayon producers are making more vigorous efforts to extend the quality control plan to avoid debasing of cloth constructions. Silks were quiet, with prices still irregular. Burlaps showed little change.

Commonwealth Customers—PAY LESS—for LOANS

$2.93 is the average Monthly Cost of a $225 loan under COMMONWEALTH'S Reduced in Rate Plan. This allows 23 months for repayment. There is no lower cost than this in Chicago.

THE personal property which nearly every family owns and the signature of husband and wife enable one to secure any amount up to $300 quickly and easily.

NO FEES. You get full amount of the loan and up to 25 months to repay. Interest at the Reduced Rate is charged only while you keep the money.

Also Salary and Auto Loans.
